

DRIVES ACROSS CONTINENT IN MAXWELL AUTOMOBILE.

Cross country trips have been made in all sorts of cars, but this is a new one—a trip in a type of car supposed to be used only for travel about town and to the theatre and the dance.

F. W. Cooper, a retired real estate dealer of Revere, Mass., with his wife and A. L. Hall, of Winthrop, Mass., traveled across the United States in a Maxwell sedan. The party left Boston, June 26, and made the trip in leisurely fashion at low cost and without any car trouble.

The sedan was used as a base camp and whenever a stop was made the car was the traveler's home. A complete camping outfit was carried and the members of the party made the trip in luxurious comfort.

The car burned 315 gallons of gasoline, which cost $87 and used two sets of tires, which cost $215.24. The cost of storing the car and repairs amounted to $30.56. The highest paid for gasoline was in Nevada, where fuel was purchased for 40 cents a gallon.

A Letter From H. C. Cotner--and a Poem

Jap H. Stevens has received a letter from his old friend, H. C. Cotner, who is in the Soldiers' Home, California, and who wishes to be remembered to his old friends. Mr. Cotner says:

"Soldiers' Home, Los Angeles, Cal. Nov. 5.—Well, Jasper, it has been a long time since I wrote you. Not that I had forgotten, but the condition of my eyes is so that I don't write much. I hold a strong glass over the paper to see at all. Jasper, there hardly a day passes but I think of you and Mrs. Stevens, how kind you were to me. I also think of my many friends in La Grande. It is hard for me to find a place that I like as well as La Grande. In fact, it is hard to find a place as good as La Grande. I often think of the beautiful Grande Ronde, its beautiful scenery, and long for its rich flavored fruits and vegetables, and think of the many pleasant years I spent there. I try to forget, but I cannot forget the rich, fertile Grande Ronde. I send you a poem, written by a member of this home, which I ask you to have printed in the La Grande paper. Mr. Andrew is 78 years old. He never was married. It shows that his mind still wanders back to his first love. Kindly remember me to Mrs. Stevens, Uncle George, and to all my friends in La Grande.

From Your Friend,
H. C. COTNER.

The poem referred to follows:

Last night I was in dreamland;
I had a lovely time,
Roaming fields and climbing trees
With a girl of olden times.

She was a lovely blue-eyed maid,
That in childhood I knew;
We roamed the fields in search of flowers,
We fished for shiners, too.

We lived upon adjoining lots,
And in those days of yore,
Grass never grew upon the path
That led from door to door.

As we grew up from six to twelve,
No difference what the weather,
There seldom ever was a day
That we were not together.

Ah! those were happy, happy days,
We never thought of rest
When searching for the cunning spots
Where Bob Whites hid their nests.

It's many days, it's many years
Since folks took her away,
But last night's vision was so plain
It seems but yesterday.

I know such things are fancies
That only come in sleep;
But they bring the happiest moments
That into old age creep.

Such visions come but seldom
In this world of toil and strife;
They're crowded out by sterner things
That make up human life.

The idea may seem silly
In a gray-haired man, I know;
But I like to visit (if only in dreams)
Friends and scenes of long ago.

I saw the trees we climbed in,
I saw the streams we fished;
I saw the bank we sat on
In those old days, when we wished

That we were only older
And could roam the world afar;
Now the greatest grief I know of
Is in knowing that we are.

Though I mingle with the crowd
In its rush for pelf and place,
But something's gone from out my life
That business don't replace.

Success has come with a busy life,
I've money in the bank; but then,
I'd give it all to be a boy
With that same girl again.

I know not what fate's held for her,
I hope her life's been bright;
I truly wish, instead of dream,
I could meet that girl tonight.

It may be time hath changed her
In everything but name;
But maid or matron mattereth not,
I'd love her just the same.

Complaint Almost Gone.
"Foley's Honey and Tar is great," writes L. W. Day, 65 Campbell Ave., E. Detroit, Mich. "It relieves bronchitis quickly. My complaint has almost gone and I hope never to have it again." The experience of thousands proves there is no better remedy for coughs, colds or croup. The genuine costs no more than substitutes, and this old reliable family cough medicine should be in every home every winter. Insist on Foley's Honey and Tar—time tried and never failing. Ad.

U. OF W. PLAY AGGIES TODAY.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 17.—After several day's hard work behind closed doors, the University of Washington football team this afternoon will play the Oregon Aggies.

Ernie Murphy, veteran, has been switched to the backfield and several other changes made in the Washington line-up since the local youths suffered their first defeat since 1908 in California recently.

Both teams are in fine condition.

Born—Friday, November 16, at the Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Spray, a baby boy.

The funeral of the late Mrs. G. M. Taal, who died Thursday, Nov. 15, at 10:00 P. M., will be held Sunday, November 18, at 2:00 P. M. in the Presbyterian church. Interment in the Masonic cemetery.

GRANDMOTHER KNEW

There Was Nothing So Good for Congestion and Colds as Mustard

But the old-fashioned mustard-plaster burned and blistered while it acted. Get the relief and help that mustard plasters gave, without the plaster and without the blister.

Musterole does it. It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. It is scientifically prepared, so that it works wonders, and yet does not blister the tenderest skin.

Just massage Musterole in with the finger-tips gently. See how quickly it brings relief—how speedily the pain disappears. Use Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia), 30c and 60c jars; hospital size $2.50.

ADMISSION 50c

THE BERKELEY SEXTETTE.

CONSIDER the Berkeley Sextette the finest entertainment orchestra now before the public," says Louis O. Runner, the well known organizer and coach. "The programs represent the most advanced type of high grade, refined entertainment known to the American public. Classical music is made interesting to all, and popular music is given a new charm. Orchestra numbers, readings, songs, instrumental solos and costume selections make up this thoroughly pleasing entertainment."

Six talented and vivacious young women, of fine platform presence and with distinct musical ability, attracted to each other by a mutual love of music and thoroughly coached and trained in a program of fine variety, the Berkeley Sextette, soon to be heard on the lyceum course, will more than make good the enthusiastic recommendation quoted above. Hear them.
