The Experimental Farm

(Reply to Robt. Withycombe's address of welcome to the Union Co. Grange July 20, 1917.)

Every year when summer comes And crops are growing all around, When sun with warmth is calling forth

The riches of the ground; The farmer gets to thinking That his life is rather slow And there's something in his system Makes him feel he wants to go— Just as the old cow gallops For the shelter of a stack When suddenly there comes to life A warble in her back; There's always one place business And pleasure blends—to charm The granger on a visit, That's the Experimental farm.

It's worth a lot of travel Just to see Bob's cheery smile, Now he's got to be a father You can see it half a mile. The farmer to his business plays A most important part, And so he grasps him by the hand With fervent "bless your heart," "It's yours" says Bob "come view it You're always welcome to it,

If you have business in our line We're mighty glad to do it, Here's the grove and there's the hall Fitted up to please you all, If there's anything that's lacking From pianos, to shoe blacking, All you have to do is—call.

Shall agriculture, where so many Opportunities abound, Go drifting in the same old rut That Father Adam found; In this great world of progress There is always something new, Ever some investigating for Our brightest minds to do. The best of them are none too good To study rural things, And figure out the problems That a changed condition brings, So let us pledge our warm support, And guard it from all harm. To show that we appreciate The Experimental farm.

Oil Problem Serious.

San Francisco, July 26.—(Special)—It is not yet too late for the Federal Government to avert the threatened fuel famine in California, but relief legislation must be enacted quickly if disaster is to be avoided, say well informed captains of industry in the Golden State who declare that consumption of crude oil in California is now 60,000 barrels a day above production.

The recent testimony of W. R. Scott, vice-president and general manager of the Southern Pacific company, to the effect that his road would have to discontinue some of its trains within a short time unless the situation improved, has caused many large industries to wake up to the seriousness of the problem. The Southern Pacific is using 45,000 barrels of fuel oil a day, which is nine to twelve thousand more barrels a day than it can buy or produce. Its entire reserve will soon be exhausted, and the reduction in train service must then follow of necessity.

Meanwhile the richest oil fields in the West are denied to producers on the theory that a navy to be built five years from now may need the supply. Transportation men point out that the need five years from now could not be any greater than that which exists now with the country at war and American industries striving to supply half the world.

As a simple war measure, the Government could hardly do less than permit the Southern Pacific to supply its fuel needs from its own lands pending litigation. Every barrel of oil which the railroad buys in the open market by offering ten above the going price, means that some California industry will be short that amount of its fuel oil needs.

Letters From The Front

(Letter from Lester Kingsley, of Company A, Third Oregon Infantry, at Clackamas, Oregon, to his uncle, S. C. Kingsley, care French's Shoe store, La Grande.)

Clackamas, Ore., July 23.—Dear Uncle:—Though I would drop you a few lines I wrote you a card a few days ago but couldn't say very much on it as there wasn't much room on it.

I like this life better every day. I think it is great.

We were on a two-days hike last week, I mean the company. We went back in the mountains the first day and returned the next and sure had some time. We all got a little tired but were right at the Clackamas river and took a good swim and that made everybody feel lots better; to get the dust and sweat off of our skins.

Where our camp is we are about 10 or 11 miles from Portland on the main line to Salem.

There is about seven or eight hundred men in the camp I guess and some more left about a week ago. We expect to move most any time after the 25th of this month but don't know when for sure. We will go to California from here I guess and get the rest of our drilling there before we cross the pond. I wish we were ready to go across now but will have to wait till our turn comes I guess.

There are several boys from La Grande here I know but they are not in the same company with me. I got transferred from Co. M to Co. A and the others that came down when I did stayed in Co. M but they are still here. They will wait here till Co. M comes here then I guess we will all move camp. I hope so. This is a fine place here but the water is so bad and so awful hot.

Well I must close hoping to hear from you soon, I am as ever your nephew, LESTER KINGSLEY, Co. A, 3rd Ore. Inf. Clackamas, Ore. P. S.

Tell Mr. French and Mr. Green hello for me and that I haven't forgotten them yet.

Moose Elect Officers.

Pittsburg, July 26.—(Special)—John M. Ford of Philadelphia, was elected supreme dictator of the supreme lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, at an executive session of the twenty-ninth annual convention of the order yesterday. Other officers elected were:

Vice-dictator, Charles A. A. McGee, San Diego, and supreme prelate, William Broening, Baltimore, Md.

The executive session of the convention was thrown into an uproar when Mark Anthony, a delegate from San Francisco, gave notice that he would introduce a motion to put the order on record as favoring prohibition.

South Americans Buy Lottery Tickets

Buenos Aires, July 1.—(By Mail)—The high cost of lottery tickets not having been in the least ameliorated by the precautions which the government took to prevent grafting by speculators at the last Christmas $1,000,000 drawing, fresh plans are being considered to end the abuse in future. Tickets for the recent $1,000,000 contest (really 1,000,000 pesos, or $440,000 in United States money) sold at the last minute, in some cases at more than double their face value. The public was so outraged that many agencies had to close their doors and drop their iron blinds and mounted and foot police were forced to stand guard over them to keep them from being raided by mobs. The government does not announce the names of the winners, though they themselves usually tell. The excitement is so tremendous that the newspapers announce the numbers which win the various prizes on their bulletin boards and on the night after the drawing throw the numbers upon screens, like election returns in the United States.

Kaiser Gives His Views.

Berne, Switzerland, July 26.—(British Admiralty per Wireless Press)—The Post Zeitung, of Augsburg, Bavaria, says that at the reception given recently in Berlin by Emperor William to members of the Reichstag, the Emperor, in conversing with Philip Scheidemann, the Socialist leader, spoke slightly of America and expressed the conviction that the United States would not play a decisive part in the war.

Farms For Sale

I have several small and medium sized farms for sale that will bear investigation.

One farm the owner will consider a part or possibly all in exchange for La Grande City property.

I have a splendid rooming and boarding house property that is especially well located for this purpose which the owner will consider taking a small home as first payment and will give very easy terms and a low rate of interest on the balance.
