ALICE BRADY AT ARCADE TODAY ONLY

A story that is absolutely true to life is told in "The Hungry Heart," the charming film play made from "Frou Frou," the very successful stage play. A young frivolous woman marries a man older than herself. To them a child is born but the wife still continues on her frivolous career. Consequently her husband brings her sister to his home to run the establishment for him. This sister has been in love with the husband. When the sister comes she soon usurps the wife's place in the house and even alienates the child's affection for its mother. The wife, learning all these things, runs away with a former lover. The husband follows the two to Venice and there fights a duel with the lover in which the latter is killed.

The frivolous young wife is changed into a grief stricken woman. Broken in health and broken-hearted she seeks the forgiveness of her husband. This she eventually secures and with her child at her side she dies in her husband's arms.

Miss Alice Brady, the tremendously popular young star of the World Film Corporation, enacts the role of the young wife and gives to the character all her wealth of beauty and true histrionic ability. The scenic investiture is absolutely perfect to the most minute detail. The gowns are the very latest and the most costly to be obtained. The members of the cast are all capable.

With such a thrillingly interesting story, with such a star and with such an outlay of money and time, "The Hungry Heart" is a really stupendous film offering. To see it is to be entranced by it. The Arcade Theatre will present "The Hungry Heart" tonight only.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS IN GREAT SUCCESS

Staged under the direction of John Emerson, who is responsible for many of "Doug's" former successes, "In Again—Out Again" presents just what the screen most needs, something different, a departure from the conventional. Little Anita Loos has written quite a few remarkable vehicles for the smiling comedian but those who have already viewed her latest effort display no hesitation in declaring it her crowning achievement.

The scenes of the photoplay are located in and about New Jersey and present a story dealing with the romantic and spectacular career of a young blood who goes through many trials and tribulations to win the girl of his choice, portrayed in the typical Fairbanks style. Strange to say this young man finds it more difficult to keep in jail than out of it, and many surprises are evolved during the course of the story. It is readily felt that this will prove the greatest of all Fairbanks triumphs on the screen.

"SUDDEN JIM" STARS CHARLES RAY AT STAR

Reviewed by Louis Reeves Harrison in Moving Picture World.

"Sudden Jim" presents an entirely new characterization for Charles Ray, more manly, more typically American and one calling for an abundance of physical energy, but not quite enough of psychology. Perhaps this is because the man of swift methods does not hesitate long enough to reveal much of his character, but it is attractive and a change from the weakling roles to which Ray has been so long assigned.

He has been very successful in these difficult parts, very consistent in portraying them, but they are not representative of our national character in spite of the fact that they have been a decided improvement on the old-fashioned hero. Perhaps there is a balance to be struck between them which has not been reached, that of a man who overcomes destructive influences on his character by some form of innate strength or refinement of his early environment.

There are many sensational scenes, massed struggles and burning of railroad property, mechanical stuff of the old-fashioned melodrama so often used in pictures, but it is made consistent and plausible in this case. The most noteworthy character outside of that played by Ray is of a venerable county judge by Joseph J. Dowling, a gem in its way. The most amusing episode is that of a woman in the gallery of a nomination meeting calling out to her corrupted husband below that he had better vote the right ticket if he expects to have peace at home, a shot that is particularly opportune and one which will make a hit with audiences in all parts of the country. The love story is weak from lack of development of the girl's character, but that is the weak spot of melodrama as a rule. The minor roles are well taken and interpreted to the full extent of their opportunity. As a whole the story is an attractive piece of sensational realism.
