

NEW SHIRTS

Our Idea of a Good Men's Shirt

A shirt that is, firstly, accurately sized—in body, sleeve and neckband. A shirt, secondly, that will look as fresh when it comes back from the laundry as it did in the beginning. Thirdly, a shirt that will give perfect wearing satisfaction. Just such shirts we are showing in the newest Stripes and Patterns, priced from

SHERRY'S

Rudyard Kipling's famous story of romance and adventure, "The Naulahka," which has been put out by Pathe as a six-part feature extraordinary on the Pathe play program, will be at the Sherry Theatre today and tomorrow. This announcement will be of great interest not only to lovers of Kipling, who is probably the greatest writer of English now living, but to all motion picture theatre patrons, who will see in this remarkable picture screen art at its highest and best.

Director Fitzmaurice lived in India for over nine years and his knowledge of Indian architecture and Hindu customs is at once apparent to the most casual observer. Magnificent sets, faithful copies of real temples and palaces that are famous the world over for their beauty were built especially for this picture. In getting his exterior locations Mr. Fitzmaurice personally traveled over many states in order to find places that he would recognize as being in harmony with the topography of India. This careful attention to detail is very apparent to the observer as the far Eastern atmosphere is perfect.

What will particularly appeal to American audiences in the story, perhaps, is the fact that the scenes are laid not only in India, but the United States, and that the hero and heroine are Americans.

Every Woman wants to be Pretty, Healthful and Shapely

When a young girl puts on her first corset her figure has a tendency to grow into the line of her corsets whether the lines are good or bad. If her first corset is a bad one and she obtains a bad figure from it, of course a new corset of the same model will fit her better than any corset of superior lines or design, for she has not allowed her figure to take the imperfect lines of the poor corset?

We make this suggestion. Try on one of these Marguerite Clark's Experience.

Marguerite Clark, winsome Paramount star, in speaking of her latest production, "Bab's Matinee Idol," which is to be shown at the Arcade Theatre tomorrow and Saturday, recently said, "It is truly remarkable how closely 'Bab's' escapades follow some of my own boarding school experiences while at the Ursuline Convent, Cincinnati, Ohio.

"Bab, having been allowed as a special treat to witness a theatrical performance, immediately proceeds, to fall violently in love with the handsome leading man. This, I must confess is exactly what happened to me at the age of 15, when I was allowed to visit the theatre for the first time. My diary contains pages and pages of description of 'him' and imaginary interviews which are so screamingly funny and make such good reading that I was thinking very seriously of publishing them, had not Rinehart's Bab so nearly paralleled them."

S-T-A-R

Stop This Legal Chicanery.

Again justice is threatened with a travesty. Again the familiar grounds of insanity are being used with telling and deadly effect by a rich and powerful attorney to escape the electric chair. The self-confessed murderer with a shrewdness unparalleled manipulates his case through his good friend, Dr. Hyde, who puts up the plea of insanity. Day by day long-winded hypothetical questions on insanity make a farce and a mockery of justice.

Murder is murder, and rich and poor should stand before the law on equal terms. This criminal levity must stop. John Corbin is guilty of the murder of his wife. The people demand justice.

A gigantic indictment of terrific force and emotional power is Triangle's photo-drama, "The Argument." It will make a deep and significant mark in the minds of millions. "The Argument" can be seen at the Star today and tomorrow.

"Freedom of the World."

"For the Freedom of the World," which will be shown at the Star Theatre on Saturday and Sunday, is declared to be the most startling production based on the war which has yet been made. Written by Captain Edwin Bower Hesser, and telling the thrilling story of the famous American Legion of the Canadian army, it is a creation to stir the soul of every true American.

Before the United States entered the war thousands of young "Yankees," as they are called across the Canadian line, joined the Canadian army. Recognizing that they were the flower of American manhood, Lieut-General Sir Sam Hughes, the commander in chief, ordered the formation of the American Legion, which was quickly filled by patriots so eager to enter the big fight for liberty that they could not wait for their own country to get into the war.

A romance most unusual in plot, heart touching and soul inspiring, is the basis of a story which takes the hero from a life of inconsequence in an American city to play a part of heroism on the battle field, win the love of a girl whose wonderful self-sacrifice will touch every heart, and almost taste of death for the honor of the little American flag which he carried over his heart.

On account of the crowds that are bound to want to see this great spectacle it is urged that as many as possible see this picture at the matinees.

Cremery Man Visits La Grande.

Mr. Ward English, proprietor of the Valley Cremery, has been in La Grande a day or two and left this morning for his home. Mr. English came over to look after the affairs of his local concern and to confer with Mr. C. E. Schiffer, who for some time past and is still the manager of the Valley Cremery. Mr. English reports the cremery industry as being in an satisfactory condition as could be expected under the troubled conditions which now everywhere prevail.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

LA GRANDE, Or., April 9, 1918. To the business men and citizens of La Grande and vicinity:

Whereas, we have been called upon to pay our last tribute of respect at the grave of one of our most esteemed and beloved citizens, John T. Williamson,

Be It Resolved, that we extend to his family our sincerest sympathy and assurance that we, his friends and business associates, feel keenly the loss of this splendid, stalwart, manly character. We have learned to love and respect him for his honorable motives in all he undertook, his courage and devotion to duty as he saw it.

This community, the state and the country have suffered a great loss in the passing of this patriot.

