The reported it to the sheriff and they have been looking for it ever since Tuesday. It was found west of Summerville by some little children. Mr. Baker telephoned to Mr. Page and they went after it. A Question

Could we have grown in a few short years from one small store to the largest organization of the kind in existence to day, had we given anything but the best of merchandise for the least money? Could we have amassed such an enormous following, and hold and add to our patronage had we not offered inducements that cement a customer to our store, and cause him or her to influence others to trade with us? Square and honest dealings—36 inches to the yard—and modern methods—quick sales and small profits has placed us in the merchandise field today where we fear no competitors.
