CARRY THE MESSAGE

Do Your Bit in War and Talk About It.

Save Wheat, Meat, Fats and Sugar, and Ask Others if They Are Doing Same.

Washington.—Fight the war with food—and talk about it!

Do not hide your light under a bushel if you are helping win the war against Germany by following the teachings of the United States food administration.

Practice the doctrine of saving the wheat, the meat, the fats and the sugar and ask others if they are doing the same.

Tell them what you are doing and how. Tell it in detail, by casual reference, humorously, seriously, intimately, or in public addresses. Tell them directly or by insinuation, as may be your method, that you think those who are not fighting through the kitchen are slackers.

Bring home to everyone within the sound of your voice the fact that we are as deeply involved in war as any other nation and that we must furnish food for our grates and our allies.

Tell them of the hungry children in Europe who are growing daily more thin and bloodless, losing all their childish energy and joy, because of lack of food, added to horror and shock.

Impress on your audience, be it great or small, that if love of humanity will not make them save food, the instinct of self preservation should. WE MUST HAVE FOOD TO WIN THE WAR!

CUT OUT MIDDLEMEN

Mrs. Georgia Jane Pratt, well-known society woman of Chicago and Benton Harbor, Mich., is on the eve of organizing an anti-middleman association as a result of her gardening experience the past summer. Her farm, just outside of Benton Harbor, produced some of the finest corn to be seen anywhere, corn which her friends were buying at 50 cents a dozen. Commission merchants offered her seven cents a dozen for her product. She brought her story to the National Emergency Food Garden Commission in Washington and was referred to Mr. Hoover to the answer. If he hasn't she is determined to get satisfaction herself.

Parasites have been used at different times for the making of both bread and wine.

Talking Steps.
Redd—He's taking steps to reduce his flesh.
Greene—What steps is he taking?
"What do you mean—what steps? He's walking"—Yonkers Statesman.

Curious Walking Feet.
The most curious walking feat in Scotland dates back to a former century, when Sir Andrew Leith Hay and Lord Kennedy did a great walk for a bet of £1,500. Hay said he could walk from Blair hall in Kinrossshire to Inverness in less time than Kennedy.

They started off that very night at nine o'clock, in their evening clothes, with their shoes and silk stockings. Sir Andrew took the coach road via Huntly and Elgin. Lord Kennedy, with Captain Ross as umpire, went straight across the Grampians in pouring rain. They waited all that night, all next day, and the following night, and Lord Kennedy got to Inverness at six o'clock in the morning of the third day, and won his bet by four hours.

THINGS THAT WE LAUGH AT

Inanimate Objects, Because of Association, Used by Comedians to Cause People to Smile.

The intrinsic humor possessed by inanimate objects is a study in itself. A person has but to lift up a string of sausages to make us smile. There must be some curious association of ideas, writes Rob Wagner in the Saturday Evening Post, that has always made of sausages a favorite prop for the comedian. The popularity of spaghetti as a laugh provoker probably lies in the great difficulty of cutting it with dignity. Because of some strange significance, lawnmowers and baby carriages are potential of much mirth.

Inanimate objects are not the only facetious things in life; among the fruits and vegetables we find are comedians. We have a complete flora and fauna of comedy that every director is supposed to know. The edible props of plesantry are the cabbage, prune and onion; while among the animals, the jackass and the mule get the longest laughs, though I believe the goat produces the strongest.

We had a stupid director who thought because a Shetland pony offered such a tremendous contrast to a mule he could hitch the two together and get a lot of laughs. It cost a bunch of money to convince this unanalytical clump that people regard these diminutive horses much as they do beautiful children; they are too sweet and cute to be subjected to the slightest indignity. Sheer beauty is never funny.

OLD CHURCH WITH A HISTORY

St. Martin's-in-the-Fields Has Pew Permanently Reserved for Sovereign and Prince.

