Roses And Eggs

Will we wear wooden shoes before the war ends?

Speaking of the lynching of Frank Little at Butte, Mont., I differ from the man whom I heard say that the "lynchers had little to do."

The joke year ago, you know, was to take him snipe hunting, and let him hold the sack. Nowadays they tell him that the spotlight of an automobile will attract coyotes, and the poor boob falls for it.

For goodness sake whatever you do, be sure and do not buy court-plaster from a peddler, for: The germs, the germs, The fast-working germs, They'll bite you, and make you sick; Then for doctor you'll send, And money you'll spend— While Germany laughs at its trick.

An eccentric man is one who always praises his neighbors—but he is never considered so by the aforesaid neighbors.

Isn't it amazing, the huge numbers of different magazines to be seen at newsstands nowadays? They are of all colors, sizes and subjects. Half their number would never be missed if they were to suspend publication. The paper contained in them could be used for purposes far more essential than the printing of love stories of the caramel-chocolate variety, it seems to me.

It's time one heard of a strike among photoplay stars. This would at least give the actors more publicity, though the Lord knows one becomes weary enough now, reading of what they eat for supper, what color tie they wear, and whether lace or button shoes. Ugh?

The ice cream parlors in small towns will miss the patronage of the soldier boy and his sweetheart.

Every time a freight train whistles some folk rush to the postoffice and inquire for mail.

Vigilantes in Butte, Mont., lynched Frank Little, an "Industrial Worker of the World leader," according to news dispatches. One report has it that "Little was in the employ of a prominent detective agency and one theory is that he was the victim of the radical element of whom he appeared to be a member." Be this as it may. Little, in a speech at Butte is reported to have said of United States soldiers, that they were "Uncle Sam's scabs in uniform." The only comment I have to make, is, that any man, in my opinion, an I. W. W. or any other who makes such a declaration, should be immediately hung or shot, and no questions asked. Ugh? LUE F. VERNON.

Picked Up By The Stroller

How'd you like to give a police stool pigeon six dollars to buy a bottle of whisky and have him deliver you a bottle of cold tea?

One sees many strange sights while strolling. I couldn't sleep the other night so I put on my clothes and went strolling.

The first thing I knew I saw a strange sight. A man who had on less clothes than the law allowed was running up Walnut street, (in fact he had on only an undershirt) and strangest of all there were two pretty girls pursuing him.

I stood still and watched in amazement. The man was a better runner than the girls, not being impeded by any clothes, and he paid no attention to the girls who were calling: "Here, come on back and put on your pants."

Finally he stopped in front of Judge Eakin's house on Walnut street, and pretty soon the girls caught up and grabbed the man by the arms. Judge Eakin, who sleeps on a sleeping porch, stuck his head out and recognized the girls as nurses from the Grande Ronde Hospital and called out:

"What's the matter, girls, do you need any help?"

The nurses answered no, but that they were trying to persuade a patient who was out of his head to put on his pants.

"Well," said the Judge, "you girls just wait until I put on mine, and I will be right down." So the judge dressed hastily and went down. No sooner did he arrive on the scene, when the patient who was demented said, "Why there's my long lost brother now." It seems that he thought his brother was missing.

So he put his arms around the judge and like two boon companions they and the nurse walked back to the hospital, where the patient was put to bed.

It was like a night from the Arabian Night, and thus endeth "THE STORY OF THE MAN WHO DID NOT WEAR HIS PANTS AND OF THE MAIDENS WHO PURSUED HIM."

Refreshed by the night air and by the adventure, I went back to bed myself and slept soundly.

Cherry Fair. Cove Cherry Fair has been set for August 15. The lack of pickers of cherries and berries by the smaller growers is threatening serious loss, with highest prices offered, 6 to 7 1-2 cents a pound for cherries, and 35 cents a crate for raspberries.

NOT A SLIP—NOT A MISS—THE RAILROAD'S WAR RECORD.

"So far as I know the railroads in this country afford the only instance where the owners of private property have voluntarily subordinated their personal interests to the requirements of the nation for the period of the war. Others may be willing to do so, others may intend to do so, but so far as I know the railroads up to the present time are the only ones." DANIEL WILLARD.

The railroads of the United States have met every emergency since the declaration of war, according to Daniel Willard, chairman of the Committee on Transportation of the Council of National Defence. The railroads have to their credit, through co-operation with the War Board, the following achievements:

The 633 companies operating in forty-eight States and controlling 263,000 miles of road have been practically nationalized and are working as one system.

They have made full transfer of troops on schedule, without interfering with civil traffic, to the entire satisfaction of the War Department.

They are handling at the same time, without congestion, more than 3,000,000,000 more ton-miles a month than a year ago, or an increase of sixteen per cent.

They have successfully handled the added traffic successfully on them by the withdrawal on account of the war of many lake and seacoast vessels.

In spite of this increased business they have decreased the general car shortage one-third since May 1.

They have increased the practical supply of cars by 770,000 through heavier loading, quicker repairs, quicker handling, by pooling shipments at lake and seaports, thus releasing cars immediately, and by utilizing box cars that formerly were sent to the coast empty.

They have given preference to coal-shipments, particularly for the government and its allies.

Twenty-nine per cent more bituminous coal was handled in April this year than in the same month of 1916.

Second preference has been given to ore shipments, which also have increased enormously.

The grain situation also has been greatly improved. There is no grain being held at any point because of a car shortage.

Arrangements are being perfected so that the entire deciduous fruit crop also will be handled satisfactorily. To further this efforts are being made to supply cars where needed by transferring empty cars from one section to another regardless of ownership.

All passenger trains not absolutely necessary are being removed from the service. In short, the railroads are meeting all needs of the government, at least as promptly and effectually as if they were under direct government authority.
