YANKEE FROM IOWA WANTED ACTION

BY Frank J. Taylor.
AN AMERICAN HOSPITAL IN FRANCE, Sept. 2.—(By Mail).—They give the boys such good care in the hospitals that now and then a man hates to go back to the front. You can tell how keen he is by what he says when the doctor says: "Well, Old Man, how do you feel? Think you're ready for the front again?"

Sometimes there are real or imaginary pains of half-real, half-imaginary pains which convalescents can produce for the occasion. Usually there are not.
Rufus Jacoby, of Waterloo, Ia., speaks with a southern accent. In his company there are "Joe and Mill and me," as Rufus puts it, "we're all brothers. Joe and Mill's been in the army a long time, and when this war started, I stole into the army too."

Rufus was wounded, which he did not mind, except that it vexed him to have to leave the company. Though he had a serious wound, he tried to get the doctor to let him stay with the company and "rest up a bit."

But the doctor couldn't do that, and Rufus went back to a base hospital where he was operated on, and soon was convalescing. Every day he pestered the doctor for permission to go back to the company.

"You see," he explained to the doctor many times over, "ordinarily there's Joe and Mill and me in the company. Here I've been away a long time and only Joe and Mill's out there, and they need me."

But Rufus didn't get away. He was not well enough.

Finally a morning came when the doctor said, "Well, boys, feel like going back to the line again?"

Some of them had aches and pains unregistered before, but as for Rufus, he said:

"Doctor, I'm a perfect man. I reckon I can be ready in about 7 seconds to go back to Joe and Mill and the company."

The doctor told Rufus he could return.

Rufus could hardly control himself.

"Doctor, this is the happiest moment of my life," he said, "we'll never forget it, Joe and Mill and me and the company."

It was recently stated that a prisoner was escorted from here to Pendleton by the chief of police of that city, naming as that officer, E. M. Cady. The chief of police of Pendleton is A. L. Roberts, formerly of La Grande. Mr. Cady is traveling agent for the Eastern Oregon State Hospital, and the man referred to was a Mexican who was taken to the hospital.

SHERRY'S

EARLUM FIGHTS 20 MINERS.

Gives Stirling Verston in "The Plunderer."

William Farnum has become famous for his screen fights. In "The Plunderer," he lives up to his reputation. The story is that of a youth who is left a gold mine and goes out to work it. He finds that the man who has a claim next to his wants his mine. This man uses desperate means to separate the youth from his land. Attempts at murder are nothing to him.

The youth does not bother this man or his aids until a friend of the youth is killed. Then the fight begins. Farnum wades in and swings his mighty arms right and left until he has cleaned up a room of twenty husky miners. It is a stirring moment in a splendid play. "The Plunderer" will be shown at the Sherry Theater today only.

OREGON HAS PROBLEM

State Will Be Well Represented At Tuberculosis Conference.

Oregon has a big tuberculosis problem. The names and addresses of 133 Oregon soldiers who have been rejected because of tuberculosis have been sent by the Surgeon General to the Oregon Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis and the men have been returned to their home state. The government claims no responsibility in the care of these men, the inference being that since they have been in the service less than three months they probably had the disease in latent form before entering a cantonment. The question of how to care for these men will be discussed at the Northwestern Tuberculosis Conference to be held in Spokane, Sept. 27 and 28. The district includes Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Utah, Nevada, Montana and Wyoming.

Oregon will be well represented at this conference on the program. Major Ralph Matson, well known tuberculosis specialist of Oregon, now stationed at Camp Lewis, will speak on "The Diagnosis of Tuberculosis for Admission to the Army." Mrs. Saldie Orr-Dunbar, executive secretary of the Oregon Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, will speak on "The Use and Value of Surveys." Dr. Marr Blanton, associate director of the tuberculosis clinic of the Portland Free Dispensary, will speak on "The Value of Free Clinics." Miss Emma D. Gritinger, former superintendent of the Portland Visiting Nurse Association, will conduct the round table on "Public Health Nursing."

Other Oregonians who will attend are: Dr. R. H. Cliff, county health officer; Miss Marion Crowe, Portland tuberculosis nurse; Miss Mary Campbell, superintendent Open Air Sanitarium; Mrs. Blanche Matland, tuberculosis nurse of the Visiting Nurse Association; Mrs. W. P. Baynton, director of the Oregon Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis for Lane County, and Dr. Robert L. Holt, secretary of the State Board of Health.

Delegates to the Conference are being appointed by Mayors and Boards of County Commissioners and by other organizations interested in public welfare. For further information write or call the offices of the Oregon Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, 503 Corbett Building, Portland, Oregon.

STRONG ARM COLLECTION IS PROPOSED

lection of the different amounts, which we are convinced have been fairly rated."

Reports From State.
PORTLAND, Sept. 28.—(By United Press).—Fifteen counties of Oregon are over the top and more than 120 towns scattered through the state have achieved their quotas. Yamhill, Willamette, Wasco, Washington, Clackamas, Douglas, Deschutes, Coos, Curry and Gilliam counties went over the top yesterday.

The state showed a remarkable spurt yesterday, and with many of the communities still to be heard from the showing was considered very satisfactory by the State Director, John L. Etheridge.

Some of the large cities which passed the one hundred per cent mark yesterday are Albany, Marshfield, North Bend, The Dalles and Forest Grove, and a good many towns stand 75 per cent subscribed, and may be reported over the top in the early hours of today.

Portland's city campaign yesterday was feverish in its intensity, with flying squadrons returning with double subscriptions from many sources. The campaign yesterday devolved to a point where slackers were made mighty uncomfortable. Special committees made it very plain that the direction of duty lay in one way only to all those whom the committee felt had not done their part.

Portland is going to clean up in a hurry, and is not going to do it in any faltering manner. It is expending every effort to put the burden where it belongs, and the quota will be put there by those who should put it there. The campaign was not without its exciting moments. One such moment was when a great war balloon, "Bimpt" as it is called on the Western front broke away and sailed west to the Pacific.

This balloon was preparing to make a surprise attack on the city and was being filled with gas at the works of the Portland Gas Company in the northern part of the city. When all was ready to start on its trip to the heart of the city it broke from its moorings sailing high into the sky, and bearing the query "Are You Pledged?" When last seen it was west of southwest by west from Portland and still going for the Pacific ocean.

New Vegetable Butter.

READY TO SERVE.

The M. E. church, South, of La Grande is ready to serve the people any way possible.

As pastor I am giving all my time for the betterment of the city and have as helpers and co-laborers in the church Rev. C. D. Beldin who is a boiler-maker in the railroad shop; Rev. D. J. Randall, who is agent for the Sabbath school union; and Rev. E. L. Gritton, who lives on a farm between La Grande and Hot Lake. These are busy men, but can be drawn upon for emergency cases. So if we can help the churches that have no preacher in any way we are ready to do what we can.

"If our help is needed consult me at any time and I will call a meeting and we will arrange our plans to meet the situation. Give us time to do this for we need to consult before taking up new work."
W. B. SMITH, Pastor

No Experience.
A kindergarten teacher was telling the children in her department about sparrows; concerning their ways and habits. Among other things she said: "The sparrows eat up the worms. Now children, which would you rather have, worms or sparrows?" "I've never had sparrows," piped up a tiny boy near the front.

Have Varying Terms.
Judges of the state supreme courts are chosen for a fixed term of years, varying from two in Vermont to 21 in Pennsylvania. Eighteen states have a term of six years, seven states of eight years, five states of 12 years, one of fourteen years and one of fifteen. Indiana has six years. In all of the states they are eligible for re-election.
