on a party that nearly wrecked big Jess out in California.

Fulton has won some notable victories and has performed in rather ill fashion at times. As a whole, however, his record is worthy of consideration and should get him the bout with the champion. It probably will.

FULTON IS CERTAIN OF WILLARD MATCH

Victory Over Carl Morris Means Championship Battle When Place is Found.

By H. C. HAMILTON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Sept. 14.—The victory of Fred Fulton over Carl Morris, clean-cut in every punch in the six rounds of the mill, spells the words that go with a championship battle. Willard will sign articles to meet the huge Minnesota boxer just as certain as the proper place to pull off the bout is found.

Willard has stated—and there is no reason to doubt him—that he will promote his own mill. He probably will. He probably will do all the offering, picking of arena and all the preliminary works. He has the money and the nerve to tackle it.

There are plenty of folks in this country who think Fulton can beat the long, lumbering westerner who sent Jack Johnson panting to defeat. There are plenty of them who can take a record book and show just why. Their main argument is that Willard never in his life defeated a good man, with the single exception of Jack Johnson, and then they are prone to add that it took twenty-six rounds for the big, husky white man to lay out the fat old man—Johnson.

Fulton's record, as a matter of fact, does read far better than does Willard's. If Jess had the string of victories by knockouts plastered after his name in the pugilistic records he would be far more respected as a champion. He hasn't. Most of the wins are over men, that it requires an effort to recall. And it doesn't take a stretchy memory to recollect that little Gunboat Smith once put Remedy for coughs and colds with the best results, which shows it to be a thoroughly reliable preparation for those diseases. Try it. It is prompt and effectual and pleasant to take.

with the stuff of which thrilling motion pictures are composed. Among its well remembered incidents are the escape of the convict and his wanderings in the mountains, the kidnapping of Sybil, the flight of the girl into the hills, and the search of the forest rangers for her, the tragic end of Taine at the banquet table and the hand-to-hand fight of the lovers on the high mountain cliff which results in the tragic death of one of the pair.
