WRITE TO A SOLDIER

Write your soldier.

A letter, newspaper, magazine, package of food or book would brighten the labors of an American soldier in France. The war and postoffice department are doing everything in their power to encourage letter writing to the Sammies. The department urge that the widest possible publicity be given the following form, showing the correct way in which to address a letter to a soldier:

"John Smith, Jr., Company X, Infantry, American expeditionary forces."

The letter should bear the usual stamp, and on the upper left hand corner of the envelope must be written the name of the sender, as:

"Return to Mrs. Thomas Y. Jones, 1985 Blank Street, Spokane, Wash."

No Place for a Nervous Man

Portland, Oregon, July 30—(United Press)—No Man's Land is no place for a nervous man.

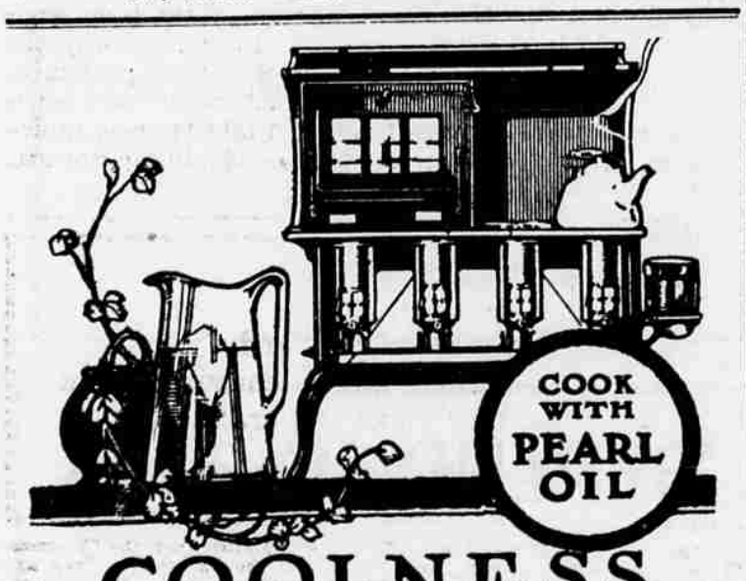
To the frightened soldier in a shell pit, every bush is an enemy, every noise an attack.

Such are the conclusions of W. D. Sidebottom, now on the battlefront of France. Judge George J. Cameron of Portland, today has a letter from Sidebottom discribing his front line experiences.

"So far I am alive and well, although I have had two or three exciting nights in No Man's Land. This game at hide and seek in the dark with life at stake is rather uncanny and a great strain on your nerves., especially if you are selected to be an advance man for a raiding party.

"It makes the hair curl and the pulse beat. If one is imaginative it is fatal, for every bush appears to be an enemy. When they see you first bombs and shells come thick and fast. Causalties are light, however, and a few always unfortunate.

Sidebottom says the British soldiers are anxiously awaiting the arrival of United States troops on the battlefront. The Americans will get an enthusiastic welcome, he added.



COOLNESS

There's nothing so cool as an oil stove for summer cooking. All the heat is concentrated on the cooking and not radiated about the kitchen.

Cooks everything any wood or coal range will cook, and cooks it better, because of the steady, evenly-distributed heat.

Use it all the year 'round—more convenient than a wood or coal stove, and more economical.

The long blue chimneys prevent all smoke and smell.

In 1, 2, 3 and 4 burner sizes, with or without ovens. Also cabinet models. Ask your dealer today.

After the morning service, the congregation and friends assembled at tables well provided with the temporal blessings of life and at 2:30p. m. a baptismal service was held at the river side which was pronounced by many to be the most impressive and touching scene they had ever witnessed. Three members of a prominent family were immersed.
