ARCADE

ANN PENNINGTON IN BOY SCOUT PICTURE

Ann Pennington, the winsome little dancer of the "Follies," returned again to the screen in the Famous Players-Paramount Production "The Little Boy Scout," a charming photoplay furnishing the diminutive star with more than ordinary opportunity to display her special talents. It will be shown at the Arcade Theatre Friday and Saturday.

As a dancer Miss Pennington has won recognition for herself and her former productions on the screen more than proved her ability to act before the camera. In "Susie Snowflake," also a Famous Players-Paramount production, she was seen as the delightfully hoydenish daughter of an actress, driven by circumstance to live in a prim New England village. In "The Rainbow Princess," as a daring circus performer, she won new laurels.

A distinct change from both of the roles was furnished for her in the part of Justina in "The Little Boy Scout." She appeared as a rebellious niece of old Miguel Alvarez, living with his family near the Rio Grande in Mexico. The old uncle is a miser and a tyrant and attempts to force her to marry his weakling son in order to bring her money into his own coffers.

Justina, however, has the American love of liberty inherited from her mother who was a New Englander, and on the very eve of her wedding runs away on the donkey of the priest who had been summoned to marry her.

Her adventures from this point form a sequence of events both humorous and dramatic that hold the onlooker breathless. How she stumbles right onto the sentry of a United States Army camp and how her donkey betrays her presence by vigorously braying, how the soldiers help her make her way to her mother's sister in New England and what happens when she gets there, is all told with all the charm and piquancy which only Ann Pennington could give it. As a boy scout Miss Pennington completely subjugated the hearts of the dozen or so youngsters, members of that organization who were called in to add "local color" and incidentally instruct the star in the gentle art of wig-wagging and other scout mysteries.

Will Be Repaid for Their Work

Women everywhere suffer from kidney trouble—backache, rheumatic pains, swollen and tender muscles, stiff joints—and it is to help those who suffer as she did that Mrs. C. J. Ellis, 505 8th Ave., Sioux Falls S. D., writes: "I feel sure if any one bothered as I was will give Foley Kidney Pills a fair trial they will be repaid for their work. It seems foolish to neglect an ailment when there is such a remedy to be had." They correct bladder disturbances, too. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

Fire and Water.

Why does water put out fire? This is at first a puzzling question, because back in your mind is the thought that, since hydrogen and oxygen are necessary to make a fire burn, it seems strange that water, which is composed of oxygen and hydrogen, will also put it out.

A burning fire throws off heat, but if too much of the heat is taken from the fire suddenly the temperature of the fire is sent down so far below the point at which the oxygen of the air will combine with it that the fire cannot burn, says the Book of Wonders. We speak commonly as though water thrown on a fire drowns it. That is practically what happens. Scientifically what happens is that the water thrown upon the fire absorbs so much of the heat to itself that the temperature of the fire is reduced below the point where oxygen will combine with the carbon in the burning material and the fire goes out.

Men Who Succeed.

Thomas E. Wilson, the Chicago packer, says in the American Magazine: "The higher up he is the more dependent an executive becomes on those under him. The real success of an executive, it seems to me, rests on his ability to promote wisely, and at the same time to keep the force working in harmony and contentment. A little jealousy here and there in an organization can ruin its efficiency. I have known men who had enough general grasp of things to have made great department managers, only they could not get along harmoniously with those about them. If a man can't get along pleasantly with his associates he cannot successfully handle a force of men. I never like to promote a man to a responsible place if he has failed to work in hearty co-operation with the men alongside of him. When you hear men say of their boss, 'He is a good fellow to work for,' you may know he is a successful executive."

Brandon the Executioner.

June 20, 1649, was the day on which Richard Brandon, official executioner for the city of London, died, says the Dundee Advertiser. Tradition has it that he decapitated Charles I. and was paid $150 for his pains, all in half crowns, within half an hour after the deed. He is also reported to have been presented with an orange stuck full of cloves and a handkerchief out of the king's pocket as soon as he was carried from the scaffold. Brandon was at once offered 20 shillings for the orange, but he refused this sum and afterward accepted 10 shillings in a market thoroughfare. In the burial register of Whitechapel there may be seen the following entry under 1649: "June 21—Richard Brandon, a man out of Rosemary Lane. This Richard Brandon is supposed to have cut off the head of Charles I."

Extent of Africa.

Nearly one-fourth of the earth's land surface is comprised within the continent of Africa, and it is as far around the coast of Africa as it is around the world. Every eighth person of the world's population lives in the dark continent. The blacks double their number every forty years and the whites every eighty years. There are 843 languages and dialects spoken among the blacks of Africa, but only a few of them written. One area in Africa unoccupied by missionaries is three times the size of New England, a second would make four states like New York, and another is eighteen times the size of Ohio. Throughout Africa there is one missionary for every 133,000 souls.—Christian Herald.

Conscience Satisfied.

"Lizzie, will you be mine?"
"Not on your life."
"Don't you love me?"
"No, I don't and never did."
"Are you sure?"
"Absolutely sure! I would rather be shot than marry you!"
"Thank you for them kind words, Lizzie. I had to ask somebody to marry in order to do my duty, but now that I have been refused I will never have to ask anybody else. Now my conscience will allow me to be a merry bachelor and save money for my old age."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

In the Boarding House.

"That new couple look as if they had some guilty secret."
"They have."
"Huh?"
"They kept house once, but they don't want to put themselves completely in the landlady's power by letting her know they didn't make a success of it."—Exchange.

Apology.

"I hear, Mr. Catts, that you said I was a wallflower at the ball."
"My dear Miss Passy, I remarked that you were among the conspicuous mural ornaments of the occasion."
"Oh, Mr. Catts, now that's something different, but you flatter me."—Baltimore American.

The Ambitious Bride.

Bill—Hello! Home from your honeymoon trip already?
Gill—Oh, yes.
"Rather short, wasn't it?"
"Oh, yes. My new wife seemed rather anxious to get home and try her cooking on me."—Yonkers Statesman.
