staffed puns, as evidence of the marksmanship of one of its patrons. Elk's horns and elk's heads adorn the walls. Bizarre riving evidence of homely humor are placed at various angles, such as "Get a Girl and Buy," "We Start Our Own Trouble," and "We Play 'Em to the Roof." Oil lamps swing from the ceiling, illuminating the scenes of jollity below. A piano in one corner is presided over by a "rag-time artist," who accompanies Belle Jones (Edith Storey) in her vocal selections. Through the swinging doors one passes to the general store, in which hangs the board containing the keys to the rooms. On one side of these doors are sold dry goods — on the other, "wet goods." Flour, potatoes and tin-ware crowd each other for space, and in the advertisements of standard goods are flauntingly displayed. With this fine picture is shown a comedy of the Christie Brand that's a sure laugh getter.

By numerous exhibitions of skill and daring, plus a genial manner that won the Westerner to his side in the argument, Teddy managed to out-general the fiery Senorita Dolores and completely frustrate the plans "Horned Toad" Smith had devised to lighten Teddy back to the East from whence he came. The triumphant denouement came when "Horned Toad" Smith and his gang steed Dorothy, and are overcome by Teddy's counter attacks and horseback strategy.

WALLACE REID IN "RIMROCK JONES."

Wallace Reid, the popular Paramount star depicter of western types, who recently was seen in "Nan of Music Mountain," is starring at the Arcade Theater today and tomorrow in "Rimrock Jones," from the novel by Dane Coolidge and directed by Donald Crisp.

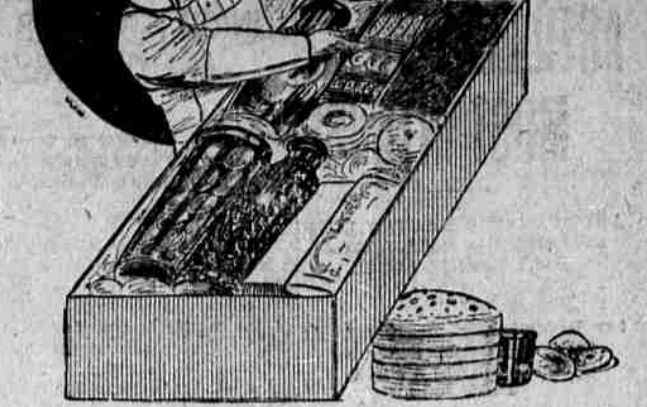

"Rimrock Jones" is a prospector who, at the opening of the story, finds himself in hard luck through the designing efforts of Andrew McBain, a conny Scotchman. The latter has claimed Rimrock's mine by unearthing a long-forgotten law to the effect that the holder of the apex of a mine can claim the whole. McBain stops at nothing to accomplish his ends and even goes so far as to try to steal another mine from Rimrock. How Jones finally wins out with the help of the pretty Mary Fortune, makes a thrilling and realistic photoplay. On the same program will be presented "Those Athletic Girls," the newest Paramount-Mack Sennett comedy. The principal star of a galaxy of

RED CROSS FILM TO BE USED IN NEXT DRIVE

"The Spirit of the Red Cross," a "Two Reel Birth of the Nation to Help Aid Red Cross Raise Its $100,000,000." Because the people behind the motion picture industry are Americans of the first water and are brim full of all sorts of patriotism, they have virtually handed over their organizations to the Government in every move that is to help make the world safe for democracy. During the recent Liberty Loan Drive, Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, William S. Hart, Marguerite Clark, and a number of other motion picture stars toured the country in behalf of the Liberty Bonds, raising millions of dollars of subscriptions. For the Red Cross Drive in the near future there will be shown in all motion picture theatres a two reel picture entitled "The Spirit of the Red Cross" the story by James Montgomery Flagg and produced by Jack Eaton. The picture has been termed by motion picture critics as "A Birth of the Nation in two Reels."

The announcement of this feature for the next drive was made by Jesse L. Lasky, chairman of the committee of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry appointed to co-operate with the Red Cross Organization, issued from his office in the New York headquarters of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. "This picture will be shown in La Grande Thursday and Friday of this week at the Star Theatre, on the same program with the official war picture "The German Curse in Russia."

FRANKLYN FARNUM TOMORROW
Tonight at the Star Theatre will see the last showing of the Louise Lovely production featuring Miss Lovely and called "The Girl Who Wouldn't Quit." The picture pleased large crowds yesterday and is a photoplay that will interest everyone.

Tuesday and Wednesday the smiling hero Franklyn Farnum will be seen in a corking picture called "Anything Once." Following is a brief story of the play: Theodore Crosby's (Franklyn Farnum) eccentric uncle willed his vast herds of cattle and the ranges to his sportively inclined nephew upon two conditions: he must live upon the ranch six months, taking possession at once, and at the end of that time must marry his distant cousin, Dorothy Stuart. Teddy arranged with Dorothy to fulfill the part Dau could was to play in the settlement—for Teddy and Dorothy had been matrimonially inclined for some time.

