MADGE KENNEDY THE STAR IN "OUR LITTLE WIFE"

Madge Kennedy is the star of the new Goldwyn picture, "Our Little Wife," from the play by Avery Hopwood, which will be shown at the Sherry Theatre today and tomorrow. She has the role of Dodo, a bride of a few minutes who grieves over the disappointment of several other men who wanted to marry her.

To alleviate their suffering, she decides to take three of them along with her on her honeymoon, a decision that stuns her husband, Herb, whose objections avail nothing. So off they go to Lakewood, the bridal couple and Dodo's three admirers—Dr. Elliott, Bob Brown and Tommy Beldon. Angered by his failure to have Dodo all to himself, Herb sends himself a telegram calling him back to the city. He takes two of Dodo's lovers with him, but the third, Dr. Elliott, stays over; and fortunately so, for Dodo learns the telegram was spurious and goes into hysterics. Herb returns to take Dodo back and finds her with Dr. Elliott. A scene ensues, but Dodo appeases her husband with the promise never to look at any other man. That promise she keeps long enough for Dr. Elliott to wed Fannie Weston and for Brown to become engaged to Angie Martin.

Dodo, however, rebels at her husband's neglect on their first wedding anniversary. She telephones to Dr. Elliott, and his bride is made jealous by the message. Meanwhile Brown's fiancée has called on Dodo, warning that she, too, has been neglected and revealing that she is going to Tommy Beldon's fancy dress party with another man. To prevent Angie from being compromised, Dodo phones to Brown to come and take her to the party. Then the real fun begins. This, with a good comedy, completes the program.

MARY PICKFORD COMING IN "THE LITTLE AMERICAN"

Mary Pickford's latest production "The Little American," which will be shown at the Star Theatre Saturday and Sunday, staged under the personal direction of Cecil B. DeMille, contains many thrilling incidents, one of which is the torpedoing of the great transatlantic liner, the "Veritania," while a ball is in progress. The spectator sees the beautiful ball room suddenly submerged and the throng of beautifully gowned dancers thrown into the water. By a strange coincidence, these big scenes were taken on the second anniversary of the sinking of the "Lusitania."

In his usual clever manner, Mr. DeMille also presents a remarkable conference between the head of the Prussians, his admiral and his commanding officer. The types selected to portray these characters are so strikingly like the real personages that the incident, when thrown on the screen, is most startling. Various other impersonations of particular effectiveness are disclosed in the Pickford picture, which has been pronounced one of the greatest war pictures and patriotic spectacles ever made.

Soda water business is always a feature at Silverthorn's, where Al Cain puts up those high class Sundaes.

ARC A DE

KITTY GORDON TONIGHT WITH A SUNSHINE COMEDY

Today is the last showing of the present bill at the Arcade Theatre, presenting Kitty Gordon in "The Beloved Adventuress," and also showing a very amusing comedy, "A Son of a Gun."

Miss Kitty Gordon is known as one of the superbly gowned women in the world, is the star of "The Beloved Adventuress." This picture not alone gives her the opportunity for the display of the most recent gorgeous creations of the world's leading fashion shops, but also shows her in the most intensely dramatic acting of her wonderfully successful career. The story told in this picture is filled with incident, is replete with gripping scenes and ends with a soul-satisfying climax after a breathless rush through five heart-rending reels. "The Beloved Adventuress" is a wholly exceptional offering. You will enjoy it.

"Pershing's Doughboys" will run Jack Pickford a race for favor at the Arcade Theatre Friday and Saturday. The Arcade Theatre is always on the alert for new features and the management considers itself fortunate in being awarded the privilege of showing the "Allies' Official War Review." This is an official government film taken by U. S. Signal Corps and Navy photographers "over there." The pictures are approved and issued by the U. S. Bureau of Public Information. They show first hand pictures of General Pershing's "Doughboys" on their way to cross the Rhine. "A reel a week till Pershing's bands play 'Dixie' in Berlin."

One of the most popular stories ever published in the Saturday Evening Post, "His Majesty Bunker Bean," has been dramatized for the screen as a Paramount picture, will appear next at the Arcade Friday and Saturday, starring clever young Jack Pickford, Louise Huff and an excellent cast will support Mr. Pickford in this adventure story which deals with the adventures of a young stenographer who believes himself to be a reincarnation of a great king of Egypt and until he is disillusioned, acts the part, marrying the daughter of his millionaire "boss" and making thousands of dollars in reckless Wall Street plunging. Director William D. Taylor, who also directed Mr. Pickford in "Seventeen," "The Varmint," and other successes, is responsible for the clever handling of the photographic version of this popular story.

