ARCADE

GOOD SHOWS ON TAP

Tonight at the Arcade Theatre four good acts of Hippodrome Vaudeville will be given and a two reel Keystone Comedy will be shown.

Tomorrow a good Bluebird Photoplay will be presented with Miss Douglas featuring the picture on the organ.

Friday and Saturday will see the favorite Pauline Frederick in one of her newest pictures, "Madam Jealousy." Miss Frederick does some of her best work in this picture and it is staged in the usual Lasky style, which is the best. On that program will also be shown a new Lloyd comedy. Harold Lloyd is better known as "Lonesome Luke" and as that character has won many friends by his funny antics. In the Rolin Comedies Lloyd is just as funny as ever and has a lot of new comedy stuff that is bound to make a hit.

STRIKING REVELATION

Much has been told in this country about the German spy system and the German intrigue that brought about the recent revolution in Russia. "The German Curse in Russia," the amazing war picture taken by Captain Donald C. Thompson released by Pathe and to be shown at the Star Theatre, Thursday and Friday does not simply tell in words what happened but Capt. Thompson shows in a very vivid form in his pictures what they did and how they did it. All these incidents helped to bring about the retreat of the Russian army and then the final overthrow of the Duma and the provisional government.

No words are to be found in the English language that will adequately tell of the trench warfare and the "over the top" pictures in this film. One shows the starting of a gas attack by the Germans, while still not over the purpose of a [illegible] was for the purpose of making their [illegible] clear. The picture shows a small [illegible] forth to set the wire and upon their failure to accomplish their purpose you see the tumbling of the wire with wonderful accuracy by the artillery. After more fierce fighting the order of "over the top" is given, and in full view of the camera there may be seen hundreds of men going over, while only ten or twelve reaching their final destination, the others dropping on all sides.

At the close of these fighting pictures there is shown a most remarkable human interest picture of a Russian soldier trying to save his captain by crawling through the thick of rifle fire to the back line with the officer on his back. The officer dies while this man is in full view of the camera, and after blessing himself the man rushes back to his regiment to continue the work he was ordered to do.

SHERRY'S

Admirers of Theda Bara the William Fox star will see this portrayal of vampire roles in "THE SOUL OF BUDDHA," which was written by Miss Bara herself at the Sherry Theatre on Thursday and Friday. The many "fans" who have followed Miss Bara in her various pictures will have the opportunity to see the William Fox star in a role that gives her every opportunity to display her remarkable versatility.

"THE SOUL OF BUDDHA," tells of a beautiful half caste Javanese girl who becomes a novitiate in the Temple of Buddha as a dancing girl. The High Priest loves her, but is spurned by Bayzhari (Theda Bara.) Escaping from the temple she elopes with an English Army officer who marries her. The High Priest vows vengeance. Wherever the couple go they are confronted with the Hindu Death sign. To escape the vengeance of the fanatics the couple leave for France.

There Bayzhari leaves her husband and prepares to go on the stage with a dancing act copied after the sacred dance she did in the temple. The High Priest learning of her whereabouts follows her to Paris. He is dressed as a Buddhist idol to decorate the scene, and as the former dancing girl appears for the dance he jumps from the pedestal and before the horrified audience carries out his threat of death.

The picture is full of dramatic intensity and is a faithful repro-
