The Red Cross benefit dance given last night by the Honor Guards at Rex Hall, was well attended, although it was a very stormy evening. Those who attendance expressed themselves as having had one grand time. The Honor Guards were out in uniform, and with other military decorations, it was a very impressive party.

It will be a day of unusual interest and every club member should be in attendance. Several matters of importance are to come up at the business meeting and every member is urged to be present. On account of illness, Miss Milay will be unable to give her lecture, as had been announced last meeting.

"FIRST-FAMILY" AMERICANS AFTER KAISER'S SCALP

"Will we be allowed to scalp the Kaiser if we get him?" is what old warpath and his braves wanted to know when the marines urged them to enlist. A lot of these red-blooded, red-skinned, "first-family" Americans have joined the colors. If the government would only let 'em wear their own togs they'd scare the Huns to death. Well, they can still "Yip! Yip!" On to Berlin!

MALAMUTES FIGURE IN "THE DESTROYERS"

One of the most interesting features of "The Destroyers," the powerful new five-part drama, released June 5, on the Blue Ribbon Program of the Vitagraph Company of America, are the canine actors who play an important role in the action of the play.

These dogs are the true Alaskan breed of Eskimo dog, used throughout the North American continent from a few degrees south of the Arctic Circle to the farthest northern stretches of the icy plains of Canada for drawing sleds loaded with every conceivable thing that man may wish to transport through these frozen regions. The malamute, as he is called, is a dog indigenous to North America, for the inhabitants of this hemisphere are the only polar people in the world who use dogs to draw their sleds. The other Arctic countries, namely, Siberia, Lapland and Iceland, use horses and reindeer; but the dog is unknown as a beast of burden. "The Destroyers" will be at the Sherry Theatre today only.
