

The Stomach is a Source of Energy

Our source of energy is in the food we eat. If we eat less than the body requires to maintain itself we are starving, and we'll soon grow weak and emaciated. Don't try the starvation method of curing stomach troubles. You must eat to keep up the fires of life. But if food lies in your stomach without being properly digested it will sour, ferment and cause distress. If your stomach is out of gear—take

TO THE PUBLIC

Owing to the fact the promoters of the Wrestling Match for the 17th have failed to post the purse as per agreement I feel I am no longer under any obligations to them and hereby declare the match off.

I am further justified in making this decision as a means of protection to my loyal friends whose support has made it possible to build up the game locally to the present status.

In explanation of the above I wish to say, my arrangement with Mr. Anderson promoter of the coming match, stipulated that the purse of $250 be in the hands of some responsible local business man by Aug. 6th, it is now Aug. 15th and same has not been posted.

Further, certain remarks made by Mr. Anderson relative to the match caused the wrestling public to lose confidence in it.

THE LADIES' ROAD

orders his men to seize offensive grenades. The latter are still in their heavy packing cases. To open them his men use pickaxes at the risk of exploding the whole case. But they get them out and drive the German flame throwers back. At this point the enemy has now been thrown back across the Chemin des Dames.

"We find another soldier sitting on a trench with a pipe in his mouth calmly shooting down German grenade throwers before a single one can get within reach of him.

"Another soldier after valiantly beating off the Germans from in front of his shell hole only to find that still others are threatening to cut him off from the rear, comes back and indignantly asks his lieutenant at what range he must fix his rifle in order to get 'those pigs' there."

"At ten in the morning, we have the Boches back on the other side of the Chemin des Dames. In the evening we await eagerly the official communique. A line announces that an attack has been repulsed on the Chemin des Dames. The German communique next day makes even briefer reference."

Such is the life today on the Chemin des Dames that was built for royal ladies to visit their summer home.
