An El... lies. His virtues are engraved on the tablets of love and memory. It does the living good to meet on solemn occasions and to remember those who have passed away. In this busy life it is well to devote some time to sentiment, to pause amid cares and worries to think of the future, of the hereafter and those we will meet on the other shore.

Our La Grande football boys and their coach deserve great credit for bringing the interscholastic championship of the state to La Grande. They played good clean football and won. The Franklin boys played and lost like sportsmen.

The letters of the La Grande Hospital boys from the front are the real thing. They are full of interesting experiences, quaint observations, and above all a brave, manly spirit, just what we expected of them. They are well worth reading and a stimulus to our patriotism.

When you hear Walter M. Pierce speak, you think he is the best speaker in Oregon. Then along comes Henry E. McGinn and you conclude that Oregon is blessed with gifted orators. Both spoke at the Elks' memorial and covered themselves with honor.

The Germans are making a desperate effort—the most desperate since Verdun and the Marne. If they are rolled back, the result will be disheartening to the German people.

Somewhat or other, one cannot help feeling that the capture of Jerusalem will be the turning point in the war.

Don't forget the business luncheon tomorrow.

Never Again

What the public needs most to get out of its mind, is that there is any longer a state of antagonism between railroad owners and railroad employees. The old relation between the managers and the men has been eliminated. Both are now subject to an authority above and outside their own industry. Both must carry their claims to the government and submit to its arbitration.

The sooner this fact is recognized the easier it will be to put away the old ideas of private civil war in the field of transportation. In this field the public interest is now paramount. What the country wants is a unified, efficient transportation system, not subject to obstruction through wage disputes. We are moving rapidly toward that ideal, thanks to pressure of war. When we reach it we shall look back with astonishment at the conditions which we so long tolerated in transportation to fulfill destructive regulation by the states and the nation, to wasteful labor wars.—N. Y. Tribune.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mrs. Butler, wife of Dr. Butler of Hot Lake, is in town today.

Mrs. McKenny, wife of Dr. McKenny, of Union, is in town today shopping.

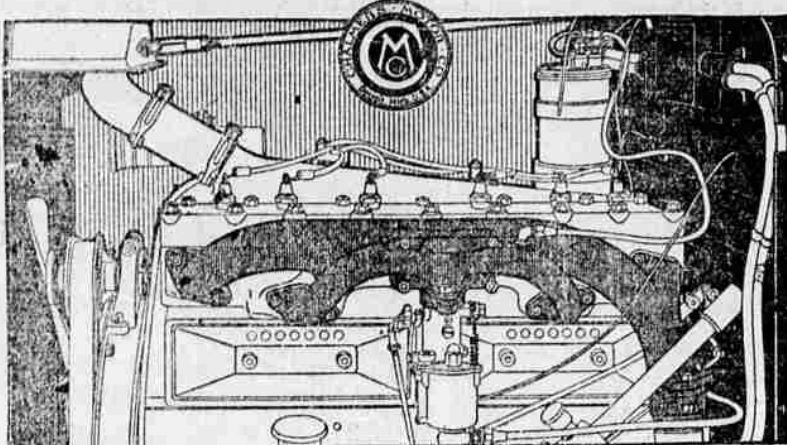

Robert Newlin went to Imbler this morning on business.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Kennedra returned from California points last Friday.

They visited their son, Harry Kennedra, in Los Angeles and also their son-in-law, R. S. Swartz. They also visited in Santa Ana, San Diego and San Francisco and report a very enjoyable time.

Not war pictures but pictures showing conditions now existing in the war zone. "In the Wake of the Huns," and "The Stars and Stripes in France," Star Theatre, Saturday only.

Stomach Trouble and Constipation. Those who are afflicted with stomach trouble and constipation should read the following: "I have never found anything so good for stomach trouble and constipation as Chamberlain's Tablets. I have used them off and on now for the past two years. They not only regulate the action of the bowels but stimulate the liver and keep one's body in a healthy condition," writes Mrs. Benjamin Hooper, Auburn, N. Y.—adv.

An Engine That Digests Low-Grade Gas and Makes High Power Out of It

The thing about the great Chalmers engine that counts is the fact that it actually digests the gas fed to it (and low-grade gas especially).

Everyone knows now that the grade of gasoline is on the decline, and that probably high-grade gas, or even the gas of a year ago, will never come back. And like a man who has been on a high-grade diet and is suddenly given a low-grade diet, many engines in automobiles now have gasoline indigestion.

The Chalmers engine digests gas probably as no engine ever before has done. It makes high power out of low-grade gas.

It makes gasoline work harder than gasoline ever worked before.

Anyone who knows anything about an engine knows that the everlasting riddle has been to get the gas in just exactly a 100% condition of vapor in the combustion chamber before ignition.

The great Chalmers engine has accomplished this, so far as any engine probably ever will be able to do, by means of two clever devices.

One is a "hot spot" feature which heats and "breaks up" the gas after it leaves the carburetor and before it gets to the intake manifold. The other is the "ram s-horn" manifold that, by means of its "easy air bends," sends the gas to the combustion chamber well-nigh perfect.

Hence, more power out of less gas.

On a cold day remarkably quick results in starting are obtained.

No longer a 10-minute fight with your engine. And as soon as the Chalmers engine starts it runs smoothly and delivers power quickly.

Often cars take ten minutes of running to "warm them up."

But not so with the current Chalmers.

And if you weren't a shrewd judge of an automobile, you might overlook some of the other notable features of the current Chalmers, so great has become the achievements of its engine.

Go down to our salesroom and let us show you the great Chalmers engine and the perfection of the current Chalmers.

The Woman Who Pays

Instead of in currency escapes a lot of money matters. She has an account of where her money goes and a receipt for every penny she has paid out. Besides it's so much safer to have the cash in the bank than in the home. Our special department for women will be glad to give information.
