THE STORY.
Aaron Whitaker is a seafaring man, owner of the sailing ship, Alden Besse. He has promised Jacob Babcock, his first mate, that his daughter, Esther, shall become Babcock's wife. But Esther is in love with Caleb Tilden, her childhood sweetheart, and her grandfather in sympathetic interest, advises her to marry Caleb and run the chance of gaining her father's forgiveness.

The Alden Besse is at sea when Esther's marriage to Tilden takes place. At about the same time Grandfather Whitaker dies. Jacob Babcock has remained ashore for the purpose of marrying Esther, and when the Alden Besse returns and her skipper finds that his daughter has married Babcock, his anger is intense. Accidentally he discovers, in Esther's sewing

HOUSE PETERS AND MYRTLE STEDMAN IN STRONG SOCIETY DRAMA AT ARCADE TODAY.

House Peters and Myrtle Stedman, having scored such a success as co-stars in "The Happiness of Three Women" will again be seen as co-stars at the Arcade today and tomorrow in the virile Pallas-Paramount production "As Men Love," a thrilling society drama by Lois Zellner.

The story of "As Men Love" deals with modern society and the enduring friendship of one man for another. They have been chums since boyhood—have shared each other's sorrows and joys. One of them marries, but the wife, a frivolous society woman, believes that she is in love with the other man. Aroused by the chum's attention to her sister-in-law, she throws herself into his arms where she is discovered by her husband.
