Water and street superintendent Hoyt is at the Beaver creek intake and therefore unable to fill his report for the week. His report by telephone today was to the effect that the reservoir was completely filled and that water was running over the spillway to a depth of six inches. He also reported that the leaks mentioned in last year's report seem to have stopped as there is practically no leakage in the dam. The increased amount of water in Beaver creek reservoir has brought the water line higher than ever before, therefore washing sticks and pine needles into the pipe line, which has caused considerable trouble in the service pipes of the city. Although we have been able to maintain the pressure there has been some meter trouble.
The street department has repaired a number of cross walls and hauled gravel from N street to fill low places where needed on streets. Some grading has been done but have been able to get along with two men and two teams.
Have had list of those delinquent to the different improvement districts, who have shown no tendency to meet their obligations, and will place same in the hands of the city attorney early next week for immediate collection.

Earning, Spending and Saving

Making money is a business; spending it a necessity; saving it an art.
Many people make money; practically every one spends money; but only the thrifty save it.
Thrift means laying aside the extra dollar that represents youth and vigor to offset the minus dollar that later on will represent old age and decreased vitality.

FRANCE IS A GRAVEYARD ENGLAND IS EXHAUSTED
Tacoma, Wash., June 21.—(United Press)—"France is a graveyard and England is exhausted. America must save the world."
That is the message brought to Tacoma by William Hambleton from the battlefields of Europe. His assertion is backed by 18 months spent with the Canadian regiments. He was seriously wounded when the Canadians captured Vimy ridge.

However, Hambleton says the United States will finally win the war—when?—well, that depends entirely upon the manner and speed shown by this country during the next few months in getting started and the spirit aroused in America, he declares.

Hambleton tells a vivid story of the fighting overseas. The Germans take the dead from the fields, he declared today, to laboratories behind the lines where chemicals are made for gas bombs, certain kinds of shells and the acids used in gas attacks.
Two months after Hambleton enlisted, his wife joined a hospital unit. She has been honorably discharged and the two will go to Los Angeles, their former home, to live.

for Shedd, Ore., this morning to visit the home of her son, Miles Booth.
Mrs. Mary Elbert, of Pullman, was in the city last evening on her way to Entreprise where she will visit with her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Jones.
Mrs. H. E. Cooldige and family leave tonight for San Francisco where they will join Mr. Cooldige who is in the Officers' Training Camp.
Miss Bernice Lloyd, Mrs. MacDonald, of Portland, and Mrs. Dupes left for Casey today for a short visit. Mrs. MacDonald is on her way to her home in Portland.
J. M. Erickson, manager of the Inland Chautauqua circuit, is in the city. Mr. Erickson was superintendent of the Chautauqua here last year. Mr. Erickson heard Mr. Bonn, the New York Times war correspondent, at Los Angeles. He discussed the "Mind of Germany." He said Mr. Bonn made a wonderful, clear, convincing speech. Mr. Bonn doesn't attempt flights of oratory but his audience is held to the close. He is a scholar and a brilliant student. Mr. Bonn will be heard here. No one will be disappointed in Mr. Bonn's lecture, said Mr. Erickson.
Jackson Wright was in today from Lower Cove. He says the spring grain looks well but that the fall grain looks bad.
T. J. Allen, of Cove, was in the city today on business and called at the Observer office.
Geo. Miller, of Cove, returned from Portland this morning.

Do Your Work Well.
It is necessary that we work before we can enjoy recreation, for without work there can be no such thing as recreation.
We are placed in a world full of work by a wise Creator, and it is our means of justifying our existence to him and our fellow men.
It is our only reliable source of permanent happiness and contentment as well as the means of worldly advancement.
All work is service, either directly or indirectly, and I think that that feeling of satisfaction and contentment that comes over us at the end of a day's work well done can be traced back to the rule that "it is more blessed to give than to receive." If we can look back over our day's work and feel that there is in us we have done everything.
This applies to the humble laborer as well as to the highest official. The job doesn't matter; it is how it is done that counts. A day's work well done is one of life's greatest achievements. Do your best every day at what you are doing now and your advancement will take care of itself. He who is depending on some special dispensation of Providence for his advancement is doomed to disappointment.
So the next time we feel that we are tired of our work or that we have to work too hard let's reflect that a "soft job will never get us anywhere," for it is only through hard, difficult work that the best there is in us is developed, and therein lie our greatest opportunities. —John Barrett.
