Social and Personal

J. F. Logue, chief switch engineer of the Huntington yards, is a visitor in La Grande.

Levi Parks and A. J. Patten were among the residents who attended the reception yesterday evening.

Miss Daisy Robbs, of this city, is spending a few days in Union visiting with relatives and friends.

Guy Miller was a passenger this morning for Portland, where he will make application to join the artillery.

Cashier F. L. Meyers, of the La Grande National Bank, arrived home this morning from a hurried business trip to Portland.

Mrs. C. R. Simpkins has received word that her brother, C. H. Wood, who is a worker in the army Y. M. C. A., has safely arrived in France.

Lat Elmer was among the Summer-ville residents to assist in the farewell reception for the soldiers. He left on his return home this morning.

J. G. Snodgrass and his brother Will, left at an early hour this morning for a few days' fishing on Catherine creek. They expect to return with a long string of trout.

Joe Bush, a saw mill man recently of Bend, was in La Grande this morning en route to Enterprise, his former home, where he goes on a visit to his former friends in that locality.

M. A. Faulk, son of I. W. Faulk and an officer in the navy, arrived in La Grande this morning on a furlough. He will remain several days visiting relatives and friends.

Capt. A. Fairchild, who is at the head of the Enterprise Home Guards, arrived this morning from Eugene, where he has been for several weeks past undergoing a course of military schooling.

The up-country draft boys were not with the Union and Wallowa contingents leaving this morning. The men from Baker and the southern counties will entrain in a special at Baker tomorrow night.

Capt. William G. Smith, of the Salvation Army, in command in Pocatello, Ida, where he had charge of the work for about three years, arrived in La Grande this morning and will be in charge of the work here.

Mrs. Ella Rynearson was an arrival this morning from Meacham, where she has been with a huckleberry party. The lady reports fair success and brings the report that the mountain fruit is to be found in fair quantities in some localities. In other places the crop is poor.

Clyde Kiddle, for many years proprietor of the store at Island City, is now a member of the marines. He was due to leave Portland this morning in charge of a bunch of marine recruits for Mare Island. Although leaving a wife and child, Clyde Kiddle is showing his patriotism and determination to do his full part in the winning of the war.

"Mayor" G. E. McDonald, of Hilgard, was in the city last night to attend the evening's entertainment in honor of the selected men, soon to go to the camp, and incidentally, exhibited a string of trout which he had caught in the stream near Hilgard. They were certainly beauties, one big one weighing about a pound, or more, and they were rainbows, a few Eastern brook trout, as speckled as a Banded Rock hen. The "mess" as he called them, were intended for Superintendent Bollons' dinner table.

son, is in an army camp in California; Leonard is a resident of Logan, Utah; and a daughter, Mable, is at Salt Lake City; a married daughter, Mrs. Osborne Richens, lives in Union; John, the youngest son, and Martha, the youngest daughter, are living at home. The funeral arrangements have not been made on account of waiting to hear from the absent children.

Never Quite Satisfied.
It doesn't make any difference what a woman gets, there is always something a little more expensive she wishes she could have had.

EXHIBITED PATRIOTISM.

Conrad Neiderer had a prominent part in the flag display in the parade yesterday evening. Mr. Neiderer is a naturalized citizen and has a happy-spirited, patriotic son in France fighting for America. There is no Japhenated quality about this class of citizens.

PARADE WAS GREAT AFFAIR

SPECTACULAR FEATURE ATTENDED RECEPTION.

Oregon Guard Escorted Selective Draft Men and Participants in Lengthy Pageant.

Estimated by minutes required for the procession to pass a given point of observation, the parade yesterday evening was fully a mile in length.

Flags adorned all the cars in the parade, with few exceptions, and all the marchers carried small flags. The disbandment of the parade, nearly an hour after its start, took place at the Y. M. C. A., where it first formed into line.

Proceeding the parade, at about 7 o'clock, the selected men, both from La Grande and Wallowa county, were entertained at a banquet in the Hotel Foley dining room, where all had a most delightful time—one to be remembered amidst other and far away scenes.

Prof. J. David Haines' band furnished the music for both the parade and the dances, as well as rendering many selections during the evening.

Much is due for the success of the entire day and evening to the thoughtful care and efficiency of Chairman C. D. Emahiser, who was everywhere at once.

One of the pleasing things about the parade was the splendid way in which the selectives carried themselves and the way their leader, Lynn Bohnenkamp, handled them. He formed them in column of fours and marched them in that way, instilling a snap to their step and a soldierly bearing in all of them that was a marked distinction over the average group of selectives to leave here. The feature is another bit of evidence that the military training gained in the La Grande battalion of the Oregon guard has done much good. Mr. Bohnenkamp has just been promoted to sergeant and, having been a good student, an apt scholar and a good soldier, he has gained the ground work of his career in a way that should soon see him making fine progress in the game. He comes from B Company.