Naturally, A new baby sister arrived at Freddie's house. Next day at kindergarten the teacher asked him what they were going to name his new little sister. Freddie thought deeply a minute and then exclaimed: "Oh, we're going to name it Mrs. Throckmorton, after my mother."

LA GRANDE PEOPLE SHOULD EAT PIE DAILY.

Pie is wholesome, combining both fruit and grain. Those who have trouble digesting pie should take ONE SPOONFUL simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler's-ka. This flushes the ENTIRE bowel tract, removes foul matter which poisoned your stomach for months and relieves ANY CASE sour stomach, gas or constipation and prevents appendicitis. Leaves stomach in condition to digest ANYTHING. C. D. Putman.

REED FUNERAL HELD

Body of Pioneer Laid Away—Several Children and Widow Survive.

This afternoon at 2:30 occurred the funeral of the late Samuel Reed, aged 75, who came to La Grande four years ago and has lived here since that time. He is survived by a wife, a son, John Reed, of Portland, Elmer Reed, of this city, Mrs. Mattie Harvey, of Enterprise, and Mrs. W. W. McCully, of La Grande, who recently lost her husband. The deceased had been ill for some time.

FARMING AS A SCIENCE.

work is hybrid wheat production by Superintendent Whycombe, which is being grown under different systems of cultural methods. One lot on a piece of land that had produced a crop of peas and bald barley for hay, and then seeded to this new crop last fall; another on summer fallow land, and a third on land that had produced a crop of corn for the silo the year before.

While there is a marked difference in appearance of these three plots, yet all give promise of splendid yields.

New Varieties Of Grains.

Most all the wheats and barleys grown on the farm are new varieties that have been produced on the farm. These are now being tested out as against known varieties. Not until they have been thoroughly tested and proven worthy are they allowed to leave the station.

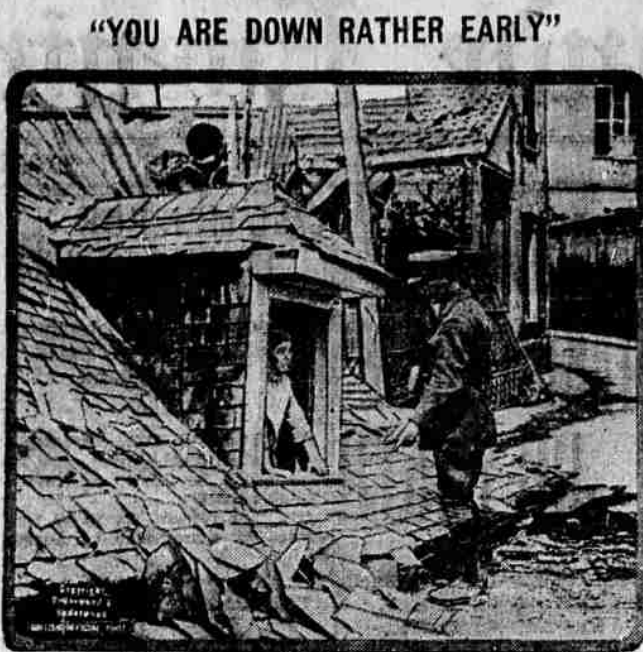

Some are now ready for distribution and many other new ones are being put through the process of elimination of the undesirable until they, too, will find places for themselves on the farms of Eastern Oregon.

Beardless Rye Found.

The dry-land farmers are not overlooked. Several wheat hybrids are being developed to meet their particular needs. Rye is one of the most dependable crops for the dry section. Fifteen new varieties of winter rye that have been introduced into this section by the Union Station are now being tested out, both under valley and dry-land conditions.

Superintendent Whycombe has been working for several years to produce a beardless rye, which would eliminate the objectionable features of rye as a hay producing crop. At first the feat was considered impossible to perform, but the Superintendent kept right on with the work until now he has several new productions that are practically free from beards, and one plant that is entirely free from them. If this plant proves to be a fixed type, it will be the first known beardless rye in the entire world.

