Y. M. C. A. IS PRAISED

Extracts of letters from the front written by Ray L. Williams of Portland who was quite well known in La Grande, being a visitor here many times:

"Too much praise cannot be given to the Y. M. C. A. for their work 'over here.' Conditions in New York prior to our departure were very much exaggerated by most of the newspapers as we were in much better quarters than was believed by many."

"Tobacco and matches are not to be had at any price."

Mr. Williams was a prominent motorcyclist. His address is, "Ray L. Williams, M. G. Co., 162nd Inf., A. E. F., France."

"Don't waste while your wife saves. Hooverize at your downtown lunch!"

Mary in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," followed by "In the Bishop's Carriage," in which she starred, touring this country and Australia. In her remarkable performance of the star part in "Polly of the Circus," she became the idol of the nation. Her most recent stage appearance was in Hall Calne's "The Woman Thou Gavest Me."

For Metro Pictures Corporation, Miss Tallaferra has appeared in "The Jury of Fate," "Peggy, the Will O' the Wisp," "The Dawn of Love," "God's Half Acre," "Her Great Price," "The Snowbird," and other features. ### SCENE FROM "SIRENS OF THE SEA"

Star Theatre, Sunday and Monday

ARCADÉ

"The Ship of Doom." The "Ship of Doom" is notable particularly for lighting and photographic effects, which equal, if not surpass, any of those employed in recent pictures. The play is replete with the spirit and tang of the sea, which flashes on the screen in all its silver magnificence. Primitive emotions, rugged and stirring, are depicted in a vital way. The fact that virtually all the action transpires on boats at sea presents a novelty for advertising. The main theme of the tale is the struggle of a boy to escape the retribution of a crime which he committed for the honor of a woman. With the girl, whom he has championed, he seeks refuge at sea. Their craft is all but wrecked when picked up by "Sundown" Shattuck, a notorious black-bird, and his crew. But Nemesis, unrelenting, follows in their wake, and they do not find salvation until cast upon the shore of a desert island.

The "Ship of Doom" will be shown at the Arcade on Sunday only.

Also on the same program will be seen a late current events film and a Triangle comedy.

"Mrs. Dane's Defense."

"Mrs. Dane's Defense," the clever play of Henry Arthur Jones which created a veritable sensation on the stage several years ago, has been chosen by the Paramount company for presentation by Miss Pauline Frederick, one of the screen's greatest emotional actresses. The Arcade theatre has arranged to show "Mrs. Dane's Defense" on Monday and Tuesday.

"A Bedroom Blunder," another Mack Sennett scenario will be shown on the same program.

S-T-A-R

"SIRENS OF THE SEA" A COSTLY FEATURE

Probably the largest and most important film company in the industry to be hit by the recent tax menace is Jewel Productions, Inc., whose beautiful six-act feature "Sirens of the Sea" will have its premiere at the Star theatre Sunday and Monday. It constantly employed 1,000 persons for the making and took six months to complete. The under-water diving, swimming and dancing achievements seen throughout are all unusual and are considered to have reached the zenith of under-water productions scenes.

Carmel Myers, Louise Lovely, and Jack Mulhall are the featured players in the large cast and Allen Holubar is the director. Mr. Holubar is the director. Mr. Holubar is the director. Mr. Holubar is the director.

For the 5,500 feet of film employed for this feature, the additional tax and advanced cost of production material equals an entire new reel over any former price that might have been quoted on a five-reel production of the magnitude and lavishness of "Sirens of the Sea."

The story concerns the adventures of a tiny child who is cast on a strange island of the Pacific, following a terrific storm and her adoption by an American couple residing there. The last three reels take the beholder, Arabian Night-like, through a land of enchantment and splendor, which has seldom been seen on any screen canvas.

"DRAFT 258" STARS MABEL TALLAFERRO

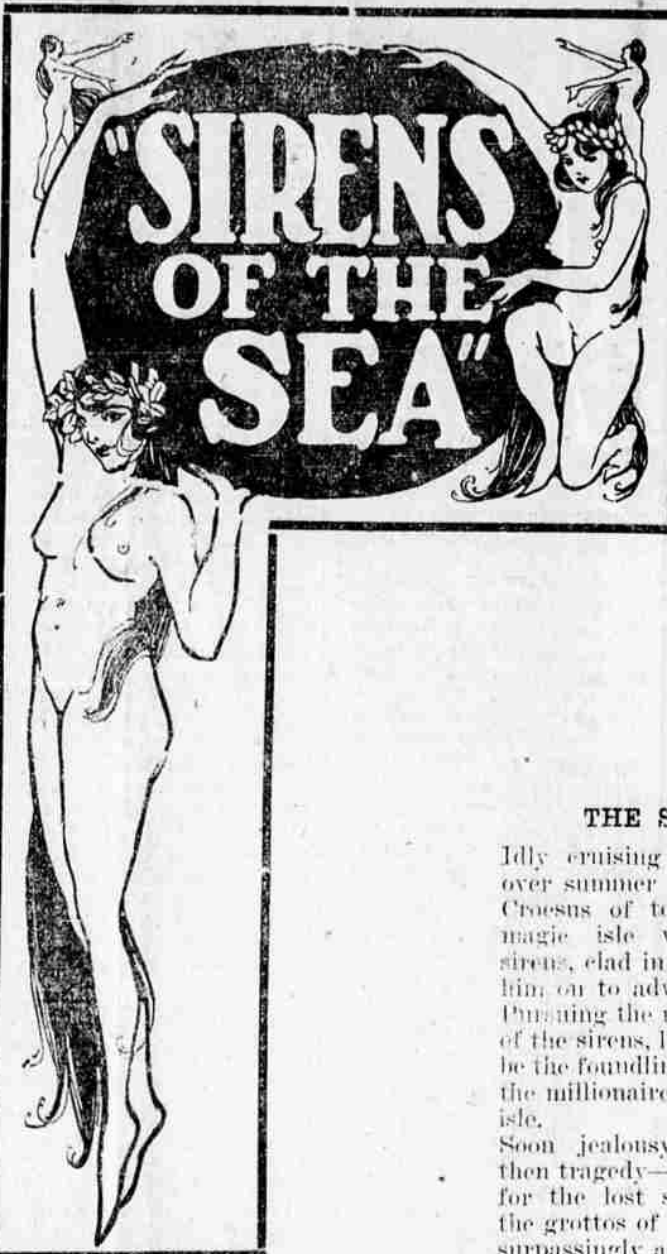

Production De Luxe Shows Celebrated Stars in Fine Portrayal.

Mabel Tallaferra, star of Metro's great patriotic special production, "Draft 258," was the first legitimate star of the American stage to go into motion pictures, and was only preceded in pictures by two stage stars abroad, Sarah Bernhardt and the great Coquelin. Her debut in the silent drama was in the three-reel feature, "Cinderella," produced by the Selig Company.

The first stage appearance of Miss Tallaferra was at the age of two and a half years, when she played with Robert Hilliard and Jennie Yeamans in "Blue Jeans." Another great success of Miss Tallaferra's after "Blue Jeans" was as Lovey
