A Record Saddle Mount

Who is it? Douglas Fairbanks, of course. Yes, and the trick is much more difficult than it looks, incidentally representing the longest saddle mount ever recorded in either real or reel life.

Coming to Arcade Friday and Saturday

There was plenty of "dust" in his belt when he hit El Dorado so it was the excitement, rather than the monthly stipend, which led Walton to accept the post of guardian of law and order.

Then one day Jim Walton, while on his regular tour of inspecting the mining properties, saw the windmill turning on one of the abandoned shafts. He investigated and found Joe Malone, El Dorado's most successful failure, at work in the shaft.

After ordering the sinking Malone off the property Walton decided to investigate further. He knew it would take some rare prize to get real work out of the town failure and at the bottom of the shaft he found the incentive. Joe Malone had uncovered a rich vein of gold in the abandoned shaft.

On this discovery and the coming of a quack doctor and his beautiful little daughter to El Dorado hinge the plot which make "The Medicine Man" a thrilling Triangle masterpiece of Western life.

JOSEPH HAS REAL WINTER WEATHER

SLEIGHING, COASTING, SKATING ARE ENJOYED

Red Cross Show Clears Over $150—House Was Full—Twelve Numbers Given on the Program and Jitney Dance.

JOSEPH, Jan. 28.—(Special.)—Real winter is now being enjoyed in Joseph and cold, blustery days have marked the past week. Sleighting and coasting and even skating are all enjoyed whenever possible. This is truly a good country to live in even in the winter, which is not so bad as sometimes pictured.

Red Cross Show. Between $150 and $200 was cleared at the Red Cross show last Saturday night. The house was packed and all twelve numbers on the program (not to mention the Jitney dance) were liberally applauded. The Joseph concert band helped out some of the numbers while Miss Alta Spaulding furnished the music for others. In fact everything from the hand selections in the first act to the patriotic number in the last, including all numbers in between such as Mrs. Parker's and Mrs. McCully's songs, Alvin and Sox, Prof. Wise and "Chain," Mr. Pollock's cartooning, Miss Wastell's dancing, the "girl numbers" and all the rest, deserve special comment. Miss Wastell, the director of the affair is to be congratulated as are the performers, and all Joseph hopes that more like it will be put on in the future as we now surely know that we have plenty of local talent. One thing did happen during the course of the evening that is to be regretted and that was that some little boys took $15 of the Red Cross money which had been taken in and although no names have yet been mentioned it is thought that the parties are known.

Mrs. Leslie Ill.

Mrs. Anna Leslie has been quite ill this last week and her condition was such that her daughter, Miss Clara Leslie, who is a teacher in the schools here, remained at home with her. Miss Emma Shannafelt supplied for her during her absence.

Sunday School Growing.

The M. E. Sunday school surely is growing as last Sunday nearly one hundred and forty persons were in attendance while a year ago last Sunday only one hundred and nine were there. The increase is due to Mr. Pollock's untiring efforts to build up the school and to the great interest which the activities have aroused.

Miss Cole Returns.

Miss Vera Cole is back in Joseph after a stay of several weeks in Baker county.

New Edition Welcomed.

N. B. Pentreath, business manager of the La Grande Evening Observer, was in Joseph last week and while here made a visit to our schools. He announced that soon the Observer would print a morning edition for Wallowa county, which is truly a big favor to us who now must wait for from 16 to 24 hours after the news is printed to get it, but when the new edition is out we get it the day it is printed.

Mrs. Holmes Visits.

Mrs. W. R. Holmes was in Joseph visiting last Saturday and Sunday. Investigating Robbery. The District Attorney was in Joseph the other day investigating the drug store robbery which took place

"IDLE WIVES" TOMORROW AT THE ARCADE THEATRE

"Idle Wives," Lois Weber's great photoplay of life, which comes to the Arcade tomorrow for one day only may well be called "Life's Mirror," for it is merely a real production of the greatest drama of time: "Life." James Oppenheim wrote the book from which "Idle Wives" has been adapted.

"Idle Wives" has but recently completed a record breaking run at the Maxine Elliott theatre in New York City, where it received the commendation it so richly deserves. Jane McLean, the great woman settlement worker, says of this master feature: "It holds the mirror up to society and conveys the greatest lesson of democracy which I have had the pleasure to witness." The Rev. Thomas B. Gregory says: "It was my great good fortune last evening to see "Idle Wives" at the Maxine Elliott Theatre and it was ridiculous; it was ridiculous simply because it is a perfect replica of human life, and human life is the only ridiculous thing under the stars."

"Zit" of the New York Evening Journal says: "I have never seen society hit as I saw the upper classes shown in "Idle Wives" last night at the Maxine Elliott Theatre." Every person in the world should see this remarkable production. When these people occurred in a play like "Idle Wives" for its service to humanity, they merely express the opinion of the many thousands who stormed the doors of the Maxine Elliott Theatre in New York City for many weeks. To the girl who is discontented, to the husbands and wives, to those in comfortable circumstances who envy those in better circumstances than they, "Idle Wives" exerts a powerful appeal, its lesson is conclusive and complete.

LADY ABERDEEN DOING GOOD WORK FOR BABIES

In Dublin, Belfast and other cities in Ireland the infant mortality is 50 per cent higher than in New York city. One of the big bits of work, said Lady Aberdeen, is "getting behind the babies in order to build up the nation weakened by war."

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immediately effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week.