Earl Chandler, of Elgin, has given three months to the "Home Guard" and State Guard here with Company A. B. R. Knight was another member of Company B, of the guard here to leave with this group. Both of these will show among their peers. Scot Wheatley joined the recruit squad in Company A ten days before his departure and has a beginning over the men who had no military schooling. The list of men graduated from the guard here to active service the past year is now past the 60 mark and the great majority are non-commissioned officers. The lesson and moral is self-evident.

Capt. A. Fairchild, who is at the head of the Enterprise Home Guards, arrived this morning from Eugene, where he has been for several weeks past undergoing a course of military schooling.

The up-country draft boys were not with the Union and Wallowa contingents leaving this morning. The men from Baker and the southern counties will entrain in a special at Baker tomorrow night.

SENATE SCORES AIRCRAFT BOARD

COMMITTEE SAYS THAT 1200 AIRPLANES WERE JUNKED BECAUSE OF DANGER.

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 23.—(By United Press.)—The findings of the Senate Military Affairs subcommittee in the probe into the operations of the Aircraft Board have disclosed that millions of dollars were, in the opinion of the committee, wasted in experimenting with the English Bristol and other types of airplanes.

Senator Thomas, chairman of the committee stated that another charge against the Aircraft Board will be that 1200 training planes, which cost $5,000,000, were recently junked because they were too dangerous for use; that several aviators had been killed in flights with dangerous types of planes, and that novices in the engineering and administrative sections of the board have contributed to the delay in production.

All members of the committee agreed that the new Liberty motor is a complete success, but it is too heavy to be used in the Bristol type of airplane, and the war department has, therefore, discontinued the use of this plane.

BOYS MEET IN FRANCE

Former La Grande School Mates Run Across Each Other.

Mrs. Beck is in receipt of a letter from her son, Paul, who arrived in France in March. He said that his most exciting experience of the week was that of meeting Mood Eckley, who had but recently gone across. The unexpected meeting of two former school mates was the occasion for mutual felicitations.

A letter yesterday from Mood Eckley stated that the French people are very optimistic and believe that on account of the rapid arrival of the Americans the war will end by Christmas.

RICHARD FOLSOM CLEVELAND

Richard Folsom Cleveland, son of former President Cleveland, has enlisted in the United States marine corps. He has been eager to enter the service for a year, but was prevailed upon by members of his family to wait until he had completed his junior year at Princeton university.

RED CROSS MAKES HEAVY SHIPMENT

1,100 DISH TOWELS, 160 SWEATERS AND 705 PAIRS SOCKS SENT TO SEATTLE.

The Elks have set over the ladies' parlor in their temple as general headquarters office of The Red Cross. This relieves the congestion in the smaller room upstairs for the use of the local branch, affording by this means much better service.

Mrs. E. P. Mossman, chairman of the military relief committee, is in charge of the headquarters room, and reports that Saturday last they had inspected and shipped out from La Grande eight large boxes, consigned to the general headquarters for the northwest at Seattle. These boxes, containing, among other needed supplies, 1,100 dish towels, 160 sweaters and 705 pairs of socks.

Surgical dressings, which the local chapters are now working on, will be shipped to Seattle about the first of August.

All supplies made by the local chapters are brought to the general headquarters' room, inspected, packed and shipped.

Mrs. E. Rosenbaum is chairman of the local La Grande chapter, and some fifteen auxiliary societies report to her from Union, La Grande, Wallowa and vicinity.

Supreme Court Denies Petition Of Accused in Tong War Case.

SALEM, July 23.—(By United Press.)—The Supreme Court has denied a petition for a rehearing in the case of the State versus Chong Ben and other appellants from Union County.

Chong Ben and his associates were convicted of assault with intent to kill Eng Chong, locally known as "Charley," the old town gardener.

This was one phase of the Tong war which took place several months prior to the killing of Billy Eng, in front of the post office, two years ago.

MANY PARENTS VOLUNTEER

WEIGHING OF BABIES IS ACCEPTED AS DUTY.

This Is Not A Contest But Is A Means To Promote A More Healthful Childhood.

Some people may be surprised that five million and more babies have been entered in the weighing and measuring test without anyone taking a mother by the hand and saying firmly "You must. Uncle Sam says so."

The Children's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor was surprised too, that so many parents wanted to have their babies weighed and measured. The response to the test entirely outran its highest estimates. But it was not because anyone shook a finger at the millions of children in the United States, and said "You've got to let us know how much you weigh, and how tall you are."

The Children's Bureau believes that parents always want to do the thing that will enable them to be wiser parents; that they always want to do the thing that will help their children to be better and stronger.

The mothers and fathers of the country have responded with very definite decision to the Children's Year appeal to work now in war time for a healthier childhood, because "the health of the child is the power of the nation." The Children's Bureau urges that each community see to it that the parents shall not have had their children weighed and measured in vain, but that they organize such permanent work for the protection of children as will not only save the lives of the hundred thousand children to be saved during Children's Year, but will make their lives worth living, because the community sees that they have a fair
