GENERAL F. H. FRENCH

Helen Curry and Inez Knowles entertained for Miss Hill at the Curry home on Fourth Street with a miscellaneous shower.

The porch was decorated with large bouquets of golden rod and marigold. The refreshments were served on small tables where little yellow candles and nasturtiums helped carry out the artistic and well worked out color scheme.

During the refreshments an airship floated down from the decorations and lighted on Miss Hill's table. Surely her ship has come in filled with beautiful gifts.

The Hill-Watson wedding will take place the middle of September. The invited list included Nita Hunter, Nora Arbunke Florence Happersett, Naomi Kirtly, William Oesterling, Enid Stanchfield, Bessie Alison, May Neill, Ethel Wright, Helen McDonald, Carrol Curry, Minna Ash, Ruth Russell Cox, Lillian McDonald, Lillian Reynolds, Cecile Templeton, Marjorie Silverthorne, Hazel Reynolds, Nellie Kiddle, Amelia Collier and Nennle Seitz.

There is also an entertaining love story woven through the plot and of course a Pennington picture would not be complete without dancing in it. In fact the love story begins with the dancing when the little "Senorita" trips her way into the heart of young Lieutenant Mor-ton, who—but that is part of the story which you will see for yourself at the Arcade Theater today and tomorrow.

NAVY LEAGUE PROVIDES WARM CLOTHES FOR RELIEF OF SUBMARINE VICTIMS PICKED UP BY THE PATROLS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 7.—For the relief of refugees picked up from the life boats of submarine victims, the Navy League has made a shipment of warm second-hand clothing to patrol vessels in the war zone. The shipment was made through individual channels in accordance with the instructions of Secretary of the Navy Daniels regarding the league's relief work for men of the Navy.

It is probable that this relief work of the league will be extended but until specifically requested no person should send any secondhand garments for this purpose to the league as no use could be made of them now. When more clothing is needed the league will give due notice.

Warm, dry clothing is the greatest need of the refugees picked up in the submarine zone. Persons are taken aboard the patrol vessels who have been adrift in open boats in bad weather for two days or more. Oftentimes they are drenched to the skin, insufficiently clad and suffering from hunger. Many a sailor of the patrol forces has robbed himself in order to give clothing to these poor victims of frightfulness.

It is said that a destroyer could carry enough outfits for 20 persons, the number apt to be picked up from two life boats. A supply could be maintained at a shore base, if needed, and every patrol boat provided with a supply of outfits before leaving for sea.

Warm overcoats and waterproof garments are the most necessary articles. Heavy men's suits and a few outfits for women, probably not more than two or three to every 20 supplied, could be used.
