Closing Out Entire Stock of Automobile Sundries

On account of war conditions and my inability to get help I have decided to close out my large stock of sundries that I may have more time to devote to the "Fordson Tractors." While I will still maintain a service station for the cars I have sold, I will not attempt to maintain a large and complete garage and machine shop as I have in the past. My stock consists of:

500 Tires and Tubes of several standard makes and nearly all sizes.

(Tire salesmen all tell us that after the first of the year tires will not only be much higher in price, but hard to get at any price.)

1000 pair Weed chains. All sizes.

2000 gallons Monogram oil. (Eastern oil is very scarce on the western market.)

150 automobile springs, including springs for nearly all makes of cars.

2000 feet brake lining. Genuine asbestos. Made before the war. On account of the demand for asbestos fiber for war purposes, most of the brake lining on the market today contains a large per cent of cotton.

35 storage batteries. Will fit several makes of cars.

Hundreds of dollars of smaller sundries, which we are offering at "before the war" prices, for cash.

If you will need anything for your automobile in the next several months, don't fail to buy now, as my prices will save you many dollars.
