

VETERAN IN AMAZE AT ANNISTON CAMP

Private Snow Sees Wonders of Modern Army Life at McClellan.

WATCHES BAYONET DRILLS

Relic of Confederate Days in Open-Mouthed Astonishment Watches Irish Instructor—Says Conditions Are Not as They Were in '60s.

Camp McClellan, Anniston, Ala.—Private Clark Snow, he of the Alabama "Yellow Hammer," who fought for the Confederacy back in the '60s, limped into Camp McClellan to give the boys of the Blue and Gray a few pointers on how to lick the Hun.

"I have had no experience with Mr. Kaiser, but I reckon what Colonel Johnston and I went through a few years back was a fair sample of what you youngsters are due to stack up against over yonder," declared the grizzled veteran of the struggle between the North and the South, as he introduced himself to the students of modern warfare.

"We didn't have those new-fangled gases, but we had a battle against the effects of some of the rottenest corn whiskey that ever came from a still, and I reckon that's just as bad. Take it from me, youngsters, it's a good thing for Uncle Sam that these moonshiners have been scared into burying themselves away for the winter."

Private Clark Snow, with his chest puffed out to fill up a spick and span gray uniform made from the remnants of the one in which he fought for the Confederacy, was standing in the center of a modern soldier city of 30,000 men and nearly as many canvas canopies. He was escorted by a bunch of soldier enthusiasts who were proud to be a part of the Twenty-ninth division and wanted to show the gray-haired "vet" all the mysteries of present-day fighting.

Shown Bayonet School.

The first thing the sightseers tumbled into was the bayonet school. Here Sergeant "Bill" Madden, the fiery little Irishman delegated to Camp McClellan as a part of the British war mission, was trying to make a group of pluck-checked ex-office clerks look blood-thirsty. A dozen or more bayonet blades glistened in the sunlight, and there was "Peppery Bill" Madden standing at the head of the class juggling a formidable-looking overgrown jackknife.

"Attaboy; put some beef behind that jab! If you don't get him he'll get you!" shouted Bill.

The embryo fighters were being taught to slice imaginary Germans to ribbons. "Cut that sentiment stuff out!" bawled Bill to a baby-faced private whose face never had been introduced to a razor. "That's not a knitting needle you have in your hand. Poke it right through that guy's ribs and yank it out again before he's had a chance to realize that he's dead. Steady now, Rotten! That one went between his legs. You're as good as dead already. Carry your corpse over there and watch me do it."

With teeth gritted, face drawn into a million or more wrinkles and every muscle of his body at high tension, the spirited product of the Emerald Isle went through the move. If he didn't kill a German it was because there wasn't one around.

Could Lick Whole Army. "I thought I knew a thing or two about using those hedge trimmers," gasped Private Clark Snow at the conclusion of the exhibition, "but that Irishman could lick a whole German army all by himself. If you youngsters ever get worked up to the same state of mind he's in there'll be a lot of the kaiser's gang snoozing with their toes to the sky this time next year."

In open-mouthed wonderment the relic of Confederate days watched the little foreign instructor disappear in the distance. It was mess time and the "Yellow Hammer" didn't have to be coaxed to eat with a company of the Blue and Gray.

Soup, roast beef, mashed potatoes, vegetables, coffee and rice pudding disappeared before the veteran's assault. He didn't have the heart to tell the boys of 1918 what he thought of the soldier meal until it was ended.

Too full for lengthy expression, Snow remarked: "And us fellers used to think we were kings when we had bread pudding once a week."

On all parts of the reservation the visitor found eyeopeners galore. Giant motor trucks hummed in and out of the well-laid winding camp streets in place of the old-time army mule. The whole camp was as spick and span as the best cared for front lawn. On every side there were evidences of "pep" and enthusiasm. And the peculiar part of the whole thing to Snow appeared the fact that everybody seemed busy performing some important task.

After paying his respects to the Stars and Stripes at retreat the veteran summarized his impressions of the inspection tour with tear-dimmed eyes: "If our boys had all the good things you have today there would be a lot more of us alive to tell the story. Conditions are not like they were back in the '60s."

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The Seniors in the commercial department have been doing their bit towards helping their country by undertaking the large sized task of copying lists of all the people in Union County who have signed food administration cards. These lists contained about 3,600 names and succeeded in keeping the class hard at work for two days. When the lists were completed they were turned over to Mr. Scroggin who is the county chairman of the food administration here.

The operetta, "The Drum Major," which is to be given at the high school March 22, will be accompanied by Haines orchestra, which is sure to add to the charm of the entertainment. Also Miss Daphne Summers, the enticing little dancer who has become popular in La