Sim Mortimer Beggs, a fortune-seeking Englishman, had made a hit with "Ma" Stuart; but Teddy and Dorothy believed that they could make Sir Mortimer sick of ranch life within a few weeks and thus clear the way to realizing the fullness of the legacy. But in the persons of "Horned Toad" Smith and Senorita Dolores there was opposition they had never figured on. Into the quiet of Teddy's bachelor apartment the Senorita broke like a Kansas cyclone. She announced to Teddy that she had come to abide in his abode. Teddy declared that he would change his address forthwith to Bar X Ranch, Arizona. So saying, he departed.

"Horned Toad" Smith was looking for Teddy, having been told that the Easterner was dressed in "spike tailed coat" and trimmings to match. But when Teddy came up with the dress suit another man had it on—Teddy had outshot the Westerner at target practice and won a swap of clothes. The plot to drive Teddy out of town failed because of the fact that it was Teddy who saved "Horned Toad" Smith from annihilation at the hands of a host of booze-inspired sportsmen. Senorita Dolores had preceded Teddy to the ranch and was established there when he drove out of town. A little later "Ma" Stuart and her daughter arrived, accompanied by Sir Mortimer Beggs, and the scandal that arose from Dolores being established as the first lady of Bar X Ranch nearly cost Teddy his earthly happiness. But Dorothy believed his story and the twain plotted to unravel the conspiracy that had been started for the purpose of driving Teddy from the ranch.

IT'S UP TO YOU!

R. N. STANFIELD

REPUBLICAN FOR UNITED STATES SENATOR

Republican for United States Senator.
Robert N. Stanfield's nomination for United States Senator in the Republican Primaries, May 17, will mean two things—

1—The belief of the people of Oregon that this state has not received the recognition at Washington to which it is entitled and that there is a demand for a square deal.

2—The Republicans do not want the Democratic boss to dictate in the Republican primaries and that Republicans prefer Stanfield, a 100 per cent Republican, rather than a 50-50 Demo-Rep., dominated by the Democratic boss.

Do you want a wideawake, energetic man with initiative and red blood to be Senator, or do you want a "man asleep on the job," who introduces bills and permits them to sleep in committees?

A man who knows Oregon and its needs and who has the force and confidence to demand results will quickly make his mark at Washington and through him Oregon will receive the recognition so long denied this state. Such a man is Robert N. Stanfield.

S. B. Huston, in withdrawing from the Senatorial contest, made the following statement:

"I have a very strong conviction that Oregon has been discriminated against by the National Government in many ways. Mr. Stanfield shares this feeling and promises, if elected, to correct it as far as it lies in his power to do so. Senator McNary denies that any such discrimination exists. He was quoted in a dispatch from Washington to the Oregon Journal as saying that he 'took no stock in the statement that there has been discrimination against Oregon.' Of course, if he believes there has been no such discrimination he will make no effort to remove it.

What has Oregon received except such business as had to come here because material could not be furnished elsewhere?

Oregon furnishes spruce, but the airplanes are not manufactured here.

Oregon has received a few contracts for wooden ships, because the timber is here, but look at the wooden ships contracts that went to the South and the Atlantic Coast! And for many of these Southern ships Oregon had to be drawn on for large timbers.

More than 20,000 Oregon boys are in the service but they all were sent to cantonments in other states for training.

Oregon responded quickly to appeals for food conservation, but the wheat growers of Oregon were penalized 20 cents a bushel for living in this state.

Many other instances could be cited showing that Oregon has been discriminated against, but McNary says that he takes no stock in the statement that Oregon has been discriminated against."

Do you want these conditions to continue, or do you want them remedied? If you want results, then send Stanfield to Washington.

Five lawyers represent Oregon at Washington. Why not elect a farmer, stockraiser and business man for a change? Do lawyers have a monopoly of all the loyalty, patriotism, wisdom and knowledge in Oregon?

Why does the Chamber of Commerce pay a special agent a Senatorial salary of $7,500 a year to remain at Washington to look after practical matters for Oregon if someone isn't "Asleep on the job" or if Oregon is not discriminated against.

Republican voters should settle their own party affairs in the primaries without the interference of Democratic kaisers.

A clean-cut party issue is presented to the Republicans of Oregon. It is in the hands of the Republicans themselves, whether they want a Republican Senator or a Demo-Rep. Senator.

Stanfield is 100 per cent Republican and has been elected as such three times to the Legislature.

McNary, his opponent, has a penchant for holding office, but has never yet been elected to one by the people—in fact, he was defeated the only time the people ever got a chance to vote on him—and he has been willing to seek appointment to political jobs from Democrats as from Republicans.

The Democratic Boss appointed McNary to the Supreme bench and is now trying to make the Republicans nominate his friend and colleague for United States Senator. If McNary, the protegee of Oswald West, is nominated then the Republicans can say "good night" to the Republican party in Oregon for years to come, for West will be in power and have his friend at Washington.

Here is the question for you, Mr. and Mrs. Republican Voter, to settle. It is strictly a party matter in the primaries. Do you want a genuine, 100 per cent Republican or a 50-50 Demo-Republican, with the latter indorsed and advocated by the Self-appointed Democratic dictator?

IF YOU WISH TO MAINTAIN THE REPUBLICAN PARTY, YOU MUST VOTE FOR STANFIELD.