There are many interesting associations with royalty attaching to the historic church of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, where the king and queen recently attended a special service. It is not generally known, states a London correspondent, that pews are permanently reserved there for the sovereign and the prince of Wales owing to the fact that it is the mother church of all the royal parishes, and the parish church for Buckingham palace.

Henry VIII built the first church to prevent funerals passing his palace in Whitehall. The present edifice dates from 1723 and its chief claim to architectural distinction is that it possesses the only perfect example of a Grecian portico in London. In the older church some of the children of Charles II were christened.

George I presented it with an organ, on which Handel frequently played. Nell Gwynne and Jack Sheppard were buried in the ancient vaults. It was opposite the present St. Martin's, where the National Portrait Gallery now stands, that the Merry Monarch, on his way to Drury Lane theater, caught his first glimpse of the famous beauty as she was selling her oranges.

The Dungeon.
The dungeon, or keep, of the castle was a tower within, much stronger than the rest of the structure and designed as a last resort for the garrison when the walls and other portions of the fortification had fallen into the hands of the enemy. The dungeon was generally provided with a secret exit, a tunnel being constructed, often many hundreds of yards in length, leading to some concealed outlet through which the beleaguered could receive succor, or, in time of necessity, escape.

GERMAN CASUALTIES PUT AT 1,750,000

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The total German casualties in the western theatre during the year 1917 are conservatively estimated at 1,750,000, according to official British war office reports received here today.

"This figure greatly exceeds the combined losses of the British and French," the report continued. British and French captures on the western front exceed 230,000. In Palestine General Allenby added another 15,000 Turks to the Texon total.

UNITED STATES LEAGUE OF BASEBALL PLAYERS

By H. C. HAMILTON (United Press Staff Correspondent) NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—It seems to be an indisputable fact that the greatest baseball league ever seen will be in operation next summer in the United States.

Professional and amateur baseball probably will be rolled together in one big mass in national army and national guard camps, naval training stations and naval reserve stations.

One naval reserve station seems well qualified without further comment to take the championship of the entire armed forces. At the Casquets, Navy Yard, Boston, Jack Barry, Chick Shorten, Ernie Shore, Duffy Lewis, Harold Javrin, Walter Maranville and other big league luminaries are spending their time. Stuffy McInnis, Philadelphia's wonder first-baseman, and Dick Hoblit, Boston first sacker, have given notice that they intend going to the same place.

Hank Gowdy is among the soldiers in the Ohio National Guard and the chances are he will be in Europe before time comes to play baseball. Jim Scott also is in the army.

But the big leaguers probably will find their accustomed places in the daylight, untripped to a certain extent in the army, for the amateurs are going to carry more weight with the people. Lads who never played baseball to any great extent are going to try their hands at blossoming into stars.

The Clark Griffith Bat and Ball fund and efforts of the two big leagues are going to make the camp and naval baseball possible. Thousands of dollars have been spent for equipment to be placed in the camps, and already much of it has been put to a good use. In the southern camps baseball has been possible through most of the chilly months. The northern camps will get into action later.

The National league has equipped several warships at its own expense with baseball paraphernalia, and the men aboard these defenders of the nation are not only enjoying the game themselves, but are taking it into Europe.

Amateur organizations all over the country have taken up the work of putting baseball on a real footing in the camps, and the probability is teams in these organizations will play a schedule with camp teams.

F. S. Lyons, of Reith, arrived Wednesday night and has taken up his duties as operator in the dispatcher's office. Mrs. Lyons arrived yesterday.

Here Is a Little Song Sammie's Sing

By J. W. PEGLER (United Press Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY ARMY, FRANCE, Dec. 13 (By Mail).—And here's one more little ditty the boys are howling these days as they march to the practice trenches.

They sang this one up in the front line trenches, too.

It goes to the tune of that old song about the Old Gray Mare.

Little jazz, Mister Leader Mann: When old Uncle Sam He gets his artiller-ee And the infantry And the cavalry When old Uncle Sam He gets his artiller-ee God help Kaiser Bill.