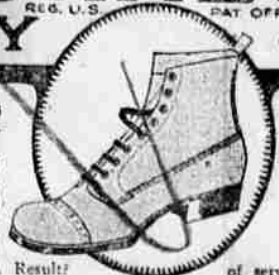

Be It Further Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be presented to the family of Mr. Williamson, and a copy given to the La Grande Evening Observer for publication.

H. E. COOLIDGE, E. E. BRAGG, C. D. EMAHISER.

Adopted by the Business Men's luncheon, April 9, 1918.

OTHER GATEWAYS TO PARIS

Even though the Germans take Amiens—and General Foch says they shall not—Paris is not cut off from America and England, as the map above shows. Should Amiens fall, closing the route (1) to Dover and Calais to Rouen to Paris, armies and supplies could move from Dover and Calais via Rouen to Paris, and, if the Germans should get farther west and close that line, the best of all, from Portsmouth and Le Havre would still be open.

PROFESSOR RAUSENBERGER

Prof. Rausenberger German ordnance expert is reported to be the inventor of the 76-mile gun which has been bombarding Paris from St. Gobain Forest Berlin dispatches, via Amsterdam, bring the report, but Rausenberger is about the ninth century man who has been called the inventor of the monster, so it's a question.

WILL VISIT UNION.

Knights of Khorassan Have Journey Ahead.

Knights of Khorassan of this city, Elgin, Baker and elsewhere, gather in Union tonight to escort a class of tyros over the burning sands to the necra of Khorassans. The local temple will move to Union tonight, the caravan leaving here at 6 o'clock. Union Knights of Pythias are to be the tyros to be tortured for the occasion.

All Dokies who have not made arrangements to make the trip are requested to unlimber their automobiles and get into line. The usual quantity of camel's milk, burning hot sands, fun and frolic are provided and the night promises to be a sensation. Guarantee is made that the Dokies can be back by sunrise tomorrow morning.

In connection with the coming ceremonial, local Dokies are much pleased with the spirit of patriotism that permeates the order from coast to coast. The Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch, copies of which arrived in town today, tell of Knights of Pythias handing Mayor Karp of that city $25,000 for Liberty Loan bonds. Similar amounts are being poured into government channels by the order from other points of the country.

REPORT GIVEN OF THE BOYS IN FRANCE

had never been to sea, before there was much sea-sickness and, I fear, some home-sickness, too.

We were conveyed from New York by the battle cruiser Seattle, and two torpedo destroyers, and three days off the coast of France were picked up by seven additional destroyers.

The same system of convoy is still being used, and Uncle Sam is protecting his transports very carefully.

In the Wake of the U-boat.

We passed several empty lifeboats one evening, and a wireless message received said that a vessel had been torpedoed the night before in that vicinity, but no submarines were encountered. The nervous tension among the officers and men was high, especially during the time we were ordered to sleep completely dressed, with lifebelts handy and the ship in total darkness.

One Who Was Scared.

One member of the company was especially scared on the journey and in some unaccountable way slipped by the guards almost every night and hid himself in a recess on the main deck where I discovered him, and from where he figured he would have a better chance of being saved than down four flights of stairs. He was so completely unnerved that I let him occupy his refuge unmolested.

Arrival in France.

There were many sighs of relief and happy smiles when we steamed into the harbor of St. Nazaire early in the morning of Nov. 18, 1917.

St. Nazaire is on the western coast of France, and here the boys had their first opportunity to get on French soil.

From St. Nazaire we went by rail a journey of 48 hours to the northeastern part of the country and detrained at the little town of Mauvage.

A Trip Across France.

Transportation in France is not the same as we know it here, and at present is worked to the limit, and soldiers are often, crowded in cattle cars as was none in our case.

Abundant rations were placed on each car before the journey was begun and frequent stops were made where the men were served hot coffee by the French military authorities.

The rain at this season in France—which was November—is incessant and the men were thoroughly wet, and all in all it was a most disagreeable trip.

Arrival at Mauvage.

When we arrived at Mauvage the billet assigned our men had just been vacated by other troops, and left in an unsanitary condition, so that here they had their first, but by no means, their last experience with vermin, which of course, was disagreeable but not serious, and was the cause of a good deal of fun with the boys.

At this location we conducted a camp hospital for several weeks, located in an old chateau, until the unit was ordered to move south.

Travelling South. This journey south was about 100 miles and was made through a severe snowstorm and in very cold weather and on foot, and was the most severe ordeal that they have experienced. Many were sent to nearby hospitals for various troubles, mostly colds and badfeet.

Death of Bert Andrews. It was during this hike that Bert Andrews contracted pneumonia, from which he died a few days later, at Chaumont.

The winter was passed in various towns, which I will mention only briefly.

After closing the hospital at Mauvage, and hiking south through St. Blin to Longeau, where a stop of only a few days was made, we went to Hurnes, where we stayed the longest of any place—about five weeks.

From Hurnes, which is situated on the famed Marne River, we went to Loromontz, partly by rail, and in a few days, from there to Luneville.

When we were not moving the men were kept busy by daily drills and instruction in the things that they would have to do in actual combat.

Assigned to Quiet Sector. Early in February the unit was ordered to accompany the 42nd Division

Much More To Tell. There are many little details and interesting events about individuals of the unit that I hope to be able to tell those interested while I am here.

Now, in closing, I want to say to you all that I visited many similar hospital units while I was in France and I want to tell you tonight that the La Grande Hospital unit is the best disciplined, the best physically, the best trained in surgical work, and the cleanest body of men that you can find in the American army.

Put aside the idea that your boys will return physical or moral wrecks through any fault of their own, for I know they will return to you better sons, better brothers and better sweethearts than when they left you.
