ADVANCE CONTINUES.

The good news of yesterday is supplemented by still more encouraging reports today, and the forecast of the probable pincer movements are in no way haphazard and as far as can be discerned not a single hitch or mistake has occurred.

It is already nothing short of a distinct and telling victory. And it is made the more glorious and effective because it comes as a complete defeat of what was to have been the final plunge of the German army into Paris. They will never again get as near either the French capital or the channel ports as they are today, and they are seeing as much of the French and Belgian soil as they will ever see, and most likely more than they will ever care to see again. The turn of the tide is decisively in favor of the allied arms, and there is nothing to change it.

While no one discounts the valor of the allied troops through their four years of battling against the Prussian hosts, it is a fact that has recorded itself and will remain an indelible page of history that the sons of freedom from good old United States of America helped to turn the tide.

Honor to all our boys—each and every one of them. They have caught the idea of what was expected of them and have been found up to the standard in every way. There is no longer even a suspicion that the army bred and military raised and trained hosts of the Kaiser are in any way the super-men of which they have been wont to boast. They are not the equal, man for man, with any one of the Yankees, and they have less of inspiration than that which lies on the side of those who not only know what they are fighting for, but also know exactly how to go about the business. There is not one in the bunch that is not more efficient than the petted prince who heads the enemy forces. The dawn of the righteous day is breaking when there will be no more Kaisers and Ludendorffs and Hindenburgs and crown princes to disturb the peace of the world.

IMBIEB'S ENTERPRISE.
The people of Imbler have gone to considerable trouble and expense to provide a program of entertainment for the next few days that reflects credit on the promoters and on that community. The people of the county and La Grande have had at least two big events in which the people of the whole county have been invited to participate. It is no more than right that other sections of the county have their turn. It is Imbieb's turn now.

Such gatherings can be participated in now with much better zeal since all begin to realize that the cause for which America is fighting is reaching realization. It is one of the most important things that could be had to take a trip over to Imbler by way of acceptance of their invitation and enjoy the entertainment they have undertaken to provide and exchange to. Itations over the things that have come to pass within the week on the far-flung battle line in France. As friends, neighbors and all co-patriots in a common cause, every one who can should accept the cordial invitation to go out from the town of Imbler and join with them as appreciative guests of whole-hearted hosts.

MAN BOING HIS DUTY.
"For two years I suffered agonizing pains in my stomach, belching up sour and bitter fluids and gas. Tongue always coated. Doctors were unable to help me. The first dose of May's Wonderful Remedy made me feel 100 per cent better, and I am now feeling better than at any time in my life. I don't see my duty to advise other sufferers." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal in secret from the intestinal tract and stops the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. For sale by Druggists Everywhere.

Brief Synopsis Of The Famous Argyle Case.

John Argyle, an aged, eccentric New York millionaire, has one son, Bruce, and an adopted daughter, Mary Mazurek. He receives a telegram informing him that Bruce has married Nan Thornton, and flies into a rage, declaring that he will disinherit his son and make a new will leaving his wealth to Mary. That evening Bruce arrives with his wife, and after a stormy scene the old man drives them from his home. The next morning Argyle is found dead in his library. The police learn that the new will is in favor of Mary Mazurek and was made out by Argyle's lawyer, Hurley, the previous day, and signed, and that Mary had not retired the night of the murder. Her explanation that she was disturbed by the quarrel between Argyle and his son is not sufficient to divert suspicion.

In a sawmill at Gold Hill, Oregon, Tom Roberts had his arm so badly crushed on Monday that amputation of the arm was necessary. An attempt was made in the city council of Portland, when a resolution was offered by Commissioner Kellaher, to permit street cars to use the rails of the steam railroads having electric rails to reach the shipyard districts. The resolution called the attention of the federal railroad administration to the facilities offered by the railway lines of the Southern Pacific and Oregon Electric adjacent to the shipyards for the transportation of workers.

Filing in the Portland office recently on the 150,000 acres of Oregon and California land grant lands has closed, and 1,200 individual file for the 1227 tracts. To determine successful applicants where more than one filed for the same land, a drawing will be held July 22 at 10 o'clock. Twelve carloads, or about 200 tons, of cherries have been packed in barrels by the Salem Fruit union, and the packing of all the fruit on hand was practically completed Saturday night. The shipments go to the California Grace Fruit company, of San Francisco, the largest institution of its kind in the United States.

The G. M. Standifer Construction corporation wooden and steel buildings, have made plans for building at Vancouver, Wash., seven miles from Portland, a new town, the center of which will be a hotel to cost $250,000. Between 100 and 150 cottages, a parking and sewerage system and community center are included in the plans.

There will be hardly enough barley harvested in Umatilla county to meet the demand of the county is the prediction of R. W. Ayers, agent of the Farmers' Union grain agency. This goes to confirm the reports from other dealers, and men familiar with grain conditions in the county. From all parts of the county reports of barley are the same, in many places being a complete failure.

Irrigation of beans, which is absolutely necessary if there is to be any crop at all, is being used by J. O. Holt, manager of the Eugene Fruit Growers' Association. "The farmers shouldn't just sprinkle their beans," declared Mr. Holt, "they should flood them once a week."

OVER THE NORTHWEST

When young girls were introduced as ushers in one of the Baker theaters the other day, the Baker Herald commented on the event as follows:

Manager Cotter of the Baker theaters sprung an innovation on the many who attended the Orpheum last evening when they entered this popular playhouse and found three very pretty girls dressed in middie, blue skirts and white shoes ushering patrons to their seats—and let it be said that the young ladies were no less efficient than men ushers.

ROSEMUND, OREGON.—I suffered something terrible, had displacements so bad that I could scarcely stand on my feet. I was weak and nervous. My legs and feet ached—wouldn't walk—and I was troubled with constipation. I had a severe pain in my side. Then, during middle life, I used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Pleasant Pellets and they made me well and strong. Then, during middle life, I again took these medicines and got through so well—was strong and well—Miss W. D. Moore, 1783 N. Jackson St.
