DUELING POPULAR IN ARGENTINA
Buenos Aires, June 10.—(By Mail)—(United Press)—Items like the following, which appeared in the Buenos Aires Herald recently, are seen frequently in the Argentine press:
"In the 'quinta' (dooryard) of Dr. Delcasce, a prominent lawyer, situated in Belgrano (a Buenos Aires suburb), a duel with sabres was fought yesterday between Senores Manuel Rocca and Ezequiel B. Casbas before several witnesses. Senor Rocca was wounded slightly in the first assault, when the duel was called off and the antagonists became reconciled upon the field of honor."
For hitting a man with your fist, if blood is drawn, the minimum Argentine penalty is six months' imprisonment without the option of a fine, but the police never pay any attention to duelists. Argentine duels, too, sometimes result fatally.

SPORT NEWS. BRITTON'S RECORD ONE OF HISTORY'S BEST

BY H. C. HAMILTON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, July 6.—Jack Britton is 32 years old.

With a margin of seven or eight years over most of the top-notch scrappers in the United States Britton has been successfully defending the title of the welterweight champion against all comers. After he decided he wanted to be king among the 142-pounders Britton hasn't barred anyone. Twelve times he met Ted Lewis, the hard-hitting and shifty Englishman and finally met him in a twenty-round affair at Dayton, only to lose his championship.
Britton, whose name is William J. Breslin, began fighting in 1905. He met all of them, beginning with the little fellows and working his way straight through the lightweight class. The best of them were never too good for him. He was credited with being the cleverest lightweight in the game, aside from Packey McFarland, who undoubtedly was a welter weight even in the best days of his lightweight career.

Britton was charged with being a dancing master sort of boxer—one of the decidedly unpopular Freddie Welsh type, but his record shows plenty of knockouts over some of the toughest boys who ever fought in the divisions he went through.

Kid Farmer was one of the men who fell before the smashes Britton turned loose, and it would be hard to find anywhere in the records a boxer tougher than Farmer.
Britton also credits himself with a victory in eighteen rounds in New Orleans over Charlie White, but as a matter of fact, White was getting such a terrific cuffing that the bout was awarded to Britton and he should be given credit for a technical knockout.

Britton is a steady trainer, never out of condition, always ready to jump a few hundred miles and fight. And he never has been known to really disappoint an audience. The times in his career when the newspapers have panned him for his boxing have been very few. Even his bout with Packey McFarland in Milwaukee, when Packey was unmercifully hauled over the fiery coals of criticism yielded nothing of severe censure for Britton.

Britton has been a real pleaser, the kind the fans wanted, and it will be surprising if he doesn't retrieve laurels he lost to Lewis.

Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy.
Now is the time to buy a bottle of this remedy so as to be prepared in case that any one of your family should have an attack of colic or diarrhoea during the summer months. It is worth a hundred times its cost when needed.—Adv.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Mending Helps.
It is very annoying to catch one's new black silk umbrella on a nail and tear a little hole in it, but when the catastrophe has actually happened it is a consolation to know the best way to remedy it. Take a small piece of black sticking plaster and soak it until quite soft. Place this carefully under the hole inside and let it dry. This is better than darning, as it closes the hole neatly without stitches.

Cotton Thread for Gloves.
Gloves should be mended with cotton thread, not silk. When kid or suede gloves wear out, patch them with kid of the same color. This keeps the shape of the glove and will not pull out as quickly as if the two edges of the tear were brought together and overhand with a button-hole stitch.

E. E. KIRTLEY Ladies' Ready-to-Wear

Army Mules Have Their Bray Removed

BY HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
With the French Army Afield, June 25—(By Mail)—Uncle Sam rendered France a great service in letting her have his mules—at a very good price—but France has returned the service a thousand times by solving the secret of a brayless mule.

When the American pack mule arrived in France to "do his bit" he of course brought his bray with him.

The mule was welcome but the bray—well an unusual sound on a battlefield is undesirable. It might tip off the Boche to a surprise attack.

In an effort to put an end to the nightly "love song" of the pack mule the French military officers decided to separate the sexes, and all gentlemen mules were retained for service in one sector while all of the lady mules were taken off for service in a more distant region.

This produced very marked results. Nevertheless there still remained certain mules who either from force of habit or from conviction that both their love and their voice were strong that their lady loves would hear them no matter how far away they might be, persisted in making the welkin ring with a gigantic bray just at the place and time when it would give the "Boches" the right cue for sending in a hail of shells, grenades and rifle fire.

The habits and temperament of the mule were then subjected to further and more profound study by the French and this time with more happy results. It was found that a very slight operation performed on the nostrils of a mule would render him as silent as a wrecked phonograph, and since then the American mules in the Vosges have met all requirements that could possibly be exacted from them.
