

THE CALL FOR WHEAT.

The wheat situation of the world daily becomes more acute. It has now become a race between our factors, with the odds against our side. The three factors are the approach of the next harvest, at which time the wheat problems of the allies should be greatly alleviated, if not solved; the rapid diminution of stocks among the allied nations, and the strenuous conservation measures put into effect by the patriotic citizens of the United States in their efforts to piece out a narrow surplus for an anxious world.

Among these factors the next harvest creeps forward all too slowly; the supply in the bins of the allies is sinking with rapid pace. If the situation were limited to these two—if it were a competition between them alone—the race would already be lost. It is only increased conservation among American citizens that will keep starvation from being the victor.

The allies must and will be fed. Americans must and will save. Their food supply has already been protected. There is no danger to them. The time has come to shovel the wheat by carloads and shiploads into the transportation channels that lead to Europe. America can live on the plentiful remainders, the corn meal, the potatoes, the meat, all of which by grace of nature and careful conservation are abundant.

The Food Administration has recently put forth some stirring calls for wheat saving. America as a whole must cut her wheat consumption in half and more than half. From 42,000,000 bushels a month she must cut her consumption to 20,000,000. To accomplish this each American must cut his individual consumption to 5 pounds a month. Out of the limited stocks in the country we must save our stocks for seed, some 80,000,000, we must retain a safe carry over, we must feed our own citizens, and the United States with Canada must send to the allies 40,000,000 bushels a month.

The moral is plain. Large numbers of our people must eat no wheat whatever for three months or this great task we have undertaken is doomed to ignominious failure. Already the great hotels have taken the pledge. Men and women of independent means have fallen into line. Which would you rather—eat wheat bread lavishly and live in a world tributary to Germany or eat no wheat until next harvest and be free.

Just Received:---A Carload of This POPULAR TRACTOR

We believe we have at last hit the right spot in getting this popular Track type of farm tractor. It will meet the demands of the average farmer and at a price which will be within the reach of all. In construction and workmanship there is nothing on the market that compares with it. One of the best motors built is the Waukesha and that is one of the vital points in tractor building. K. & W. magneto is also used which assures the very best ignition. The gears are very easy to get at and very simple, no extra parts to get out of order.

The track is in a class by itself, there is nothing that compares with it in the track-laying line, it is strong and it is built in a way that it is almost indestructible. Come and look this machine over, it will please you. Now is the time for you to get your orders in to get your Tractors for the fall work. Sold by
