ARCADE

UNION YOUTH IN COUNTY JAIL

BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY ON BURGLARY CHARGE

Norman Evans, Caught in Store the Night of January 12th, Given Hearing Friday.

Norman Evans, 18 years old, of Union was brought to the county jail in this city last week on a charge of attempted burglary and at his preliminary hearing on Friday was bound over to the grand jury.

Young Evans was arrested Sunday night, January 12th, in Tony Smith's store at Union. According to the Union Republican Evans was tracked from the Golden Rule store, about which he had been prowling. Frank Conner of the Golden Rule noticed his tracks in the fresh snow as he was leaving to go home about 10:30 o'clock at night, and followed them to Smith's store. A number of citizens surrounded the place and found Evans inside.

The Republican continues: "Young Evans appears to have been a bad actor, and has to his credit at least two terms in the reform school. It is generally supposed that he was responsible for the looting of the Spencer pool hall last week also.

"In any event, he will probably be placed where he will be in safe keeping for this latest offense.

"It is to be regretted that a young man should have so persistently continued a course to the bad, but he appears to have been determined to break into prison, and no doubt will be accommodated this time.

"Judging by the trail Evans left around town Sunday evening, he had his eye upon several other places with a view to burglary, but his capture nipped the plan in the bud."

ASSASSIN'S PLOT FOILED

GENEVA, Jan. 20.—Several German and Russian Bolsheviks have been arrested by the Lavaunne police. It is said they were bearing false passports and were on their way to Paris. The Gazette of Lavaunne says:

"The Bolsheviks under arrest plotted against the lives of Premier Clemenceau, President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George. The plot was backed by German gold."

IMPORTATION UNRESTRICTED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Senator Chamberlain has advised the Henry Cowell Lime & Cement company of Portland that all restrictions on the importation of lime were removed on January 1, according to information received from the war trade board.

FEDERAL BOARD EDUCATING MEN

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION BOARD STARTING BIG WORK

Progress is Being Made in Rehabilitation of Disabled Discharged Soldiers and Sailors.

Disabled men registered with the Federal Board for vocational education on December 28, 1918, numbered 12,684. These were at the time of their registration all of them prospective candidates for vocational training and placement by the board. In forty-nine cases compensation for disabilities had been denied by the War Risk Insurance Bureau on or before December 28, in 9,317 cases compensation had not been determined at that date and in 2,318 cases compensation had been awarded. Definite action providing training cannot be taken in individual cases prior to the award of compensation by the War Risk Insurance Bureau, although in such cases contracts with the men can be established and preliminary vocational surveys completed.

The fourteen district officers of the federal board had reported 2,183 cases classified as prospects for training, and district case boards had recommended 520 men for specific courses of training. Men reported as placed in civil employment was 1,455. In the table below the distribution of these cases is shown by district vocational officers. District No. 5, embracing the states of North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Tennessee, reported the largest number of registrations, 2,230. District No. 9, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri, reported 1,573 cases; District No. 2, Connecticut, New York and New Jersey, 1,429 cases; district No. 7, Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky, 1,317 cases; district No. 8, Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin, 1,142 cases and other districts smaller numbers as shown in the table.

Information regarding men discharged from the army or navy is obtained from various sources, including the War Risk Insurance Bureau, the Department of Labor, hospitals, the Red Cross, the man himself and friends or relatives of the man. Contracts with the men registered are established immediately by letter or by personal interview. Vocational surveys are then completed to determine the man's vocational aptitudes, preferences, and capabilities, and upon the basis of all data collected specific recommendations are made for training or placement, as the case may require.

Diversity of Training

A tentative classification of the first 157 cases approved for training indicates the wide diversity of vocations for which our disabled men are already being trained. For these first 157 cases 62 distinct courses of training are reported, as shown in the following summary statement. If the tabulation had been extended to include all of the 527 cases recommended for training by the district officers, an even greater diversity of courses would be shown.

The first 157 cases approved for training, classified by character of course elected are:

In 25 of the 157 cases some line of agricultural training, crop or stock farming, dairying, poultry raising, farm management, was elected and approved after careful survey of the applicant's qualifications and preferences. And it would thus appear from the data already in hand that agriculture will attract a large proportion of the disabled men. Commercial courses had been approved in 19 cases, general business courses in 12 cases, and motor mechanics in 11 cases.

Training Courses Provided

Evidence that our disabled men are being given worthwhile training may be found in the character of the institutions in which they have been placed for training. The 157 first cases classified above were distributed for training to the institutions listed below. It should be noted, however, that in some instances men were sent for training directly into industrial establishments or were inducted directly into trades. In all such cases adequate provision has been made for instruction under proper guarantees and supervision.

The list of institutions in which disabled men have been placed for training is as follows:

- Amherst college, Boston University Law School, Harvard University, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Fiume's Department store, Hawley School of Engineering, Bryant & Stratton and Burdette Business Colleges, Soule Business College, Franklin Union College, Harvard Law School, New York School of Commerce, Columbia University, Colorado University, Pratt Institute, Lehigh University, Strayer's Business College, Maryland State Agricultural College, Howard University, David Rankin Trade School, Hampton Institute, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Virginia Polytechnic, George Washington University, Maryland University, North Carolina Agricultural & Mechanical college, Tuskegee Institute, Tennessee State Agricultural College, Clemson College, University of Tennessee, Tulane University, Mississippi Agricultural & Mechanical College, Ohio State University, Baltimore Business College, Purdue University, Michigan State Agricultural College, Indiana State Normal College, University of Michigan, University of Illinois, Nebraska University, Duwoudy Institute, University of Nevada, University of California, University of Texas, American Institute for Banking.

Number Increasing Rapidly

Reports indicate that by January 31, the number of cases approved for training will be approximately 1,000. Preliminary surveys of individual cases are being completed by the district officers, and recommendations for training forwarded to the central office for approval.

WALLOWA YOUNG MAN DIED IN TENNESSEE

WALLOWA, Jan. 21.—Lewis Fairchild, a resident of Wallowa county for nineteen years, died at Memphis, Tenn., January 3, 1919. His body was brought home for burial. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Fairchild. On December 21 he left Wallowa for a visit to his old home in Tennessee. On the way he contracted a cold, which developed into bronchial pneumonia, and death followed. His parents, two sisters, Mrs. Cora Wolfe and Miss Margaret Fairchild, and two brothers, John and Jake Fairchild, all of Wallowa, survive.
