"UP OR DOWN"

Amusing comedy at the Arcade Theatre Sunday.

(Reviewed by Edward Weitzel in Moving Picture World.)

Most of the situations and the humor of the five-part triangle comedy, "Up or Down," are amusing, but the author, Linn F. Reynolds, must have been in a very whimsical mood when he wrote it. It frequently becomes a burlesque on western screen drama and if viewed in this spirit, has decided qualities of entertainment. George Hernandez as the reformed house-breaker, is just the right selection for the part. He is funny any way you want to look at him, and makes Dallas Mike as likeable an old fall-bird as ever spent all his vacations in the seclusion of a cell. Mike's one serious failing is his tender heart. It is always getting getting him into trouble by prompting him to help other people out of theirs.

Young novelist barren of ideas, runs into Mike just as he has been let out of prison and takes him west in search of new material for a story. Fate, in the shape of a small boy, causes them to find lodging on a ranch owned by an attractive young girl, and the literary man starts to write a new story but finds himself running short of exciting detail. Then Mike takes a hand and executes a series of fake adventures that furnish the novelist first hand material and permit him to pose as a hero and win the heart of the girl.

Linn F. Reynolds has directed his story to good purpose and able characterizations follow the efforts of Fritz Ridgeway, Jack Gilbert, Edward Bredell, Jack Curtis, Graham Pette and Ed Burns.

"Up or Down" will be shown at the Arcade theatre on Sunday.

Ann Pennington Scores
a Hit of the Gridiron

One of the few sports or "occupations" still remaining taboo for girls in football, the toughest and most fascinating of games; but diminutive Ann Pennington, the dancer of "Follies" fame, has broken the taboo even for football, and in her newest Paramount picture, "The Antics of Ann," she realizes an ambition of hundreds of girls who have wished in their hearts to take part in the sport. In full football regalia, she dashes madly towards the goal and narrowly misses making a historic touchdown. This is only one of the many amusing incidents abounding in "The Antics of Ann," which will furnish entertainment at the Arcade theatre on Monday and Tuesday.

"THE SILENT LADY"

Five-Reel Butterfly Release Features
Gretchen Lederer and Zoe Rae
in Story of Heart Appeal

Reviewed by Robert C. McElvray in Moving Picture World

"The Silent Lady" is a sympathetic little story, written by Elliott J. Clawson, and very capably directed by Elsie Jane Wilson. The principal setting is a light-house along a picturesque coast, and in the attached dwelling are three old salts, a housekeeper and Little Kate, a niece of one of the men. The child part, a strong feature of the story, is played by Zoe Rae, a six-year-old who appeared with frequent success in screen subjects, and in this adds further good work to her list.

The most important part, however, is assumed by Gretchen Lederer, who appears as Miss Summerville, a trained nurse. She comes into the tale later, after the child is taken down with typhoid fever. Gretchen Lederer has been appearing for some years in film stories, usually in supporting parts, but occasionally in the leads. She has an attractive personality and strong features of a pleasant, thoughtful cast. Her screen methods are always effective, and in this number she makes the most of her opportunity. Her work as Miss Summerville reveals a depth of womanly emotion which does much to carry the slight plot to success.

After the child begins to recover, the housekeeper becomes jealous of the nurse and leaves the place. The nurse remains and becomes the victim of much gossip as a result. The three men respect and at the same time fall in love with her, but she refuses to marry any one of them. She also refuses the doctor, who loves her. Her "story" is brought out later, when she hears of the coming of Captain Brodie, an inspector. She tells his coming that she turns out the big light, forgetting the danger it may bring to passing vessels. Little Kate obviates this by turning on the light. It develops that Captain Brodie had deceived Miss Summerville some time before by a false declaration of love. The story ends happily by her tacit acceptance of the doctor.

The three sailors are played by Winter Hall, Harry Holden and Edwin Brown. Others in the cast are Linn Warren and E. A. Warren.

"The Silent Lady" will be presented at the Star theatre Sunday and Monday.

Croup at Midnight; Well in Morning.

"A few nights ago one of my patients had a small child taken with croup about midnight," writes M. T. Davis, Bearsville, W. Va. "They came to my store and got a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar. Before morning the child was entirely recovered. The father's name is C. C. Gray." Isn't it unwise to experiment with unknown cough medicines when you can get the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar? Best for coughs, colds, croup and laryngitis. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

Have investigated matter of use of Old Town fire bell for curfew purposes and find same can be had.

The fire bell situation is this: The bell was originally purchased by the City of La Grande. Later the Old Town fire company which was receiving a compensation from the city, reimbursed the city to the amount of the purchase price of the bell from the proceeds of their company fund. This Old Town fire company was disbanded some years ago and many of the members then belonging are no longer in the city but some of them who are still residents of the city have expressed themselves as being willing to permit the city to remove it and use it for curfew purposes. The bell has not been placed in a position to be used for some time.

C. M. Lockwood is now auditing the books for the year 1917. Same will be completed some time next week.

City Recorder has prepared list of those delinquent in the matter of paving assessments, which will be submitted for your examination in this meeting.

City Attorney is preparing for proper notification to delinquents, and after due notice, necessary foreclosures will be instituted.

Yours respectfully,
F. B. CURREY,

Overflow Meeting Held at Enterprise

ENTERPRISE, Jan. 25.—(Special.)—The Canadian army officers who spoke here last night were greeted by a large and enthusiastic crowd. Two buildings were necessary to hold the people and these were so crowded that many were unable to get in. The opera house and the court house were used for the occasion and the officers took turns speaking in each place so that every one was able to hear each officer speak. Much enthusiasm was displayed and the speeches were vigorously applauded many times during the course of the evening. The County Defense League had charge with A. C. Miller presiding at the opera house and District Attorney Fairchild at the court house. The speeches were very interesting and were enjoyed very much by every one present and every one seemed to agree with the speakers that peace should be made on no terms but those of the Allies.

Twins' Fate Identical

Wounded in Same Place at Same Time; Cots Now Adjoin.

Here is a remarkable war coincidence. Twin brothers in Scotland enlisted in the same company and were sent together to France. In an attack both were shot through the left ankle at the same time, the bullets in both cases lodging in the right foot.

The men were brought to England together and are in a hospital on adjoining cots.

Owens Historic Flag.

Capt. Thomas H. Laird, Savannah harbor master, is flying from the balcony of his residence a beautiful American flag which was rescued by his son, Gilbert, from the City of Memphis, on which the latter was first officer, when the ship was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine last March. On account of the unusual connections of the flag, Captain Laird flies the flag only Sundays.

JAW OF BEHEMOTH

Dug Up in Alaska Snow and Then Shipped Out South.

The lower jaw of a mammoth, said to be the only similar relic of the extinct behemoth now in existence, was brought to San Francisco recently from Point Barrow, Alaska, by the power schooner Herman.

The relic was dug out of the snow by natives while the vessel was in Point Barrow harbor. The beast which possessed the jaw is said to have roamed over the Alaskan plains thousands of years ago. The jaw will be presented to an eastern museum.

A live polar bear was also captured near Point Barrow and brought down on the schooner.
