SEPT. 7TH AND 8TH TO BE PEACH DAYS — FAIR HELD AT BRIDGE

Peaches are one of the principal products which are produced in Eagle Valley, and on many occasions they have had rather limited market for such an excellent product. The fruit produced in Eagle Valley is of the first quality, but marketing of their products has always been more or less of a problem.

However, there are many in Union and Baker counties who should secure their supply of this fruit from these growers and in an effort to popularize their fruit and to create a greater interest in the industry September 7 and 8 have been set aside as Peach Day. County agent Tweed of Baker County has been the moving factor in bringing about this new departure in affairs in Eagle Valley. At this time exhibits of the various kinds will be held at Newbridge and fruit will be available for all those desiring to buy their stock and take it home with them. As car owners usually take a Sunday spin why not go over to Newbridge and help the people in Baker county in their new undertaking.

MAKING TRENCH CANDLES SO SAMMY CAN READ HIS LETTERS FROM HOME

No street! Our boys won't have to grope along in the dark as they serve in the trenches. Washington women are leaders of a candle-making movement which promises to spread all over the country. In the picture above are Mrs. Ida M. Galloway, chairman of the Potomac Auxiliary, and (seated) Mrs. Van Norman, two Washington matrons who have just finished making a lot of candles for use in the trenches. Cut a sheet of paper, say this newspaper after reading it, into strips about two inches wide, roll tightly, tie with a string, roll in paraffin for two hours, and set out to harden. The finished candle will burn from two to four hours.

Our Language.

Though a fawn may grow into a buck, gender conditions being right, there is no known process whereby fawning and bucking can be made to resemble each other. Somebody says the Philippine Islands could supply enough food for the human race if transportation could be arranged. No doubt. Also ladies could furnish heat for all the world's cities if a pipe line could be constructed and maintained.

Some Signs of Rain.

The sweating of water pitchers and coolers indicate that much moisture prevails in the air. It is worth noting and using in connection with other signs of rains. The dripping of eaves troughs is of the same origin, and is of some value.
