DOES RETAIL SHOE BUSINESS MAKES AN APPLE SHOW MANAGER?

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 28.—(Special.)—Does the retail shoe business equip a man to be manager of an apple show? Is there any analogy between selling leather footwear to the public and putting on an exhibition of red-cheeked pippins?

Whatever the answer may be the public will have an opportunity to judge for itself when the tenth National Apple Show opens its doors in Spokane, November 19 with Jake Hill, a shoe merchant, as president of the organization.

MARRIED BEFORE LEAVING FOR CAMP

PENDLETON, Aug. 28.—(Special.)—When Harold J. Warner, prominent young Pendleton attorney, left this city for the officers' training camp at the Presidio, he left behind him a bride though there were very few people aware of the fact. His bride was Miss Edna Zimmerman, telegraph and society editor of the East Oregonian and one of the most popular and attractive young ladies in Pendleton. They have been husband and wife now eight days but their secret was not discovered until Thursday when the news arrived here from Dayton, Wash., where they were quietly married on the night of Thursday, August 16.

MR AND MRS GEO YOUNG RETURN FROM TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. George Young left here July 4th on the Elks' special car from Oregon, going straight through to Chicago, to attend the Moose and Elks' conventions. Here they spend one day taking the Elks' special train straight to Boston to the big Elks' convention, July 7th to 14th.

They arrived at Boston on Sunday evening July 8th and took in the remainder of the convention. On Monday a splendid program was given at Tremont Temple 82 Tremont street, James R. Nicholson, P. G. E. R. presiding. A trip around the harbor was also a feature of the day. On Tuesday, Historical Day, there was a wonderful auto trip to historic Cambridge, Lexington and Concord over the route of the famous "Paul Revere Ride", showing all points of historic interest. That evening was Elks' night at a special performance of "Caliban", a community masque in the Harvard Stadium. Over 5000 people were in the cast, the entire proceeds of the performance being donated to the Red Cross. On Wednesday, July 11th, the day was devoted to an outing at Nantasket Beach and a clam feast at Nantasket Hotel. Thursday, July 12th, exercises on Boston Common at which some of the speakers were, Orator U. S. Senator Jas. Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois; Gov. Sam'l W. McCall, of Massachusetts; Mayor James M. Curley, of Boston, and Grand Exalted Ruler Edward Rightor. Friday was devoted to a trip to Lowell and Lawrence to visit the great cotton and woolen industries in these cities, with sight seeing automobile trips showing points of interest in both places. Mr. Young says the trip through the woolen mills was sure great. They saw every step taken from the time the wool is first brought to the mill until it is made into yarn. Saturday the closing day, was North Shore Day and trips were taken along the shore. On the return stops were made at the Elks' Homes at Salem, Lynn and Chelsea. Mr. Young says they certainly showed him a good time at Chelsea. On Sunday morning, July 15th, Mr. and Mrs. Young went on to New York, spending four days there, then on to Washington, D. C. They spent four days seeing the sights in and near the capital. They visited at Washington's home at Mt. Vernon, went through most of the government buildings, and were in the Senate room during part of the discussion on the Food Bill. They met Senator Chamberlain of Oregon, and had quite a talk with him. They also met Vice-President Marshall. Mr. Young declares that the beautiful things to be seen in and near our capital city alone are more than worth the trip.

From Washington they went to Pittsburgh, spending seven days there at the Moose Convention, July 22 to 28. Mr. Young, as Past Dictator of the La Grande Lodge, was the only representative from our city, and Pendleton was represented by John Lang. On the first day memorial services were held for the late Hyman D. Davis, head of the order. On the second day the following new officers were elected: Supreme dictator, John W. Ford of Philadelphia lodge; supreme vice-dictator, C. A. A. McGee of San Diego, Cal.; supreme prelate, Wm. T. Brenning of Baltimore, Md.; and the supreme council: Darius Brown of Kansas City, Joseph G. Armstrong of Pittsburgh, Frank J. Monahan of San Francisco, Willard A. Marale of Rochester, N. Y., and supreme trustee, Charles Newton of Winnipeg, Manitoba lodge.

On Monday evening, July 23rd, the Pittsburgh lodge initiated 1000 new members, the Toledo lodge doing the degree work. On Tuesday evening was the great Mooseheart Pageant at the Lyceum Theater. A rather interesting and novel feature of the last day's program was the marriage of Chas. W. Lawrence, dictator of the Phoenixville lodge, and Miss Emma C. Griffith. Of course, a great deal of business was also transacted at these conventions.

From Pittsburgh Mr. and Mrs. Young went to Chicago, spending three days there, and then to Kansas City, both in Missouri and in Kansas, where they visited six days with Mrs. Young's relatives. Then they went to Denver for four days. While there they saw Roy Brooks and his wife, formerly of La Grande. Mr. Brooks carried on at least two years and longed if deemed necessary.