Mr. Whycombe is still carrying on his work with the breeding of barleys. Several of the latter productions give promise of replacing some of his former productions that have already found favor among the Eastern Oregon farmers. Several crops are being tested out for silage purposes, among which is a field of corn that is making a splendid showing. The seed was secured from J. B. Stoddard, of La Grande, who has developed a very promising yellow dent variety.

In answer to the British Tommie's remark, "I see you've moved," this young lady replies: "Yes, so I have, but not willingly." The cause of her remarkable predicament and that of the house was a shell from a Boche gun on the western front which exploded near the foundation, causing the walls to cave in and thereby bringing the attic down to the level of the street.

In sections where corn cannot be grown successfully, field peas with either oats or bald barley are used for this purpose.

Another good silage mixture is alfalfa and bald barley, equal parts. The cattle in the feed yards at the station made better than two pounds gain per day fed on alfalfa hay and this silage.

Of all the hay crops produced at the farm, alfalfa is king, and of the many varieties tested so far, the Grim has given the best results.

Pure Bred Livestock.

Extensive feeding experiments are carried on each year with cattle, sheep and swine.

The station maintains a pure herd of Berkshire hogs and a flock of high grade range sheep. The increase from these is used in connection with the various feeding experiments.

In addition the station feeds each year about 150 head of cattle. These are purchased as feeders in the fall of the year and fed on various experimental rations during the winter months.

The Union Station, as it is in the heart of a stock raising country is destined to become the center for experimental feeding investigations with livestock for the entire state. Some very valuable results have already been obtained and the work accomplished compared most favorably with that of any other station in the United States.

Superintendent Whycombe was one of the first to advocate the feeding of silage to beef cattle. The Union Station, due to its experimental tests has demonstrated conclusively that good alfalfa hay and silage is one of the most profitable winter rations that can be fed to beef cattle.

Scientific Feeding of Hogs. In feeding hogs the Station has long advocated the practice of allowing the hogs access to alfalfa pasture while fattening. Instead of feeding grain alone. Many of our more successful farmers now finish their hogs in this way.

Superintendent Whycombe, at the present time is busily engaged in working out some substitute rations to take the place of more expensive grains.

Marked results have been obtained in hogging-off various crops in the field, and in this way the pigs do their own harvesting. A good crop of field peas will produce from $30 to $50 worth of pork per acre at the present market prices.

Sheep A Necessity.

It is the firm belief of Mr. Whycombe that there should be a small flock of sheep on most every farm. They are very useful in keeping down weeds, and at the same time will produce both wool and mutton. He practices what he preaches, and even maintains a few choice lambs on the Experiment Station lawn.

The Union Station owns a small farm tractor, which is used in connection with general farm work, as well as for stumping and grinding feeds for experimental feeding investigations.

Pure Bred Percheron Mares.

However, it is very noticeable that whenever they want to get some real work done, they get out five or six of their big, pure bred Percheron mares. These mares have produced some splendid colts. In fact, the Grand Champion Percheron Stallion at the Union Stock show this year was a colt bred and raised at the Union Station. This is quite an honor and speaks well for the class of horses that are being produced at the big State Farm.

This particular colt was sired by "Kroubir," an excellent individual owned by H. R. Hunter, of Island City.

The Station has also a Shire team that is not to be overlooked. These mares have produced two fine colts sired by "Gores Fashion," owned by W. B. Leadbetter, of Alliance.

Pure Bred Saddle Horses.

We always expect to find some saddle horses on a stock farm, but on the Experiment Station you find some real ones. These are all sired by the famous American saddle

Caring For The Soldier's Teeth

IMAGINE a soldier aiming a great gun behind the trenches—piloting a swift aeroplane above the clouds with a badly aching and decaying tooth. Uncle Sam sees to it that his men take care of their teeth. He has a staff of dentists in each camp who care for the teeth of the defenders of our country. It's the man behind the gun who must be kept in trim, otherwise the gun becomes useless.

In a short time, in the Boer war, England had to send home more than five thousand soldiers, suffering because of bad teeth. Bad and neglected teeth vitally affect the nation's health. Let many go through life under the foolish belief that artificial teeth are "something they can always have." Dentists have proved that artificial teeth, at best, do only one-tenth of the work required of natural teeth.

Many teeth, sound in outward appearance, are being undermined by decay. Often the pulp (nerve) becomes infected and dies, pus forms, which, taken into the blood, menaces your entire health.
