ENTERPRISE NOTES

Enterprise, Oct. 14.—(Special.)—One of the prettiest, happiest weddings of the year was celebrated at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Holmes when their daughter, Elsie, became the bride of Carl N. Miller of Portland. Preceding the ceremony Miss Joyce Craig sang, "You Dear and I." The bridal party descended the stairs and entered the south parlor to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Mrs. Edward Holmes of Wallawa. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white satin made en train with veil and carried a shower bouquet of white rose buds. Her bridesmaids, Miss Alice Cornwall of Portland and Miss Ethel Wright of La Grande, wore pink taffeta gowns and carried pink rose buds. Both young ladies are sorority sisters of the bride. Fred A. Holmes, brother of the bride, acted as best man. The impressive Episcopal service was read by Bishop Paddock and the bride was given away by her father. One of the happy incidents of the evening was the ceremony with which Bishop Paddock commemorated the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Holmes, the bride's parents, it being their wedding anniversary. They knelt on the silken cushion during the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Miller will make their home in Portland and will be at home after November 1 in Kingsbury apartments.
