

Newlin's Parcel Post Pharmacy

Makes Summer Shopping a Pleasure

Before "Uncle Sam" inaugurated the parcel post system, it was necessary for rural residents to go to some nearby town for every thing they purchased. But things have changed. It is no longer necessary to make a special trip through the heat and dust every time you want something in the way of drugs or drug store goods.

We recognize the possibilities of a trade built up through the use of the United States mails and the telephone.

A complete stock of quality goods, prompt service and right prices have won a large number of satisfied customers for us.

Just phone or mail your order and goods will be sent by first mail after its receipt.

Inquiries receive prompt attention. Ask for a price list of seasonable goods.

city, with a charter and a city government, and upon its splendid showing for the Red Cross, the Liberty Loan and in its enlistments of its young men.

Mr. H. E. Dixon, of La Grande, was the speaker of the morning, representing the State Council of Defense in the absence of Mr. Stanfield and Bruce Dennis, who were unable to be present. Mr. Dixon gave an able and eloquent address on the present day duties of citizenship.

The Cove Band and the La Marr family of musicians rendered some excellent musical selections.

T. H. Elson superintendent of the fair was the chairman of the day and introduced the speaker with appropriate remarks.

The ladies of the Methodist church served an excellent chicken dinner and the Red Cross ladies served refreshments at booths.

In the afternoon a steady stream of automobiles arrived from La Grande and neighboring points and the program was continued, the principal feature of which was the crowning of the king and queen, Master Archer Antles and Miss Byrie Conley.
