with the pen than with the brush. He was not a prolific writer, but he has given to American literature some of its best works, and the greatest of these is considered by many to be "The Tides of Barnegat."

"INTOLERANCE," GRIFFITH'S LATEST SPECTACLE IS BOOKED FOR THE ARCADE

D. W. Griffith's latest great spectacle, "Intolerance," one of the current season's biggest hits in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, San Francisco and Los Angeles, is booked to appear at the Arcade Theatre June 23 and 24.

In this, said to be the most magnificent production of all time, Mr. Griffith gives visual presentation of four different decades—mighty Babylon in the days of Belshazzar, Judea at the time of the Nazarine, Medieval France when Catherine de Medici dictated to her son Charles IX, and the present—and throughout them all he sustains most interestingly the motive of the play—love's struggle throughout the ages.

Possibly the most stupendously magnificent scenes are those which, representing Belshazzar's feast, disclose a panoramic view of over a mile of ancient world splendors and architectural wonders against which diaphanously attired women and picturesquely clad men stand out in stereoscopic relief.

Such battle scenes as those revealing the clash of Belshazzar's forces and the hordes of Cyrus, the Persian, on and about the mighty walls of Babylon are breath-taking. You see catapults and battering rams, cross bows, and flaming engines in action. You see huge moving siege towers with their compliment of gladiators crash to the ground; you see mighty men in hand to hand conflict—ancient warfare thrilling, inspiring, so real that you cannot believe it mimic.

There are three love stories in "Intolerance," each with its own set of characters. The principal players of the largest cast ever assembled for any stage production numbers among other screen celebrities Mae Marsh, Lillian Gish, Miriam Cooper, Constance Talmadge, Bessie Love, Seena Owen, Margery Wilson, Robert Herron, Alfred Paget, Elmer Clifton, Tully Marshall, and Walter Long.

Whooping Cough.

In this disease it is important that the cough be kept loose and expectation easy, which can be done by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mrs. P. H. Martin, Peru, Ind., writes, "My two daughters had whooping cough. I gave them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and it worked like a charm."—Adv.

BLANCHE SWEET IN F. HOPKINSON SMITH'S FAMOUS STORY AT ARCADE.

Blanche Sweet, Lasky-Paramount star, will be seen at the Arcade today in the Jesse L. Lasky photodramatic adaptation of F. Hopkinson Smith's famous story, "The Tides of Barnegat," a thrilling drama of the life of a little colony of fisher folk near the famous bay on the Jersey coast.

In "The Tides of Barnegat," in the role of a school teacher, Miss Sweet bears the blame of her sister's shame, sacrificing the love of her sweetheart, and is about to be driven from the village that her own flesh and blood may be protected. In this role of deep sympathy and human understanding she adequately fulfills all the expectations this noted part demands.

F. Hopkinson Smith, author of "The Tides of Barnegat," was by profession a marine architect, but by choice and talent, a painter and writer. His admirers believe that he was more versatile, and painted better pictures

COLONIAL

RICHARD JOSE PRODUCT OF WEST.

Famous Singer Will Appear in Person at Colonial Theatre Tonight.

Richard J. Jose, who will appear at the Colonial theatre tonight, is known the world over as America's foremost contra-tenor. He first claimed attention when as a lad of 10 he was a burly miner—of the Nevada camp in which he lived, and considered at that time the wildest spot in America; thrown into a gambling hall and commanded by the hilarious gathering to sing.

The boy was cold, his sockless feet were lacerated by his well-worn shoes and hunger pains gnawed at his little body as he sang in a sweet plaintive tone "Silver Threads Among the Gold." The place was soon hushed in silence, the roulette wheel stopped, the clinking of the chips and coins were silent and from that gathering of fearless gamblers not a sound came, while most of them were actually crying.

When the song was finished and the tension was at the breaking point, someone said, "Do you know any more songs, Bub?" Dick nodded and started to sing "Nearer My God to Thee." Men who had not seen the inside of a church for years removed their hats and fell to their knees on the floor. The boy was forced to sing this hymn three times. All gambling was suspended for the night, and the boy's presence threatened to put the place out of business. They gave him food and offered him drink. The latter the boy refused, and up to the present day, with "Silver Threads" above his own brow, Richard Jose has never known the taste of liquor in any form.

After the episode in the gambling house, the news spread about the camp how the boy's singing stopped the game and from that moment the start of Richard J. Jose's career began its ascendancy, which resulted in the world being given the benefit of hearing the most melodious voice ever bestowed as a heavenly gift upon man.

For twenty years or more, Mr. Jose has been recognized as the world's greatest contra-tenor. Mothers have told unto their daughters, fathers unto their sons, of the sweetness of the tones of this immortal vocalist.
