KAYBEE CONCENTRATING SPOTLIGHTS

KayBee Concentrating Spotlights are the most powerful spotlights made. They give more concentrated light with less glare or diffusion of rays than can be had from any other spotlight.

The KayBee spotlight reflector is the reason. It is different from that used in other makes and is a recent discovery. This reflector is formed and set differently with regard to the light producing filament in the globe. The white flood of light produced by the KayBee is as straight as a pencil and spans great distances. A thumb switch is conveniently located on all KayBee Spotlights just back of the reflector. No other Spotlight on the market offers this feature.

Our KayBee reflector concentrates and projects the light rays into the most powerful and brilliant beam of light ever produced by a 6-volt 24-C. P. lamp. Nitro globes are regular equipment in all KayBee lamps.

Under average fair weather conditions and with proper quantity of electric current, one can read a newspaper by night with the KayBee at distances ranging from one-half to three-quarters of a mile. The more efficient reflector construction of the KayBee means greater safety in driving to you and increased economy of current.

Night driving frequently demands the use of a spotlight—why not have the best? Points out your way—Turns night to day—The KayBee Concentrating Spotlight.
