Snow White and Seven Dwarfs Tonight

At the High School auditorium tonight the play "Snow White," which the children and grown-ups have long looked forward to, will be presented. The cast of 40, both big and little, taking part, have been working for weeks to get this into shape, under Mrs. Lester Murphy's supervision, who reports that all are doing splendidly and a few are showing exceptional talent.

The fairy tale is woven around little Princess Snow White, of whom her step-mother, Queen Braugomar, is so jealous she makes Snow White wear ragged clothes and stay in the kitchen. Finally, by the aid of Witch Hex, Snow White is sent into the woods with Berthold, Chief Huntsman, to be put to death. Not having the heart to take her life, he leaves Snow White in the woods where she finally wanders to the hut of the Seven Dwarfs who befriend her. By the aid of her Magic Mirror the Queen finds out where Snow White is, and in the guise of an old peddler woman she goes to do her harm.

But after many things happen, the Prince comes to claim Snow White, and the play ends as all fairy tales do—"and they lived happily ever afterwards."

The Flower Maidens dance and the work of the eight Maids of Honor are two of the artistic touches of the play. All the way through the play is spotted with bits of humor in the form of Sir Dandiprat Bomas, Court Chamberlain.

Mrs. Lester Murphy, who will play the title role, "Snow White," is a graduate under Dr. Cumnock, of Northwestern University, Chicago. Later she was dramatic instructor in one of the Minneapolis conservatories during the winter months and with the Ellison-White Chautauqua system during the summer.

There are rumors that the play may have to be repeated in order to accommodate the crowds of anticipating people. The curtain rises at 8:15 p. m.

WOMEN LOVED BY LINCOLN

Loss of One of Them in Early Youth Cast a Lifelong Shadow Across His Heart.

There was a wild rose slip of a girl in a blue sunbonnet, with whom he walked the lanes of his homespun days. There was a clever, cultured woman, whose brilliant intellect lighted his ascending way in the Illinois legislature. And there was the belle of the gay social set at Springfield, who fluttered across his pathway as it led to Washington. One he loved, and one he tried to, and one he married. These were the women that he courted. They loved Lincoln. To them the greatest American was far nearer than a lofty figure on a high pedestal. They heard his heart beat!

These were the women that loved Lincoln. One of them today lies near the banks of the Sangamon where he loved her. To the last there was with him the long, long sorrow of her loss that cast its shadow across his heart in youth. As late as 1854 he pushed aside state papers in the executive mansion at Washington to talk of her late in the night to a friend who had come from back home. One rests peacefully in a little cemetery at Pleasant Ridge, Ill. The mother of five children, her tombstone reads: "Mary Owens Vineyard." One lies at his side in the great mausoleum in Springfield, where the state keeps her bier and his heaped with fresh, fragrant flowers. When an assassin's bullet took his life, the American people mourned a great president. She mourned a great husband.—Dellencor.

Soldiers Oppose "Sammy's." CAMP LEWIS, American Lake, Wash., Feb. 12.—(U. P.)—"If the people call soldiers 'Sammy's' they must call the Great American Eagle 'birdie,'" declared Capt. M. D. Walty, camp censor. Like all other divisional officers he is very much "avin' in" this "Sammy" idea and asks that "Yank" be used.

A stock market flurry occurred at the Sennett studio recently, and the members of the company where Paramount-Mack Sennett comedies are produced were thrown into temporary turmoil.

Somebody knew a man who knew another man who was a broker, who knew the president of an oil company. All they had to do as to invent a couple of cart-wheels, and then begin peddling out their new Ford. A still hunt is now on for the miscreant who contributed the tip. Louise Fazenda declares she cleaned up on the stock but adds that she is through with the market forever, so there is a doubt.

Lincoln's Fine Tribute to Bereaved Mother

At this time, above all times, when our thoughts revert to the man by many considered the greatest president that our country has had, we are proud to publish a letter written by him to a bereaved mother. It went from the heart to the heart, and its message still stirs the soul of motherhood.

The letter was this:

Executive Mansion
Washington, Nov. 21, 1864
To Mrs. Binly, Barre, Mass.
Dear Madam,
I have been shown in the files of the War Department a statement of the Adjutant General of Massachusetts that you are the mother of five sons who have died gloriously on the field of battle. I feel how weak and fruitless must be any work of mine which should attempt to lighten you from the grief of a loss so overwhelming. But I cannot refrain from tendering you the consolation that may be found in the thanks of the Republic they died to save. I pray that our Heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement, and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and lost, and the solemn promise that must be yours to have paid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom.
Yours very sincerely and respectfully,
Lincoln.

