ARCADE

EXCEPTIONAL BILL AT ARCADE TODAY AND TOMORROW

For the combination of a thrilling "detective story" sort of plot with a love story that is romantic enough to suit the most exacting matinee girl, "Sleeping Fires," a Famous Players-

Paramount production, starring the talented Pauline Frederick, has no superior. The "detective" side of the story comes in through the efforts of an unscrupulous woman to marry another woman's husband, attempting in every way possible to make her divorce him. The love-story part is introduced through the efforts of a young lawyer, Thomas Meighan, to free the wronged wife of an accusation of murder—and the combination may be seen at the Arcade theatre today and tomorrow.

On the same bill is Fatty Arbuckle in his second two-reel Paramount comedy, "A Reckless Romeo." Those who saw his first comedy "The Butcher Boy" know the class of comedies he is putting out and it is needless to say that in "A Reckless Romeo," those who love good clean comedy will find it there, for as "Fatty" says, "There is so much good fun to be gotten out of life that there is no necessity of resorting to questionable methods in order to win a laugh."

"THE PRICE SHE PAID" BY DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS COMING TO ARCADE

"The Price She Paid," with Clara Kimball Young as the star, will be the Selznick-Pictures feature at the Arcade theatre next Monday and Tuesday. This photodrama of the life of a beautiful young society woman is from the immensely popular novel by David Graham Phillips. It outlines the problems in the life of a young woman, used to luxurious surroundings, who finds herself almost without resources. After a disastrous marriage she determines to become an opera singer, and the difficulties she encounters form a series of scenes of unusual interest. How she finally reaches independence and freedom is a fascinating story. The director is Charles Giblyn, this being the first of his Selznick productions.

Death of Mrs. Fraker.

Pendleton, June 29.—(Special)—Mrs. Elizabeth F. Fraker, mother of W. J. Furnish and Mrs. Robert Slater, who died in Portland, Sunday night, was buried in Portland Tuesday.

Sports---

The Same Old Twirler.

W. J. Ramey, the Nezperce lumberman, was among those who took in the ball game Sunday. He stated that the first game of ball he ever witnessed in Idaho was at Kamiah, twenty years ago, and McCoy Hill, our present twirler, was the pitcher.—Kamiah, Idaho, Progress.

CABBAGE AND RADISHES.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Oregon, June 29.—(Special)—Wholesale injury to roots of cabbage and to radishes by a small white maggot is reported daily to the entomology department at O. A. C. Professor Lovett, entomologist at the Oregon experiment station discusses the pest and its control as follows:

"The adult of the cabbage and radish maggot is a small brown, hump-backed fly, a little more than one-half the size of a house fly. These flies deposit eggs on the soil about the roots of cabbage and radish. These eggs hatch in from twenty to thirty-six hours into a small maggot, which bores its way into the roots of the plants.

"Screening of the permanent radish beds and of the cabbage seed beds to prevent the adult fly getting in to deposit eggs is the most satisfactory method of control. Regular window screen is excellent, or one may use a coarse grade of cheese cloth, running about 16 threads to the inch. The screen should be supported over a frame and the edges wrapped over to the soil so as to make it fly-proof.

"For cabbage and cauliflower plants already set out but not yet infested, there is nothing better than the tarred felt discs. These should be cut about two inches across, with a slit running to the center. About 25 of them may be placed in a pile and a spike nail driven through the center to form a hole through which the stem of the plant could run. These are placed close to the soil. Where the disks cannot be easily obtained, and in case of radishes where it is not possible to screen, use tobacco dust. A small amount of this material dusted on the soil around the plant will serve to repel the fly and prevent eggs being deposited. As tobacco dust is quite expensive it may be mixed with an equal amount of wood ashes, air slaked lime, or some similar dust.

"For plants already affected, there is nothing that is really satisfactory, but the following emulsion will kill many eggs and maggots:

- Crude carbolic acid 1 pint
- Fish oil soap 1 pound
- Water 1 gallon

Cut the soap in fine shavings and dissolve in boiling water. Remove from the fire and add slowly the crude carbolic acid, stirring vigorously. Continue the vigorous agitation until an emulsion is formed. To one part of this stock emulsion, add forty parts of water. This weak solution may be poured along the rows of radish plants or about the cabbage plants, using about 1-2 pint to a cabbage plant. This same material will prevent infection by the maggot if used at eight-day intervals."

SUMMER SCHOOL RECORDS SHOW MEN IN DEMAND

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, June 29.—(Special)—While total registration indicates increased attendance the number of men is below that of last year. The demand for men in national, military, and civil service during the present national crisis is clearly indicated in the registration figures of the Oregon Agricultural College summer session for 1917. These figures show that while slightly increased attendance is indicated the increase is wholly among women students and that there has been a large dropping off in the number of men. The figures for the first three days were 1916, 243; 1917, 222. This does not include a large number, chiefly women, registered as home makers or teachers who have already appeared for registration in the special emergency work. When those already on the campus have registered it will bring the total figure somewhat above the figures for a corresponding date last year.

A large part of the deflection in the number of men is in the regular College student body. Scores of these men who have had from 2 to 4 years of military drill and military science and tactics are with the State and Federal armies and the U. S. navy. About 100 of this number are enrolled in the reserve officers training corps many of whom have already been accepted and given commissions as second lieutenants in the regular U. S. army.

Another considerable number of men students are absent in the food preparedness work that is being conducted cooperatively by the College and the United States Department of Agriculture. These are serving as county agents, assistant county agents, and directors of agricultural operations in various parts of Oregon.

A considerable number of men teachers who normally take work in industrial education at O. A. C. have also accepted commissions in the army or other branches of military service or in some branches of the agricultural work.
