ARCADE

JACK PICKFORD TODAY AND TOMORROW.

Even funnier than "The Varmint" or Booth Tarkington's "Seventeen" in which he has recently appeared, is Jack Pickford's newest Paramount picture, "His Majesty Bunker Bean." This is to be shown at the Arcade theatre today and tomorrow and the welcome news has just come that clever Louise Huff will play the role of the engaging young "Flapper." Others in the cast are Edythe Chapman, Hart Hoxie and Gustav Seyffertitz. Hart Hoxie plays "The Greatest Pitcher" and Bunker Bean and the Flapper regard him as the world's eighth wonder, adding much to the fun of the production which abounds in humorous situations and side-splitting incidents. The gummy which Bunker insists on regarding as his former self is shown as the faithful dog—Napoleon, and the inimitable grandmother of the Flapper.

The Allies War Review will also be presented. These are official war pictures issued by the U. S. Bureau of Public Information.

MADIE KENNEDY ADDS "STUNT TO LAUGHING PICTURE."

"And Her Da'ing" New Phrase Supplementing "Her Eyes and Her Smile."

Madie Kennedy's legion of admirers will add "and her daring" to the phrase "and her eyes and her smile," which fits the charming Goldwyn star so admirably, after they see her in "Our Little Wife," Avery Hopwood's hilarious and exciting play, at the Sherry last show today.

One of the many thrilling incidents in the popular piece finds Miss Kennedy hanging from a fire-escape, with legs waving wildly, in an effort to extricate herself from a position that a jealous husband would look upon as compromising. And to emphasize her courageousness, a minute passes before she treads safely on the floor of the room he is so eager to flee.

All would have gone well with Dodo (Miss Kennedy) if she had donned a man's attire, to make her escape, instead of trying it in the gaudy costume she wore and which was caught in one of the many entanglements that make a place of peril, rather than a safety zone, out of the average New York apartment house fire-escape. Of course, one of Dodo's friends comes to her rescue, but only after she has fully demonstrated that stunts like that hold little terror for her.

"While I would rather give picture lovers a laugh than a thrill, I didn't mind that experience much," replied Miss Kennedy to an interviewer at the studio. "I know the public likes a thriller like that now and then, so why not furnish it, if there isn't too much danger in the taking?"

A comedy will also be shown.

YELLOW DOG CLUBS SUCCESS

"TEDDY" ROOSEVELT WRITES HIS ENDORSEMENT.

Movement Was Started By Henry Irving Dodge, In Witty Story In the East.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Theodore Roosevelt, with characteristic force has endorsed the nation-wide movement against the "Yellow Dogs" who are aiding the enemy by spreading German made stories and demoralizing lying rumors.

In a letter addressed to the National Deputy at Headquarters of the Anti-Yellow Dog Club, in New York City, our ex-president amplified the slogan of the Anti-Yellow Dog Clubs, which is "Free Speech, Yes! Free Lies, No!" and lends his moral support to the object of the clubs which is to make every corner of American 100 per cent American, by awakening the people to the treachery of the last propagandist who is using the mouth of thoughtless Americans to spread the gospel of the Kaiser. Mr. Roosevelt says: Mr. Chas. J. Glegrich, Deputy, Anti-Yellow Dog Club, 730 7th Ave., New York City.

Dear Sir:

I wish you all good luck in your efforts to start the Anti-Yellow Dog Clubs. It is the duty of the American people to put this war through to a finish. It is our duty to insist upon a 100 per cent Americanism in this land and to tolerate no divided allegiance. It is our duty to back up the government in extending the drafts in encouraging and insisting upon the speeding up of our warplane program, our field gun program and every other industry connected with the war and to back it up by sending the greatest possible number of soldiers abroad until you get an army on the fighting line, bigger than the combined lines of France and England. It is our duty to stand by every public servant who efficiently, fearlessly and patriotically does his duty along these lines.

It is no less our duty to fearlessly oppose any public servant who fails in any point to perform such duty. This isn't any one man's war, and isn't any government organization's war. It's the war of the American people. It's their duty to insist that all their servants carry it on with the highest efficiency. With all good wishes, Faithfully yours, (Signed) THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

The establishment of Anti-Yellow Dog Clubs throughout America, is the result of the suggestion in "The Yellow Dog," by Henry Irving Dodge, the well-known author of "Skinner's Dress Suit" and "Skinner's Big Idea."

In "The Yellow Dog" Henry Irving Dodge applied his genius for writing subtle comedy to the serious work of the moment and in the humor of his latest work of fiction, he pointed the way to completely suppress German propaganda. With poignant wit he christened the American who repeats the lies of the Kaiser's agents, a "Yellow Dog" and then showed how the yellow dog could be made to change color by the application of ridicule in the hands of the "Thoroughbred American Pop," a term he affectionately applied to the loyal American boy.

This idea has solved the problem of suppressing verbal disloyalty and thousands of clubs have already been formed throughout the country. In many instances Anti-Yellow Dog Clubs have been formed under the direct supervision of the heads of great manufacturing companies where it has the effect of ferreting out the deliberate agitators in the ranks of the workers.

"TELL MOTHER!"

Wounded U. S. Marines in France, When Wounded, Always Want to Send Word Home PARIS, France, August 16 (Special)—"Tell Mother!" These are always the first words of the wounded U. S. Marines, those devil dog fighters who routed the pick of the German forces in the recent battle on the Marne, when they are brought into hospitals here.

One Marine, just a boy, said: "I've been a sort of wanderer for the past six years. I guess the folks back home thought I was good for nothing. But now I wish you would write Mother for me and just tell her I made good."

ACQUIRING A PERFECT FIGURE

Most women who have perfect figures did not have them originally. They have acquired them. A woman gradually takes the shape of her corset so the corset produced by the most artistic designer is the right one to wear to secure a perfect figure.

MODART CORSETS Front Laced

are most symmetrically and artistically designed. They are comfortable, stylish and gradually mold the figure into those beautiful lines that every woman admires and desires.
