Visit on Crow Creek—Mrs. A. L. White of Los Angeles went out this morning to visit with her son J. R. White on Crow Creek near Enterprise. R. B. White, another son who is a railroad man of Seattle, accompanied her and will also visit his brother.

Observations

A man may be on the right track and yet have no steam in his boilers.

The more some people get the more they seem to think it necessary to have.

The trouble with temptation is that it always makes work seem more disagreeable than it is and pleasure more alluring.

If you can't say something good of the other fellow you're a poor observer.

Mrs. J. L. Jordan of Pendleton returned home this morning after a few days here on business.

Party Motored to Hot Lake—A crowd of La Grande folks motored to Hot Lake Thursday evening where they had a dancing party in the ball room of the hotel. Those who went were: Mr. and Mrs. Hill Templeton, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Neal, Mr. and Mrs. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Murphy, Merton Westering, of Portland, Arthur McCrary, of Portland, Leo Miller, Campbell Garrick, Martha Schofield, Margaret Corbett, Bessie Allison and Jeanette Stoddard. The party motored over about eight o'clock and danced until about ten o'clock. Mrs. Hyde played the piano and Mr. Lindsay the violin.

Club Met With Mrs. Ball—The Baptist Women's Lookout Club met with Mrs. George Ball, 1212 Wash. Ave., Friday Sept. 7th. A good number were present and after an interesting business session at which many plans for future work were discussed, a social hour was spent and ice cream and cake were served.

await you at this store due to our unparalleled buying power through America's most powerful buying organization—the

The Retailers' Commercial Union, of which this store is one of the 550 members. The buying power of this organization exceeds 50 million dollars annually. Think of it! If each one of the 550 stores bought only 50 garments each season it would mean 27,500 garments to be placed in one order. This store alone buys many times this allotment each season, and there are hundreds of concerns in the R. C. U. which also use many times this amount.

You can readily see from this one example why manufacturers will compete and make the closest possible prices to secure these immense quantity orders from the R. C. U. and realize why you—the customer of an R. C. U. store—always get more for your money and better values in every department.

the Prince. He's hunting' for the Major, he says and when I points out the Major's dugout he goes on as coolly as an A. S. C. driver at a ration dump." Life in the field, officers say, has done wonders for the Prince. He is as hard as nails, and from a shop, hypersensitive youth oppressed by the cares of rank and knowledge of what was expected of his position, he has developed into a cheery, fearless young man, who has proved his right to mingle with the brave on equal terms.
