We are informed that at some cafes, restaurants and gardens beer and strong drinks have been sold under the guise of the popular soft drink, Bevo.

These reports have been confirmed sufficiently to compel us to take action. The beverage Bevo enjoys the protection of both federal and state authority. In preparing it for sale and in marketing it, we adopt every possible precaution to protect the public against imposition and to prevent evasion of the law. Bevo is sold in bottles only, we bottle all of it ourselves, and we have adopted a kind of bottle, crown and seals designed to prevent imitation.

We shall omit no measure within our power to defend the authority under which Bevo is manufactured and sold, to protect the public from imposition, and to safeguard the good name of this Association.

We therefore give fair warning that we shall refuse to sell our products to those who are found guilty of the above offense.

A good nickel smoke

THE OWL is always a mellow smoke—never harsh. That is because a million dollar supply of slowly curing tobacco is always in reserve for the OWL.

The OWL is an unusually even-burning smoke. That is because it is seasoned leaf, properly made into a cigar.

Naturally, the OWL is always worth your nickel.

FLOWERS HIDE BATTLE SCARS ON VIMY RIDGE

HILL ONCE MASS OF FIRE NOW
COVERED WITH GREEN
GRASS

BY WM. PHILLIP SIMMS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
With the British Armies in the Field, July 15. (By mail)—Vimy Ridge is covered with flowers. A few weeks ago I watched this hill explode and blaze like the day of judgment while the Canadians with their artillery and mines turned it into a seething, boiling mound of fire.

Today old lady nature has completed her miracle. Vimy Ridge is green. Poppies, cowslips, cornflowers, purple thistle-mops, daisies and belated speedwells dash the gory battlefield with color, while rank grass hides the smaller shell-craters. But one explanation is possible for this change, for all manner of vegetation and seed were burned to ashes and buried many feet deep in the mud during the storming of Vimy's heights in April. Nature has worked some wonder as if ashamed of the ugly hill and wanted to cover it over and hide it out of sight.

Vimy Ridge runs from just west of Lens almost due south towards Arras. Notre Dame de Lorette is a great ridge running generally east and west, the eastern slopes ending west of Lens where Vimy begins.

From the top of Notre Dame Lens can be plainly seen about four miles away. The whole flat plain to the north and northeast, is dominated by this great hill. It also dominates the south and west. Small wonder the two ridges were ordered by the German high command to be held at all costs, for so long as they were held the British and French were powerless from Arras to Ypres.

So the French stormed Notre Dame and won it. The whole ridge was drenched in blood, the ground was shattered, and it seemed that this spot would ever be barren of the slightest growing thing.

Today I found flowers everywhere. At times grass reached almost to my waist. I stumbled into abandoned trenches and comparatively recent shellholes now hidden under vegetation. Now and then one tripped over concealed entanglement of barbed wire, or kicked a skull accidentally with the toe of one's foot, or trod on some forgotten soldier's pack or rifle or bayonet. Under rank growths of daisies one comes across strips of German uniforms with whitening bones lying about, and German boots with everything from the knee down still in them. Canteens, battered and pierced, iron-ration tins, hand grenades, shrapnel cases, cartridge clips, unexploded shells, all manner of equipment are still there—only they are now hidden under a tangle of wild flowers.

August 6th in La Grande. The young couple went to housekeeping in the Cavender cottage.

W. A. Huddleson returned a few days since from the Buyer's Week in Portland. He reports a fine time.

The Hess Lumber Co., has started the choppers to work this week and expect to have everything ready by September 1st. The big demand for lumber behooves this company to get started as soon as possible.

Wm. Saunders is now proudly informing the people that he is "Grandpa" now and it is a boy. His son C. C. Saunders is the proud father of a son born on July 31st.

Mrs. John Cavender and mother, Mrs. Pearson, with one of the Mrs. Cavender's brothers went to the mountains after huckleberries on Saturday and returned on Monday. They also fished while on their outing.

Mr. and Mrs. John Davis, Jr., went out after huckleberries a few days ago and brought home several gallons. They had a fine time camping while after berries.

Earl Rankin and wife visited with friends here recently. Earl spent several years in North Powder when he was a boy. He returns to familiar scenes once in awhile.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker of Baker, visited with Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Mann a few days ago.

Lot of the townspeople are out in the hills gathering huckleberries and taking their outing at the same time. Several more are planning to go and will do so as soon as they can get away.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Johnson returned from their camping the other day. Otto Heartviksen went to Baker to take his examination after he was called but could not pass the physical examination.

Ed. Ledbetter, Pearson Bros. and one of the Nice Bros. attended the threshermen's meeting in Alice last week. There will be a slight increase in rates in this section owing to the higher cost of labor and expenses of operating.

Mrs. Neil Olson had the misfortune to step off the stairway landing in the dark and fell downstairs and hurt herself very much. She was severely bruised about the head and shoulders and sprained her wrist.

Paris Will Be Seaport Following War

Paris, July 25.—(By mail)—Paris as one of the world's great seaports of the future is today more than an idle dream.

Ever since the 17th century the idea of a seaport Paris has been occasionally discussed by learned Frenchmen and approved as highly advisable. But it has taken the big war to develop the plan so that today it is a potent possibility. The war has demanded the absolute necessity of providing Paris with a navigation waterway direct to the sea, so that ocean going ships might bring their cargoes into dock at the French metropolis.

The "Paris Seaport" scheme has been handed down from generation to generation, with additions and modifications on paper. Then came the great floods of 1910 when whole quarters of Paris were inundated and traffic was suspended for days. It was then definitely decided that a canal system must be built to relieve the main stream in case of new floods and the idea of widening and deepening the Seine was also considered.

Today the prefect of the Seine has issued circulars to the Municipal authorities, outlining a definite and new scheme for rendering the Seine navigable for big shipping from Paris to Rouen and proposing that a port be built at Gennevilliers, outside of Paris with easy access to the capitol.
