Tuberculosis Nurse Helping to Win the War

THE CLINIC-CLEARING HOUSE FOR TUBERCULOUS CASES

Fighting to Keep Homes Safe From Enemy as Dangerous as German Bombs.

The city of Manchester, Mass., has a tuberculosis visiting nurse. Not long ago a call came to her from a relief agency which had discovered in a dark tenement a woman and her children in a deplorable condition.

The nurse found there a family of four living in three unheated rooms, dirty and disorderly because the mother was too weak to keep them clean. A little girl who should have been at school was doing the house work and caring for the baby. The mother, bearing the marks of advanced tuberculosis, was nursing the baby. When the father came in the nurse discovered that his eyesight was bad, which might account for his being unable to hold a job for any length of time.

A physician, called on the advice of the nurse, pronounced the woman an advanced consumptive. She must stop nursing the baby and go to a sanatorium. The nurse knew that this meant that the care of the entire family would now be under her supervision. She would have to help the father get steady work and do what she could to save the little ones already exposed to infection. There was no turning back from her responsibility. She shouldered it, as she had in many a similar case, and began the slow work of putting the family back on its feet. The visiting tuberculosis nurse, as this typical instance shows, is more than her name implies. She is a family organizer who must step in and take the helm while the breadwinner, or the family manager, is under treatment. The work of such a nurse is daily becoming more important and complex. War conditions have brought to light thousands of hitherto unsuspected cases of tuberculosis among men of draft age. These men are being sent back to their homes, where they must be instructed in their own care and in the protection of their families. If not so instructed they become a menace to those around them. Upon the nurse falls much of this work. She instructs them in the nature of their disease, sees that they attend a clinic and helps them to get to a sanatorium if it is necessary. The tuberculosis visiting nurse is in reality a war nurse today, for she is fighting a desperate fight against a strongly entrenched and insidious enemy within, which is making serious inroads on the war strength of our people.

A TUBERCULOUS MOTHER WHO NEEDS NURSES' ADVICE AND CARE

Venetians Will Appear Tonight

The Venetians are an all-star company and will be the great attraction tonight at the Y. M. C. A. lyceum course in the auditorium this evening at the high school.

The lyceum bureau says of this attraction: "We are proud of the personnel of this great musical company. We are eager for you to hear them, and pass judgment upon them. If you know the artists making up the organization you would share our eagerness. In a world wide search for musical artists for the lyceum and chautauque platform there is occasionally found a nugget of pure gold. Once in a decade there is effected an organization presenting such a new, fresh and wholly invigorating program as to awaken even the blasé critic to enthusiasm. Splendid artists are those, richly in natural endowment, finished in culture and experience. There's nothing of the stereotyped and broad-made in their offering. It has the charm of originality, the appeal of the unusual. And all this is shid as a result of their great success in lyceum and chautauque last season.

"The combination of talents is exceptional. There's Vasselli, the foremost and best of the recognized exponents of that little known instrument, the Italian Grand Concert Accordion, whose music has charmed probably three million hearers in his extended concert tours covering every important city of America, Europe, South America and the Holy Land. Then Annabel Sturges, violinist, who plays the wild gypsy dances and folk music of many lands with fire and dash, thrilling her hearers. And Katherine Kelley, pianist, presenting novel features of her own conception, climaxing artistry with the spell of dominating personality, undefinable, winning, attractive. And, rounding out the perfect ensemble, Ethel Eastleton, accompanist and soprano, who plays and sings with understanding and appreciation.

"It is an all star company, versatile in a high degree, with a popular program of accordion numbers, violin selections, solos, readings, songs, all presented in costumes in an inevitable way. In our enthusiasm concerning the organization we are prone to superlatives. Hear them and you will understand the reason for our enthusiasm."

CHRISTMAS MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Harvey Lindley, Northwest Chairman, Writes Strong Letter Commending Union County's Great Work.

Mr. Ed. Kiddle, Campaign Manager, Christmas Red Cross Membership Drive, Island City, Oregon.

Dear Mr. Kiddle:— Your campaign workers braved the weather and went from house to house and farm to farm, canvassing for the Red Cross memberships. There was no hardship they were not willing to undergo. The distressing shortage of buttons and other supplies embarrassed them, but they went ahead with lofty courage. They were animated by love of our country, affection for our soldier boys and a desire to be of actual service in relieving the suffering caused by frightful war; also they were determined Union County should do its full share in the enrollment of members in response to the appeal of President Wilson making every man and woman to join the Red Cross.

The results in Union county speak for themselves. To your heroic workers belongs the credit. It was individual work like this all over our state that won again for Oregon the proud distinction of being among the foremost states of our Union in patriotic achievement.

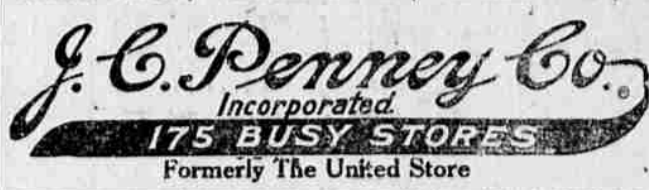

No mere letter of thanks can convey to your workers anything like the credit that is their due. Their devotion demonstrates that they were not striving for personal credit. Their rich reward is in the consciousness of sacrifice made and duty done, but in behalf of the Northwestern Division Campaign Committee, will you kindly convey to each and all of them, through any channel that may be available, the deep sense of appreciation felt at Division and State Headquarters for their devoted service.

Yours gratefully,
HARVEY LINDLEY,
Chairman, Northwestern Division Campaign Committee.
C. C. CHAPMAN,
HENRY E. REED,
Members for Oregon.

Accused of Bootlegging. PENDLETON, Or., Jan. 7.—(Special.)—A new trick in bootlegging camouflage was uncovered here at the trial of H. Earl Jeffries on a charge of importing liquor.

Some days ago Sheriff Taylor confiscated a trunk at each of the two railway stations here and arrested Jeffries as the owner of both. When one of the trunks was opened in the court room today it was found to be full of bottled liquor, but, in each corner of the top tray, was packed a cigar box containing a few marbles. Their purpose, it is assumed, was to make a noise like an honest trunk in order to divert attention from the real contents. Jeffries, who, it is claimed has been operating in La Grande, Pasco and Wallace, Idaho, as well as Pendleton, was fined $200.

The Old, Old Scorpion. Scorpions are relics of prehistoric times. They have been in existence since the middle alurian era, and through all the changes in environment in the millions of years which have elapsed they have remained practically the same in structural character, in habit. There is little if any evidence that these animals in the past days of their history have ever gained a livelihood by means other than those employed at the present day.—London Standard.

A Harmless Fad. "I suppose in these ragtime days you sell very little classical music?" "More than you would imagine," answered the music dealer. "Almost everybody buys a few sheets to place on the piano when company comes."—Lamb.
