WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD FINDS
WOMEN EQUALS OF MEN IN RUSSIA

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD. (United Press Staff Correspondent.)
Petrograd, May 1.—(By Mail)—Mrs. Russian People stands side by side with her husband in this revolution. She speaks at meetings, votes, leads and writes for the scores of little newspapers that have sprung up all over Russia, just as if she were an ordinary male human being. In the simple, child-like Russian mind, no question seems to have arisen as to the rights of women. When I asked whether she would vote in the new Russia, the Russian women realized immediately that I was either an Englishman or an American. "Why there's no question about it," said one Russian woman shrugging her shoulders. "We've had bigger things to fight for in Russia than the right of women to vote. We've fought side by side with the men for human rights with no question of sex involved. We've gone to jail, and we've died and we've taken our turns at assassinations. Only an Anglo-Saxon, if you'll pardon me for plain speaking, would think of raising such a question." The answer was calculated to make an Anglo-Saxon feel like a wife-beater. "I approached four of the women who sat at the various committee tables around the duma building and plainly put to each one of them this question: "Madame, have you ever been in jail?" They had—all four of them. They told their stories with proud smiles. They had not been prisoners in the Cat and Mouse fashion in which the suffragettes of London have been jailed, nor in the spot-light manner in which Mrs. Sanger and the birth-control advocates in New York have lingered for a few weeks at a time behind bars—but in the way of the Russian Czar, with cold, dark cells and silence; little food and long, lonely, hopeless years of waiting. "Has any woman in Russia ever been put in jail for demanding women's rights?" I asked one of these women who had been jailed for a part in the Stolypin assassination. She was sitting in the office of the new national peasants' union, presiding over the book in which the incoming peasant delegates from every part of Russia were entering their names. "Never! Never!" she said emphatically. "That's one crime that has never been charged against the Czar. But we Russian women haven't been like the American and English women. The rights of all human beings, men and women, have been at stake in Russia and men and women have been fighting side by side for them. All of us men and women, have considered ourselves as human beings without any sex differences. Now that the revolution is won, men and women are still side by side. Nobody has raised the question of women's rights in the revolution until you American and English newspaper men came along." "But are you women sure that you will be allowed to vote in the new government?" "Why just as sure as the men are, the question isn't even raised, I tell you. It hasn't occurred to anybody that women might NOT vote."

Fined For Carrying Concealed Weapons

Frank White and Corlis Hayhurst, the two young fellows who were arrested Tuesday were tried in the police court yesterday morning and each fined $50 for carrying concealed weapons.

While acting Chief Christiansen was talking to White on the day of his arrest the young fellow very calmly rolled a cigarette and proceeded to smoke it. When questioned regarding the use of cigarettes he stated that he didn't know that he was disobeying the law. According to Christiansen the youngster could be sued on two points of law: disobeying the cigarette act and for petty larceny.

Both boys are being held over for trial by the civil court on the charge of stealing.

Spraying for Coddling Moth.

It is high time that spraying for the coddling moth be done. The use of 2 pounds of a paste form of arsenate of lead or 1 pound of the powdered form to 50 gallons of water will be effective. The main point is to be thorough in your application, and further to have plenty of pressure. The object of spraying at the present time is to force the poison into the calyx before it closes, as the young worm when attacking the apple usually enters the calyx end of the apple and begins feeding. When this is thoroughly poisoned the first meal the worm gets kills him. We have not much time left to do this, the most important of the sprays for the moth. If you have been bothered with the scab add 1 gallon of lime sulphur solution to every 30 gallons of the arsenate of lead solution.

Last year if the first application was done before the calyx closed and plenty of pressure was used there were practically no other worms later in the season.

Scale Weed.

While walking through a wheat field near Alicel the other day I noticed a fairly liberal scattering of lusty scale weed plants. They were fairly evenly distributed over the field and averaged probably as large as any scale weed plants I have seen. I came across one particularly large one which had 15 stems that averaged 250 seed pods to the stem, and each pod averaged about 14 seeds. Take your pencil and figure out approximately how many seeds that one plant will produce. Of course not all the plants were anywhere near as large as this individual, but the seeds will average from 10 to 20 in a pod whether the plant be large or small, and those who have had experience with this pest realize that the seed seems to have a rather high percentage of germination.

I have noticed that this weed is getting a mighty good start in numerous fence rows in parts of the county where at present it is not a serious pest. It is high time that you get busy and clean up your fence rows wherever possible because we know this to be one of the most fertile sources of weeds in our fields, and particularly so with scale weed. If you want to see a good example of clean fence rows and clean fields take notice of the Chas. Playle place the next time you go by. His fields and fence rows would be no more free of weeds than any others if he did not systematically get after them. Mr. Playle made the statement one day that the reason we have so many weeds in our fields is because "we do not like a hoe handle well enough." While he does not hoe out all his weeds, he does use a hoe where he cannot get it done with a cultivator, harrow, or some other implement.

Chiefly intended for delivery automobiles is a new attachment for a car that stops it at a set distance from a starting point, enabling a driver to call at several houses and find his machine waiting for him.

To keep railroad tracks clear of weeds and brush a South Dakota man has invented a mowing machine, operated by a gasoline engine, to be mounted on a hand car.

An English farm is devoted exclusively to raising butterflies, of which more than 30,000 are sold annually.

Corks steeped in vaseline can be used in many cases where glass ones are desired.

4 Times the saving

The first-hand, cash, saving in buying one Diamond Tire is evident.

Add to that the longer and better service for the money.

Naturally, four Diamonds multiply that saving and service for you by four.

Enormous production—great manufacturing economies—studious bettering of product—low selling cost—these combine to your benefit.

You may need but one tire now. Get a Diamond Squeegee Tread. Keep on until you are driving on four Diamonds—and saving on each.

Every Diamond Tire must deliver full value in service. If ever a Diamond Tire fails, a cheerful, willing adjustment will be promptly made.
