SANDALS ARE REVIVED BY FASHIONABLE PARISIENNE.

(United Press.)
PARIS, Nov. 10. (By Mail.)—The all-important question of footwear has been solved by the fashionable Parisienne. Instead of the high-reaching boots "a la russe," she has decided to adopt the classic sandals. The fashion was started by a well-known shoe-maker of the Place Vendôme, and already he has so many orders that he has difficulty in supplying them. Sandals were the fashion in Paris during the Directoire, when the "Merveilleuses" vied with one another in exhibiting their dainty feet and ankles, regardless of the temperature. But such drastic conditions are not imposed by the new fashion, for a special form of stocking, which makes it possible to pass the attaching ribbons between the toes, is a feature of the new style. Though ostensibly invented to economize shoe-leather, the "mode des sandales" is reserved for those whose pocketbooks have not suffered from the war, for the economy is not for the wearers or those who pay their bills.

Any card or package of Xmas seals in our corner window 5 cents. Look at them. La Grande Pharmacy. 12-512

TWO BILLION DOLLAR THRIFT CAMPAIGN ON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Uncle Sam has set in motion another great "win-the-war" money campaign to catch the nation's vagabond 25-cent pieces. It was the formal launching of the new $2,000,000,000 War Savings Certificates plan.

If you have a quarter you don't know what to do with today—or on any day during the next year—drop into a postoffice, or your bank, or even some department store or railroad station in your town, and buy a "Thrift Stamp."

Take it home as a net egg and "watch it grow." When you get 16 of them, go back to the postoffice and cash them in for a "War Savings Certificate Stamp." Then you have something which cost you $4.12, and which you can cash in five years hence—when your money has helped whip the Boche—for exactly $5.00.

To help you save the Thrift Stamps, the postoffice will furnish you free with a "Thrift Card" bearing 16 alluring spaces for the 25-cent stamps. If you want to buy a War Savings Certificate Stamp outright, it will cost you $4.12 during December and January, with a penny a month added until the close of the offer at the end of 1918.

With the first War Savings Certificate Stamp, you will be given another enticing card with twenty blanks. This when filled in gives you a full-fledged War Savings Certificate, the total cost of which is $82.40 (with a penny a month per stamp added after January, 1918), and which is redeemable on January 1, 1923, for a full $100.

What makes this plan of lending your spare change to the government even more attractive, in the loophole offered of getting rid of the stamps or certificates—at a profit—if you get in a pinch for money. At any time, on ten days' written notice, they will be taken in, and three per cent interest additional paid.

To emphasize it's the small cash that's wanted, the government will refuse to issue more than $100 worth of stamps at one time, or allow any one person to hold more than $1,000 worth. The greater part of the funds obtained under the plan will be spent within the borders of the United States.

Potato Prices—Potato prices are fluctuating more rapidly now than those of any crop the farmers of the Northwest have. For the benefit of the growers and dealers of Oregon, Washington, Northern Idaho and Western Montana, daily bulletins on the potato markets are being issued at North Yakima, Wash., by the Bureau of Markets of the United States Department of Agriculture. They give the fluctuation in price, and many of the conditions that cause them, as the values go up or down daily in the principal markets west of Chicago and from Fort Worth, Texas, to Minneapolis. The bulletins are mailed FREE to all who apply for them and are part of the great work the Bureau of Markets carries on the year around in the various producing sections of the country as the harvesting time works northward from Florida and Texas to the Canadian line. If you want a copy write to the Bureau of Markets, North Yakima, Wash.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MEETING FOR MOTHERS AND HOUSEKEEPERS.

The food conservation campaign is by no means ended. The signing of the Hoover pledge cards is only the beginning. The next step is for everyone to learn how to conserve, and then to do it.

Meetings will be held at the Greenwood school, Thursday at 3:30 and at the Riveria school Friday at 3:30. Miss May Murphy, emergency home demonstration agent from O. A. C. will give practical talks, with recipes for the use of left-overs, war foods, and substitutes for the foods we have been asked to conserve. Miss Murphy will be glad to answer questions relating to the pledge cards. It is hoped that as many housewives as possible will be present.

The librarian of the public library will tell how the administration expects libraries to help in food conservation. The meetings are held at the schoolhouses through the courtesy of the school authorities. Miss Murphy has already spoken at the Central school, before the Parent-Teacher association. Mr. A. C.
