SEASON BREAKS RECORD
IN TWO ONE-HIT GAMES

PETE SCHNEIDER

Two one-hit games on opening day.

It is a record for baseball. Never before have two pitchers been effective enough to get away with one-hit games on the day, the big league season started.

Carl Mays completely fooled Philadelphia batters with his submarine ball, letting them down with one hit, a scratch that would have been felled had field conditions been right.

Pete Schneider, the tall right-hander of the Reds, bewildered the Pirates with his curves and let them down with one hit.

ARCADE

Marguerite Clark in "Seven Swans"

Dainty Marguerite Clark, following her custom of making one fairy story each year, will be seen in "The Seven Swans," a delightfully whimsical fantasy adapted from Hans Anderson's fairy tale by J. Searle Dawley, who is also the director. The story is for children of all ages, and deals with the adventures of a certain Princess Tweedledee and her seven brothers. A wicked queen, desiring to gain control of the rich kingdom over which they rule, transforms the seven brothers into seven white swans, and orders the Princess Tweedledee thrown into a dark and gloomy dungeon filled with rats. How she escapes, and after three years and a day succeeds in saving her brothers and returning them to their human form, makes a fascinating photo play. The cast supporting Miss Clark includes handsome Richard Barthelmess as the Prince Charming, Daisy Bellmore as the Witch and others equally well known.

"Marguerite Clark will be seen in "The Seven Swans" at the Arcade tomorrow and Saturday. It is earnestly suggested that the picture be seen at one of the matinees or on Friday evening so as to avoid the Saturday night crowd.

LUCKY GIRL BREAKS UP PLANS OF GERMAN SPY SYSTEM

Trails Thief Of Father's Valuable Blue Prints And Cleans Up Nest Of German Duplicitly.

When Germany's spies fail to get what they are after by cunning, they use dating. No obstacle is too great for them to overcome. Women are their most cunning tools. But Germany's spies and spy system, have been outwitted by a plucky young American girl, Miss Alice Stevens, who succeeded in recovering blueprints stolen from her father—and who incidentally won a husband—all in the remarkably short period of four hours.

Operating from a hotel in New York, Baron Kuno von Wiederholt, conducted his nefarious spy schemes throughout the country. He learned that the American government was negotiating with Mr. Stevens, the young lady's parent, for the purchase of a newly-devised invention for the protection of ships and submarines. The Baron despatched Madame Elsa Holtzhauser to the suburban home of Stevens. There the female spy introduced herself as a representative of the U. S. government. A fortunate chance acquainted the inventor's daughter with the fact that Madame Holtzhauser was an impostor. The latter immediately took flight with the inventor's plans and escaped. She left the address of her New York hotel on a card which she dropped in her flight. Miss Stevens at once took up the pursuit of the female spy, and, arriving at the hotel, engaged a room next to the Baron's. With the aid of a pass key she obtained entrance to the Baron's room and commenced a search for the stolen plans. The Baron, concealed, leaped upon her and announced his intention of making her prisoner, but Howard Skeels, a young American, who had obtained entrance to the room, made short work of the Baron. The female spy was captured by the house detective, and the nest of German duplicity cleaned out. The recovered plans have been taken to Washington by Miss Stevens. Incidentally, Mr. Skeels married Miss Stevens.

It all occurs in four hours of rapid action in Triangle's novel photoplay, "From Two to Six," which will be shown at the Star Theater today and tomorrow.

THRIFT STAMP SALES

"How much of your change do you want in Thrift Stamps?"

Within a short time signs so reading will be seen on most every cash register in Oregon, inasmuch as over 400 sales managers of the National Cash Register company have been instructed to cooperate in the Thrift Stamp and War Savings Stamp campaign in their respective territory.

THE LITTLE OLD LADY OF PANSY SQUARE

Timidly she entered the Red Cross Bureau and stood just within the doorway.

Her poor, dimmed old eyes spoke so eloquently: "I'm friendly, ladies, but a little afraid."

Several of us rose, but Mrs. Crawford reached her first and asked her to come in and sit down.

"Oh, thank you so much," quavered the old lady as she sat down. "You see, my boy—my grandson—has gone and"—with Spartan fortitude she restrained the tears that glistened in her eyes—"come with his regiment. Now I'm all alone in my little cottage in Pansy Square. And, oh, ladies, do any of you know the dreary loneliness when there is no one who comes home at night?"

We almost hugged the dear old lady, so forlorn, yet so brave. We drew up our chairs closer, and she told us her story.

The little old lady owned a vine embowered cottage in Pansy Square. There she kept house for her grandson, who worked in a downtown office. When America took up cudgels for democracy the lad, in patriotic fervor, was among the first to enlist.

"Ah, how I loved him and needed him," whispered the old lady brokenly. "But my dear country needed him more. So I told him to go. 'But what will you do, granny?' he asked. 'I told him I had enough, and so he went. Brave, brave heart! My husband was a soldier, and I have his pension. But it is small. After paying the taxes on my cottage there was little left, and now it is gone. I'm old, but I'm willing. All I ask is a chance to earn my bread till—till he returns.'"

Through the Home Service workers of her community the little old lady of Pansy Square has been provided with simple tasks, such as making preserves and delicious cakes and jellies, a labor of love for her and an unfailing source of revenue.

Some day, please God, her soldier boy will come back to the little old lady of Pansy Square, and he will find her as he left her—happy, comfortable and self-reliant.
