Announcements

ATTENTION PARENTS.

Also future parents and grand parents, Bishop Moreland, of Sacramento, Cal., will give a lecture Monday evening, September 24, in the Methodist Church on "The Lost Paradise of Parental Control." Bishop Moreland is one of the most eloquent bishops of the Episcopal Church, and this is one of his best lectures. The lecture will begin at 8 promptly, and at its close a silver offering will be taken up to defray expenses. 9-19-17

FINE ARTISTS HERE.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lowe, landscape and animal painters who are now at the Harris Art Store, are among the best American painters. They are not the department store give-away rapid artists, but are the real thing. Beautiful landscapes from all parts of the country are selling from 50 cents up. They will be here a few days only. Any kind or size to order. Copy work from postcard or photo. Lessons. See them doing the work. 9-20-17

NOTICE

Island City, Oregon, Sept. 13—I would like to state to those that have been taking Onions from my place that if they can't afford to buy them please call Black 1392, Island City Oregon and I will see that they will get them.

2040-ACRE RANCH SOLD.
Chris Miller and Charles Smith, joint owners of a 2040-acre stock ranch in Ladd Canyon, sold it this week to W. A. Woods, of Moro, Ore., for $26,500, or $13 an acre. It is considered a good stock ranch and there were quite a few buyers negotiating for it.

CAPP'S (100% Pure Wool) SUITS

Because every process from the raw wool to the finished garment is conducted by one firm in one modern factory under the supervision of America's Best Clothing Experts.

The present high price of wool does not affect Capp's (100 per cent pure wool) Suits! Why? Because Capps & Sons' contract for immense quantities of raw wool many months in advance—meaning a saving of thousands of dollars to the wearers of Capps' Clothing.

Our showing of Fall Styles in Capps' (100 per cent pure wool) Suits and Overcoats are ready for your inspection.

Prices range from $20 to $27.50

HOW THE CHAMPIONSHIP CONTENDERS APPEAR AT THE BAT

Both White Sox and Giants are tremendous hitting aggregations, each ranking second in its league, but each being far out ahead in real swatting strength of what the averages show on account of ability to hit when hits are needed to make runs.

Taking them man by man Joe Jackson stands out, in spite of his puny average this year, as the most dangerous hitter of the lot.

The Giants have a slugger of the same type in Zimmerman, a powerful, dangerous, natural batter.

There is little to choose from in the attack of the two outfielders. Jackson outclasses Robertson, the better of the argument in the match and George Burza is a much more dangerous man than either Leibold or Shano Collins.

Kauf and Felsch are about evenly matched and George Burza is a much more dangerous man than either Leibold or Shano Collins.

With the exception of the far corner the White Sox have a trifle better of the argument in the infield on the offensive, and the edge will be greatly raised if Herzog is unable to play.

Gandil is more consistent with the stick than Holke, but his shading is very slight. Collins is more dangerous on attack than Herzog, and the brilliant young Ruberg, in spite of inexperience is superior to Fletcher. At third Zimmerman is more dangerous than Weaver. McCarty is superior to Schalk in the batting department.

All in all in attack the White Sox have a slight advantage, so far as theory and averages go. This advantage is so slight, however, that the least unlooked-for element might easily disturb it.
