

KIDDIES WERE ENTERTAINERS

MOTHER GOOSE FESTIVAL AND PAGEANT IS PLEASING.

The Illustrated Lecture, "Rambling Through Paradise," Shows a New World to La Grande.

Closing last evening with the famous "Chautauqua Salute," the different members gathered from all parts of the world of letters and art, voted number for number was better entertainment than any of its predecessors for years.

With a financial success it left a handsome net proceeds to the local Red Cross society, with which to carry forward its great work for liberty.

"The Kiddies" Entertain.

The Mother Goose festival, participated in by about 25 local kiddies, was a pronounced success. Beatrice Allen, the Junior Chautauqua supervisor, had charge of this unique performance, as Miss Clark was unable to reach La Grande in time to supervise this entertainment.

The Hawaiian Royal Quartet gave a concert both in the afternoon and evening, to an enthusiastic and delighted audience.

H. V. Adams, who has been heard here before, in his lecture, "Who Is to Blame for My Mistake," made a lasting impression on his large audience, with the expressed wish on its part of hearing him again in the future.

At the close of his lecture, Circuit Judge Knowles, amid great cheering from the audience, presented the Red Cross sweaters to the 47 selected men soon to go into training for the "war over there."

Miss May Murphy gave another one of her famous demonstrations of the right way to can fruit or vegetables, in the afternoon, and as the young lady has the reputation of knowing all about this business from a scientific standpoint, her demonstration, of course, was most instructive as well as highly interesting.

Going Through Paradise.

The immense throng of visitors listened in rapt attention to Mildred Leo Clemens' description of the Hawaiian Islands, the plantations, the volcanoes, the people—all of which was a revelation of that paradise of the Pacific.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH

Line Will Form On Time—Big Dance at Park In Evening.

Attention is called to the program of the line of march and formation of the various divisions in today's Fourth of July parade, as published Tuesday in the Evening Observer, as there will be no space in this early edition for its publication.

As there are scheduled many surprise features in the parade, not announced, those who wish to see the "whole show" will do well to be on the streets at an early hour, as the grand marshal of the day, H. E. Coullidge, and Captains Pearce and Nelson propose to move the head of the column on time.

Do not forget the big dance tonight in the Park pavilion. There will be good music, and what's more to the point, fun unlimited.

Frank Hilton will haul the Gold Star Mothers' car, and it may be added, that cars will be provided for the mothers of sailors as well as soldiers.
