Our Birthright!

—On July 4, 1776, a very human document, the Declaration of Independence, was signed and sealed.

—It declared for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

—For 142 years it has endured as a priceless heritage from our forefathers.

—It bestows upon us and our children in jeopardy.

—Today we are united as one man to defend our birthright if needs be with the last drop of American blood and the last American dollar.

CHAUTAQUA HEADLINERS.

Last evening, Ghorr The Birdman—a man undoubtedly blessed with all the complicated throat instruments of the bird, entertained a packed house, and did a good job of it. His imitations, and his close acquaintance with bird nature, made his number both instructive and entertaining.

Saturday evening the Newell-Fenwick company and Judge Baggot of Dayton, Ohio, held the boards. The musical troupe is up to the highest standard of the chautauqua music this year, and Judge Baggot well, he seems to have gotten as close to human nature as Ben Lindsay, and can give his message much more interestingly. He throws off a lot of keen wit along with the doctrine he preaches.

Campers on the ground are much elated at the elegant weather conditions that prevail and the attendance of non-nappers continues to grow regularly. With Mr. Witt and the Hawaiians, aside from many other special numbers yet to come, the closing two days should be the finest of the week by far. Financially, the association has not yet cleared its expense account.

MUSIC DOES NOT ALWAYS CHARM LEO AND PLAYMATES

"When I was a little shaver I used to read stories about music charming animals. The yarns always got my imagination to soarin' like a kite. I never got over 'em entirely, for I've noticed lots of things about music and beasts that other animal men seem to overlook."

"To tell the truth, however, the pictures of the gentle missionaries playing on a cracked harmonica while the man-eating Bengal tiger halts his pounce upon them is a bit far-fetched. Music makes some zoo animals mean. In the circus, music is a sort of call to action for the beasts—they know it means parade and performance. It and the crowds of people get the jungle folk restless. Music is a sort of cue for them. I remember one group of lions that worked in the steel arena a season to a certain tune. One day the band struck. The show went on just the same, but when the animals came strolling into the arena and jumped upon their pedestals, they grazed around and at each other as tho they missed something. Then it developed that they would not work. Their trainers did everything in the world to get 'em going but it was no use. Those lions missed that music. They considered it a part of their act. But, of course, I would not say that they were waiting for their particular time. I think any would have served."
