WOOD PULP "WOOL" NEWEST IN FIELD TO REPLACE REAL GOODS

Bogus Substitutes to Be Discussed at Great Lakes Wool Convention in Chicago Sept. 11-12, to Which Shepherds Are Invited.

Chicago (Special) — More wood pulp is to be utilized in the manufacture of "woolens," according to Croonborg, authority among tailors. A mixture of 40 per cent wood pulp to an equal proportion of cotton, and enough wool to make the fabric so woven look like wool—when new—that is the prospect. What sort of wear this hybrid will give and how it will hold dyes, is a question which will be discussed at the Great Lakes Wool Convention in Chicago, Sept. 11th and 12th, to which western sheep men are invited as guests of honor.

The use of wood pulp in the manufacture of cloth is the latest experiment undertaken to supply the market with a fabric that will go far toward replacing wool for cloth. The shops have been flooded with shoddy, as goods made from worked over wool fibre is called, until tailors and clothiers have rebelled. This bogus product can deceive the very elect at first glance, but it does not have the warmth nor stand the test of wear, and does not make up like cloth woven from genuine sheep fleece.

and prices so high, that the plutocratic sheep is one of the few that can afford a full suit. Factories are buying rags by the ton to work over into shoddy for the clothing of humankind.

Woolen goods have been growing lighter in weight, and inferior in quality, while at the same time higher in price than within the memory of the present generation. Tailors, who cater to the most particular trade, find much difficulty in obtaining fine goods to satisfy the taste of fastidious clients. The clothier has many complaints and come-backs on the score of poor quality and fading colors, and consequently the National Association of Retail Clothiers has enlisted its members in the work of the National Sheep and Wool Bureau. Congress has been petitioned to enact laws to compel manufacturers to label woolen goods with a view to exposing shoddy and hybrid mixtures and to tell what wool a garment really contains.

The convention will be held in the Assembly Hall at the Union Stock Yards. The Stock Yards Inn will be the official headquarters, with loop headquarters at Hotel Sherman.

Barn will be located at the Farmer's Feed Barn, 1424 Adams Ave. 9-5-4t.-pd.