Is it any wonder that this famous letter is still hanging on the walls of Brasenose college, Oxford university, England, as a model of pure and exquisite English and as a compelling expression of a great heart and mind?

Notable Recital Is Given By Miss Hindman

Stop Livid! Corn Quit with "Get-it"

The Great Corn-Loosener of the Age. Never Fails. Painless. Watch my step? What's the use? I go along, "right side up" without care, even with corns, because I use "Get-it!" the business, old-fashioned, name-brand, corn remover. I tried other ways before, until I was blue.

Corns Simply Can't Stop Us. We use "Get-it!" in the face and red in the neck. No more for me. Use "Get-it!" It never fails. Touch any corn or callus with two drops of "Get-it!" and "Get-it!" does the rest. It's a relief to be able to stop cutting corns, making them bleed, wrapping them up like packages and using sticky tape and salve. It removes any corn clean and clear, leaving the toe as smooth as your palm. You can wear those new shoes without pain, dance and be happy on your feet. It's great to get "Get-it!" "Get-it!" is sold at all drug stores (you need pay no more than 25 cents a bottle) or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill. Sold in La Grange and recommended as world's best corn remedy by La Grange Pharmacy, Red Cross Drug Store and C. D. Putman.—Adv. 5-11-11.

ARCADE

VAUDEVILLE TOMORROW

The Hippodrome vaudeville show that will appear at the Arcade tomorrow will offer a little novelty in the shape of a real French soldier recently back from "over there." Jean S. Anne is the young man's name and he sings several original selections and also the French national anthem. He appears in uniform and shows evidence of a wound received in battle.

Another special act is Carlo and the Box. Carlo is a man about six feet tall and the box he uses is about twelve feet square. He uses the box as a dressing room where he makes several character changes that are remarkable.

The Lindrud Girls are three young ladies with good singing voices. Their numbers range from popular, syncopated, old and up-to-date ballads. They have been very well received all over the circuit.

Helms and Evans are a young couple and are perhaps as versatile a team as ever expounded Dutch comedy, music and song. Their act brims with original humor, a wealth of song and classy dancing.

This entire bill comes with the highest recommendations and with the Keystone comedy will probably be a program that will make a hit with the audience.

"A WIFE ON TRIAL"

The Butterfly picture "A Wife on Trial," that was billed to be shown at the Star theatre a short time back but was delayed on account of the storms will be shown at the Star today and tomorrow.

Suppose you were a girl, pretty, young, and full of the joy of life. Suppose that you were an orphan, entirely dependent upon your own resources and that you had worked hard for years in a public library but still found it impossible to earn more than a few dollars a week. Suppose that you had to live in a stuffy boarding house, that you never had any fun, and that you were simply consumed with longing for a rose garden. Would you accept the offer of the hand, if not the heart, of a paralyzed young millionaire and agree to devote yourself to him and his whims, in return for a rose garden and as much money to spend as you wanted?

This is the question which confronted Phyllis Braithwaite, and how she solved it will be shown at the Star theatre today and tomorrow in "A Wife on Trial."

Also on the same program will be a two-reel LKO comedy called the Nurse of an Aching Heart. The fun moves along at a rapid rate and the comedy is scattered all through the two reels.

Jean St. Anne is a wounded Poilu of France. He is in the vanguard bill at the Arcade tomorrow. 2-12-11.

SCREEN NOTES

James Young the well known director, whose career dates back to practically the inception of the photodrama, has again joined the Paramount fold and will direct Scenic Hayakawa in his next Paramount picture, "The Unforgivable Sin."

"Fatty" Arbuckle doesn't have to go to war. He has just been declared over-weight by Uncle Sam, and therefore is exempt. But he is doing his bit in many ways, one of the principal ones being by creating laughs for the boys in the training camps, in the Paramount comedies.

Another of Sir Gilbert Parker's stories will soon be seen on the screen. J. Stuart Blackton, who is producing now for Paramount, has finished "Wild Youth," and from advices from the coast, it is said to be a remarkable bit of work.

Natalie Talmadge, third of the famous trio of Talmadge sisters, was drafted by Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle for his new picture "The Bell Boy," to be released by Paramount. Natalie didn't aspire for film honors, but Fatty said he needed her eyes to complete the beauty and charm of the film. There are lots of types in the comedy, and among them, Natalie Talmadge will stand out strongly by reason of her aristocratic and the best feature of
