DAUGHTER OR MOTHER

Can you imagine a woman who spending her last dollar to impress an American millionaire, and who had him hanging on the ropes, as it were, rolling a proposal around on his tongue, being interrupted in this most important moment of her whole life by the entrance of her seventeen-year-old daughter? That's just what happened to the mother in "A Mother's Secret," which will be seen for the first time on Thursday at the Arcade Theatre. And that seventeen-year-old daughter was the mother's secret. The millionaire thought it was a mighty fine secret, too, and he began to pay almost as much attention to the daughter as to the mother, only he brought the mother roses and the daughter toys. For mother was wise. "You would not think I was the mother of a thirteen-year-old daughter, now, would you?" And the daughter was the only one who kicked on the thirteen. For she was half in love with the millionaire herself. So, you see, there is some situation to "A Mother's Secret."

FAIRBANKS COMING

Through the riot of thrills and adventure that run in "Headin' South," the Arcraft picture starring Douglas Fairbanks which will be shown at the Arcade Theatre on Friday and Saturday, a romance stands out. Catherine MacDonald, the new leading lady for Fairbanks, discloses a goodly measure of athletic skill while playing opposite the strenuous and acrobatic star. She is rescued in a unique manner by Fairbanks from a band of lawless Mexicans who have crossed the border. There is a wide diversity of scenery in the picture, and great ensembles of mounted men. Frank Campeau is again seen as the villain, this time as a Mexican desperado, who is finally run down by Fairbanks and his cowboys. As Trampas, in the Virginian, a similar role, Campeau scored his biggest success of his career.

TREATMENT OF CAPTURED GERMAN IN BRITISH CAMPS

The treatment of captured Germans and a visit of King Albert to the British front are shown in the "Britain's Bulwarks" series of official features, released by Pathé at the Star Theatre tomorrow and Friday showing all phases of the great world war. From the day "Fritz" raises his hands high above his head and cries "Kamerad," his health is looked after by the British government. He is taken to one of the big concentration camps. We see hundreds of them at the Dorchester, Eng., prison camp. A general view shows the camp and the long avenue leading to the playgrounds, where the prisoners are permitted to engage in sports and exercise. The camp is surrounded by a triple barricade of barbed wire fences to prevent the escape of any daring desperadoes. In the early morning we see the prisoners lined up and assigned to their duties for the day. The ranks are being continually added to by fresh arrivals from the scenes of activities at the front. Many of the prisoners are put to work at the trades which they followed while in Germany and they are paid for the work. While they haven't all the comforts of home they have a great many. There is a big library, a chapel, and a Y. M. C. A. hut. The sick and wounded are well looked after in a splendidly equipped hospital with a finely appointed operating room. The prisoners bake their own bread and designate orderlies from their own number to distribute it with the other food given to them. The government encourages all of the German prisoners to keep fit and offers them every opportunity to do so. On the same program will be presented a mighty interesting picture called "The Hard Rock Breed." It is a story that will hold the interest from start to finish and has as the leading character Margery Wilson. This excellent program will be seen at the Arcade on Thursday and Friday.

"THE CONQUEROR" IS FOUNDED ON FACT

Great Fox Film Starring William Farnum Tells Life of General Sam Houston

If R. A. Walsh were not such a conservative director, he would have adopted the tactics which many makers of motion pictures ignorantly pursue and announced in a glaring subtitle to "The Conqueror," "Founded on Fact." Instead of this, the William Fox director went to the other extreme, and labelled his production, "Not Founded on Fact." To be accurate, "The Conqueror" has more than a mere grain of truth in it. The very character of Sam Houston, as played by William Farnum, in all his reckless, ambitious realism, is a page from the Book of History itself. The early incidents of Houston's life, his days among the Indians, and his migration from Tennessee to Texas—all are facts well recognized in the story of the Union. Eliza Allen, too, as portrayed by Jewel Carmen, is historically true. Houston married her in 1829, when he was 36 years old; and she left him three months later. No cause has ever been discovered for this separation. But Director R. A. Walsh, his scenario writer, Chester Clapp, and the author of the "Conqueror," Henry Christeen Warnack, devised the entertaining reason which plays so important a part in the film drama. It is true, too, that Houston returned to the Indians after the separation from his wife. The pair, however, were never united. It remained for the genius of a director to devise a compact drama which would end happily for all concerned. The character of Sidney Stokes, also, was entirely a creation of the dramatist's brain. In the competent hands of Charles Clary, however, Stokes has been able to live with almost as much surety as Sam Houston and Eliza Allen ever lived.

TOBACCO FUND IS SWELLED WHEN ALICE JOYCE WINS AT WHEEL

Alice Joyce vows she never saw a roulette wheel until she stepped into one of the scenes in "The Song of the Soul," the Vitaphone Blue Ribbon Feature, which will be the attraction in the Sherry Theatre last showing today. Director Tom Ferriss insisted that she play, being the star, and also in the interests of realism, insisted that the real money be used. Miss Joyce spread her bets about with a fine disregard of systems and hunches, but every time the ball stopped spinning, she cashed a bet. When the scene and retakes were finished, she had cleaned up $18, which she insisted be added to the tobacco fund for Vitaphone at the front. The gambling scene is one of the strong points in this fascinating drama of the girl who fought her way back to the happiness she had missed only through her own innocence. Supporting Miss Joyce are Walter McGrath, Percy Standing, Bernard Siegel, Barney Randall, Edith Reeves, and Stephen Carr.

The kodak business today means a business within itself. It means a large investment and close attention. Silverthorn's Family Drug Store keep one person busy and at times two are busy on this work alone. The "Kodaks" sold run in price from $1.50 to $60.00. Almost every line made by the Eastman Kodak factory may be found in their stock. Daily 5-29-18

Oath Purposely Made Stringent. The term "iron-clad oath" has no significance now. It was the name given to a very stringent oath of office prescribed by congress in 1862 and applied at the close of the Civil War for officeholders in the re-constructed states. It was intended to exclude from office all who had participated in the Civil War on the Confederate side, and really had that effect because they could not take the oath.

About Rheumatism.
